PASTORS DEMAND RETRIAL FOR FRANK

Condemnation of Conviction by Public Clamor Voiced in Many Atlanta Pulpits.

BURNS NOW ON THE GROUND

Will Remain Until He Completes His Inquiry—Frank Answers Series of Unfriendly Questions.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 15.—In sermons delivered to-day by several of the ablest ministers of Atlanta strong demands were made for a new trial for Leo M. Frank, under sentence of death for the murder of Mary Phagan. All these ministers declare that Frank has not been fairly tried, and that to put him to death under the present sentence would forever disgrace the State. The ministers asserted that in finding Frank guilty the jury simply yielded to public clamor for a victim.

One of the strongest sermons was delivered by the Rev. Dr. A. R. Holderby, pastor of Moore Memorial Presbyterian Church. Dr. Holderby said in his sermon:

As a preacher of the Gospel and as a citizen of Georgia, it becomes my duty for the second time to warn the State of the sin and danger of taking a human life unless it is absolutely sure that that life has been duly forfeited. Leo M. Frank has been condemned to die. I am not asserting his guilt or innocence, nor do I care any more about Frank than I would about the poorest negro in Georgia. I never heard of this man until his arrest.

I would feel it my duty to appeal for a fair trial for any man, and that is what Frank has not had, as every unbiased man must admit—nor is it likely he can get such a trial in Atlanta, on account of the prejudice against him. This should not be, but it is true. It would be unfair to hang a sheep-killing dog on the evidence upon which Frank has been convicted.

Should this man be executed, and it be discovered that he was not guilty, then the State of Georgia would be guilty of an atrocious murder.

The Rev. Dr. L. O. Bricker, pastor of the First Christian Church, also strongly pleaded for a new trial. Dr. Bricker said:

A Fair Trial Impossible.

I believe that you will agree with me in saying that between the day of his arrest and the day of the opening of his trial Frank had already been convicted in the minds of 90 per cent. of the people, solely on the strength of the revolting and seemingly convincing stories reflecting upon his moral character as they were printed in the newspapers.

We were in no frame of mind to give him or any other man under the circumstances a fair and impartial trial. We were inflamed and indignant to the point of unreason. Looking back now, I can see that I was in no frame of mind to grant the accused a fair trial. I thought I was. I remember how bitterly I resented a man saying in my presence, "Frank has not had a fair trial." He had had the sort of trial I wanted him to have, and to admit that it had not been fair would have been to admit that I was unfair and unjust—and we do not readily do that. We believed that he was guilty, and it was the verdict we wanted rather than a trial.

Frank should have a new trial because of the apparent insufficiency of evidence under which he was convicted. Under ordinary circumstances we in the South do not take the word of a negro against the word of a white man, but we were willing to believe the unsupported story of a drunken, worthless, jailbird negro, even after he had sworn to three or four other affidavits and had admitted criminal knowledge and complicity in the crime and was a self-confessed liar and perjurer—in the face of all that, we were willing to believe his last story.

I submit that Frank should have a new trial because, under the awful tension of public feeling, it was next to impossible for a jury of our fellow human beings to have granted him a fair, fearless, and impartial trial. I do not know whether the shouts of the masses of people reached the Judge and jury, but they could not help being deeply impressed and profoundly influenced by what the people were thinking and feeling.

The Rev. C. C. Cary, a leading Methodist minister, after demanding a new trial for Frank, said: "To hang Frank on the evidence of a self-confessed degraded negro perjurer would be nothing short of a legal calamity."

The Rev. F. A. Line, pastor of the First Universalist Church, said: "That Mr. Frank has not had a fair trial—could not have a fair trial under the conditions prevailing at the time—is the conviction of an ever increasing number. This fact in itself should be sufficient for the fair-minded people of Atlanta and vicinity."

The Rev. Julien S. Rodgers, a leading Baptist minister, in a sermon to-night declared:

Leo M. Frank has never been fairly convicted of the crime. I would not hang a yellow dog on Jim Conley's testimony, much less a white man, who comes into court with a character heretofore unchallenged.

The great State of Georgia can well afford to spend a King's ransom rather than hang a man about whose guilt there is, at least, a great shadow of doubt. I am sure, therefore, that Leo Frank should be given a new trial, and, if necessary, a change of venue.

The fact that Frank is a Jew should not discredit him. His race is the miracle of the ages. It stands out conspicuously for patience, forbearance and obedience to law. If Leo Frank is a criminal, it is not because he is a Jew, but in spite of it.

There were also made public to-day scores of letters from men and women in Georgia and other Southern States, declaring that Frank was a victim of public clamor, and that Georgia would be forever disgraced if a new trial should not be granted to him. Papers in Thomasville, Dalton, and other Georgia towns are also quoted as supporting the demand for a new trial.

Burns Again in Atlanta.

Detective W. J. Burns arrived here from New York this afternoon and now will begin active work on the case. Mr. Burns would give no intimation as to his future moves. Whether he would endeavor first to question Jim Conley in the Tower he would not say. It is reported, however, that his first act will be to interview Frank.

Mr. Burns has come for a lengthy stay. Probably he will not leave Atlanta until his investigation has been completed and his final report has been rendered. He has said nothing for publication regarding the investigation he has been making into the case in New York and other cities.

Frank was cheered by the news of Burns's arrival. He had nothing new to say for publication, however. He SHIPS TALK 45 MILES APART.

Marconi's Wireless 'Phone a Success—Hears Signal at 4,062 Miles.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

ROME, March 15.—William Marconi has achieved some notable successes with his long-distance wireless telephonic communication.

The inventor has been conducting a series of experiments from Italian warships on the high seas. During these experiments he used his newly devised high-sounding receivers in connection with his phonographic registers and repeaters.

On the first day, while the warships were off the Sicilian Coast, Mr. Marconi received some very clear messages from Clifden, 1,750 miles away. The next evening the fleet received signals from Canada, 4,062 miles distant, by means of wireless telephony.

On the last day radio-telephonic conversation between warships in motion succeeded perfectly with a minimum expenditure of energy. Communication under these conditions was kept up between vessels forty-five miles apart at sea, and up to sixteen miles with land interposed between the communicating vessels. The conversation was kept up without a break and with great success for a spell of twelve hours.

DROWNED WHEN ICE BROKE.

One Boy Lost in Bronx River and Another Rescued Unconscious.

Led by 10-year-old Frank Longo of 2,385 Lorillard Place, the Bronx, and his 13-year-old cousin, James Sebastanelli of Essex Street, Cypress Hills, a dozen boys ran onto the thin ice of the Bronx River at 182d Street yesterday afternoon, and headed for Mosquito Island. Capt. A. V. Purdy, in charge of a nearby boathouse, shouted a warning to the boys, but they jeered at him. Longo kept in the lead and had almost attained the island, when the ice gave way and he fell into seven feet of water. Sebastanelli tried to save him, and went under also.

Many in a crowd of 40,000 persons, the largest which has visited Bronx Park since last Summer, saw the two boys floundering in the water. A man, shabbily clothed, ran out on the ice, jumped into the water and picked up the Longo boy, who was unconscious. He then broke the ice with his free arm until he found some firm enough to bear the child's weight. Other men threw him a rope and got him and the boy to shore. It took Dr. Dolan of Fordham Hospital half an hour to revive the lad. Meanwhile the man who had saved Longo went away without giving his name.

Herman F. Merkle, chief forester of Bronx Park, dived into the water after the Sebastanelli boy, who had disappeared, but was unable to find him. After breaking the ice for several rods, Capt. Purdy found the body four hours later under the ice two blocks away from where the boy had fallen in.

GIBBONS WORKS FOR PEACE.

Heads Baltimore Committee to Urge a "Naval Holiday."

BALTIMORE, March 15.—Cardinal Gibbons, Bishop John G. Murray of the Protestant Episcopal Church, Gov. Goldsborough, Dr. Ira Remsen of Johns Hopkins University, and B. Howell Griswold, Jr., have consented to form a preliminary committee to organize a movement to bring together in Baltimore in November of this year an international peace conference, designed to crystallize into a national sentiment behind the proposal of Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the British Admiralty, for a year's suspension of battleship construction.

Mr. Churchill's suggestion, made several months ago, was taken up by Congressman W. L. Hensley of Missouri last December and indorsed in a resolution adopted by the House of Representatives after several days' debate, with only eleven dissenting votes.

The committee which has agreed to start the movement is merely preliminary to a general organization. The members are expected to meet in a few days at the call of Mr. Griswold, who has consented to act as Temporary Chairman, and will then ask for the co-operation of leaders throughout the country.

Baltimore was suggested as the meeting place because Maryland was the pioneer in the movement for religious liberty and religious peace in this country and because of the city's proximity to Washington.

SPARED TREE ON GIRL'S PLEA

But It Fell in the Night and Meyers Is Out $500 for Repairs.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW PROVIDENCE, N. J., March 15.—It cost William Meyers of River Road $500 to be poetic a few days ago, when a sweet-faced little miss living in his neighborhood came to him as he was about to cut down a large elm in his yard and pleaded with him to let it stand. The words of "Woodman, Spare That Tree," flashed through Meyers's mind, and he threw his axe aside and assured his visitor that the tree thenceforth would be regarded as a sacred thing.

Last night Mr. Meyers was aroused by a report like that of a 12-inch gun, and then something struck the house that shook it from end to end. Going out to investigate, he found that the tree he had spared had fallen against the house, ripping out a bay window on the first floor. It will cost $500 to repair the damage.

POLITICS IN NEW HAVEN CASE

Administration Urged to Modify Terms of Dissolution.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Jesse C. Adkins, Assistant Attorney General, and T. W. Gregory, special Assistant Attorney in the Department of Justice, left Washington to-night for Providence, R. I., on business in connection with the proceedings for the voluntary dissolution of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railway merger. Their business, it is supposed, relates to the effort of the New Haven to retain control of part of its trolley system and all of its wharfage and other water terminal privileges and properties.

Irritation is felt at the Department of Justice over what officials say is an attempt to bring politics into the dissolution proceedings. It is said that representations have been made to President Wilson that harsh terms of dissolution may produce a reaction in the New Haven's favor in New England and that the Administration may suffer loss of popularity in consequence.

SMASH WINDOW FOR AN I. W. W. CARTOON

Following Caller's Threat a Stone Is Hurled Through Broadway Store Front.

CAREY HOLDS HIS GROUND

Asserts That Under Compulsion He Will Not Remove Picture Ridiculing Tannenbaum's Army.

A large show window of the store of John Carey, wholesale and retail dealer in fountain pens at 1,433 Broadway, behind which was displayed a cartoon based on the I. W. W.'s recent activities, was broken between 12 o'clock on Saturday night and early yesterday afternoon by somebody who threw a stone through it. Mr. Carey had been warned that something would happen if he did not remove the cartoon. The police are making an investigation.

Mr. Carey said yesterday that it would cost $150 to replace the window. He was more determined than ever not to remove the cartoon under compulsion, he said, and the I. W. W. could not intimidate him. After the showcases in the window had been restored to order, he ordered the cartoon replaced. There was a crowd of men and women in front of the store yesterday afternoon and last evening.

Mr. Carey's store is on the west side of Broadway, just above Fortieth Street. For several years it has been the custom of the proprietor to draw trade by posting in his show windows cartoons on current news topics. For the past week one of the cartoons has been devoted to the I. W. W., and the demands of its "Army of the Unemployed" for free food and shelter. Hundreds of passersby have paused to chuckle at the pictures of hoboes and the sayings that the artist has put in their mouths.

The cartoon which caused the stone-throwing is entitled "The Worst Is Yet to Come." It does not mention the I. W. W., by name, but one of the central figures is pictured as saying:

I Want What I Want When I Won't Work.

The artist makes the scene a pretentious Broadway restaurant, through the entrance of which a crowd of tramps advances, bearing a sign: "Give us work and sleep at the same time." In the background are a number of policemen, who are ready to shut the doors when all have entered. On a table in the foreground stands a youth, supposed to be Tannenbaum, who says:

We started out for Bread—Now we want
Chocolate eclairs and
Charlotte russes.
Let slaves work.

Two of the most disreputable looking men in the group are swaggering up a broad staircase, while, according to the artist, they order the manager to "lead us to de best room in de joint—one wid a perfumed bath." Two others are bidding an assistant manager to "call us at noon an' have de limousine waitin'." Another is pointing to his approaching comrades and telling the head waiter that he is giving just a simple little bachelor dinner "to me frens" and wants a table for six. Still another is about to hand the waiter a tip, represented by a brick. Hyman Finkelstein, who had $750 in his possession when he was arrested in the Church of St. Alphonsus, is depicted as the "$750 Beauty." Greenbacks are sticking out of every one of his pockets, and a number of waiters are gazing at him in open-mouthed admiration. One of them is represented as saying: "Am I dippy, or is that regular dough?"

Mr. Carey said that about 11 o'clock on Saturday night a roughly dressed man with several days' growth of beard entered the store and demanded to see "de boss." When Mr. Carey greeted him the caller at once demanded that the cartoon be withdrawn from exhibition and from the "cartoon service," which the proprietor supplies to several merchants. Mr. Carey ordered the man to leave the store.

As he opened the door the man turned and said, "If you don't take that picture out of your window pretty quick something is going to happen to you that you won't like."

"Get out of here," said Mr. Carey, as he walked toward the door.

"All right," said the intruder; "but don't forget what I've told you. Something's going to happen."

Mr. Carey said that he closed his store at 12 o'clock on Saturday night, and when he left saw the man who had made the threat loitering with two or three others at a little distance. He paid no attention to them and was not molested on his way home.

The fireman of the building in which Mr. Carey has his store was called to the street early yesterday afternoon by a newsboy, who showed him the broken window. Mr. Carey notified the police. Detectives will watch the I. W. W. meetings in the hope of catching the man who gave Mr. Carey the warning.

ADMONISHES THE LAZY.

Dr. Grinton Says the Church Is Not a "Good Thing to be Worked."

The Rev. Dr. George W. Grinton, pastor of Fordham Methodist Episcopal Church, Marion Avenue and Fordham Road, the Bronx, in his sermon last night, said:

"The Church is not a 'good thing' to be worked by the lazy and idle classes. Our attention has been called recently to the vast army of unemployed by certain gallery plays upon the part of the group, who claimed to belong to the I. W. W. They entered churches and demanded assistance, interfering with the services and claiming the right to be heard.

"These men have since learned that their radical action made them amenable to the law. The church, as a whole, is not indifferent in regard to the poor and unfortunate. Through many agencies she is constantly helping them. As a matter of fact from a careful study of the situation it is only about one man out of a hundred who desires to help himself. The other ninety and nine are too lazy to help themselves. I have been affiliated with wood yards and industrial homes, and started many a Weary Willie, who needed assistance, in that direction, and gave him car fare to reach his destination, but I have yet to hear of a single man who arrived.

"It is a piece of impertinence for a hungry man to dictate terms and demand union wages and union hours or no work. He is looking for work and praying that he may not find it. Where there is a will there is a way, and half a loaf is better than no bread. Gov. Glynn has the right idea when he desires to provide work for the unemployed upon farms. Ninety-nine of them will turn the offer down.

"They prefer the excitement of the city. To find the hundredth man, who really desires to help himself, is our task. If a man really desires to straighten up, he may suffer some, but a way will be provided. There are plenty of

LLAMA FOR BRYAN ORDERED DEPORTED

With Five Others from Argentina, It Is Found to Have Foot and Mouth Disease.

A prize curly-haired llama, which arrived here yesterday on the Lamport & Holt liner Verdi for William J. Bryan, was barred by the live stock inspectors, together with five other llamas which had been sent here from Buenos Aires. Mr. Bryan's llama was the gift of the Mayor of Buenos Aires, and, according to the officers of the Verdi, it had done well all the way up on a diet of the juice of Mendoza grapes. But it was found to be afflicted with the dangerous and highly contagious foot and mouth disease and ordered deported.

When an application was made to the Bureau of Animal Industry of the Department of Agriculture for permits to land the six llamas from the Verdi and send them to the Quarantine station, Inspector J. F. Thorne went to the pier in Brooklyn to see the animals. After a careful examination of the prize llama for Secretary Bryan and the other five llamas of inferior degree, he ordered them all to be deported on the ground that they had the foot and mouth disease.

Thomas H. Foley, to whom five for the Kansas City Zoo were consigned, imported three llamas about eighteen months ago on the Vasari, which were deported for the same reason. The bodies of the animals were washed ashore the next day on the Jersey coast. As the animals would not be allowed to land again in Argentina or Brazil, the only thing the Captain of the steamer can do is to have them shot and thrown overboard, which will happen to the six now ordered deported.

Secretary Bryan's llama, which is a very fine specimen of the South American animal, was housed on the after deck of the steamer in a cage which had been specially constructed for the voyage. According to the ship's officers, the llama appeared to suffer from melancholia the day after leaving Buenos Aires, but when a large glass of grape juice was given to it, the curly haired animal braced up immediately.

When the llama was brought on board the Verdi by four minor officials from the Mayor's office, one of them said its name was Sancho, and another man said that it was Maria. Then they went ashore and left the crew of the steamer to make their choice. A tag attached to the cage bore the inscription, "To the Minister of the Interior at Washington, from the Mayor of Buenos Aires." According to Purser Jordan the animal was shipped under the care of Alejandro Jascalevich of the Museo Social Argentino, who had also three cases of books for Theodore Roosevelt in his care, on the ship's manifest. When the butcher reported to Mr. Jascalevich, the second day out, that the prize llama appeared to be mourning for his friends in Argentina, he replied, "I am no farmer. I know nothing of the llama. Feed the animal what you wish."

It is probable that the llama would have pined away and died if it had not been for an inventive genius on board the Verdi in the person of William Boyle, the Marconi operator. He suggested that the chief steward had some cases of Mendoza grapes on board, and the juice should be extracted from them and fed to the indisposed and pampered animal on the after deck. A pair of rigging screws were obtained from the bo'sun, and from that day the butcher's mate had to squeeze several pounds of grapes daily for the Bryan llama.

Five llamas were shipped on the Verdi for the Kansas City Zoo, with four silver gray foxes, some storks, gaza birds, cassowaries, and flamingoes. As the steamer was nearing Rio de Janeiro one of the llamas broke its leg and had to be killed and thrown overboard. Three days later, when the steamer was off Bahia, the foxes got out at night and ran about the docks, thus starting a fox hunt for the watch on duty, which had great difficulty in catching the animals and putting them back into their cages.

RIOTING IN TERRE HAUTE.

Strike Situation Complicated by Trial of Mayor To-day.

Special to The New York Times.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., March 15.—A strike of a few street-car motormen and conductors last night, which gave a mob of about 2,000 young men and boys an opportunity to do a great deal of damage in the trouble zone, is complicated with the trial of Mayor Donn Roberts for election frauds, which is to begin to-morrow. The street railway company is accused now of inspiring the prosecution in these election fraud cases. General Manager S. T. F. Grover of the traction company says that "any one on the streets last night could see what Roberts did to protect our property."

To-day the Mayor swore in extra policemen, provided policemen to ride on the cars, and had guards at the traction station, car barns, and power house. About fifty of the 250 motormen and conductors belong to the union, and they complain that the company refuses to reinstate men discharged because of their unionism. The few cars operated to-day were ordered to the barns at 6 o'clock this evening. The Governor was asked for protection by the traction company, but he replied that the Mayor and Sheriff Shea informed him that the situation was well in hand. The Governor also has refused militia for a guard at the Court House during the trial of Roberts. Every person entering the courtroom will be searched for weapons. This was decided upon after shots were fired at the residence of Special Judge Felix Blankenbaker, who presided in the trial of William Huffman, a city employe accused of tampering with ballots, and who was convicted. The Judge also received an anonymous threat, and, following this, two men were indicted for conspiracy to dynamite the homes of Judge C. M. Fortune, Special Judge Blankenbaker, and Special Prosecutor Joe Roach.

To-night Deputy United States Marshals came from Indianapolis to serve notice on a number of labor leaders to appear in the United States Court to-morrow morning. Some weeks ago the traction company petitioned the court for an order restraining the labor men from ordering a strike. The petition has not been acted upon because the State Public Service Commission is conducting an investigation.

BISHOP CONSOLES CONDEMNED GUNMEN

Dr. Greer Prays with Rosenthal Murderers in Sing Sing After Confirming Convicts.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, N. Y., March 15.—After confirming thirteen convicts in Sing Sing Prison to-day Bishop David H. Greer of New York went with the Rev. Burton Lee, the chaplain of the prison, to the death house and gave spiritual consolation to the inmates. Bishop Greer was interested chiefly in the four gunmen who are under sentence of death for the murder of Herman Rosenthal. He visited first the cell of "Dago Frank" Cirofici, one of their number, who is a Protestant, and who has been visited frequently in the last few months by Dr. Lee.

To Bishop Greer and the chaplain Cirofici said many times that he was innocent of the murder. He said that he was not in the party which shot and killed the gambler, and that at the time of the murder he was far away from the Hotel Metropole in West Forty-third Street. His story interested the Bishop, who promised that he would do all in his power to help him.

Then Bishop Greer and Dr. Lee talked with the other three gunmen, who are Jews. Bishop Greer told them to look to God for consolation and to repent of any offenses of which they were guilty. All of them were moved deeply and said good-bye to Bishop Greer and Dr. Lee with fervor.

Bishop Greer asked the four gunmen if they had any objection to kneeling with him and the chaplain and joining in a short prayer. They acquiesced to the suggestion willingly, and were joined by the other inmates of the death house, all of whom knelt with bowed heads while the Bishop offered up a short petition. Bishop Greer was saddened by his visit to the death house, and upon leaving expressed to Dr. Lee his horror and disapproval of capital punishment.

Before visiting the condemned men the Bishop delivered a brief sermon to the confirmation class of thirteen convicts, who had been receiving instruction in the doctrines of the Episcopal Church from Dr. Lee for several months.

"The only happiness vouchsafed to us on this earth," said Bishop Greer, "comes from strict obedience to the laws of God. If we obey the laws of the Creator we can never violate the laws of the land—the man-made laws which are intended for the protection of society. If we remember the injunction to love our neighbor as ourselves we can never transgress. My prayer to-day is that you men, who have sinned and have been so bitterly punished, will become better citizens and true Christians and followers of God."

In the afternoon the Bishop confirmed a class of thirty candidates in St. Paul's Episcopal Church in this village.

Before leaving the village for New York Bishop Greer assured Dr. Lee of his warm interest in the prison missionary work and said he intended to visit Sing Sing again soon.

DR. KIDDER RESIGNS.

Rector Says Girl's Charges Have Served to Break Down His Health.

Special to The New York Times.

BAYONNE, N. J., March 15.—The Rev. Dr. Scott Kidder, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church in this city, sent his resignation to the church to-day. Dr. Kidder said in his letter of resignation that notoriety attending the public hearing of the charges made against him by Miss Ethel Paine, 16 years old, and the embarrassment and mortification caused by the unjust charges had undermined his health and made it impossible for him to resume his duties in Bayonne. A letter from his attending physician said that he was completely broken down in health. It was said he would leave the ministry as a result of the case. It is understood that, if Dr. Kidder cannot be persuaded to resume charge of the congregation, his resignation will be accepted by the board late this week.

Dr. Kidder is about 40 and married. He formerly preached in Asbury Park, where the family lived for a number of years.

CRITICISES MRS. PALMER.

Mrs. Bown Says She Was Misled as to Disposition of World's Fair Fund.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 15.—In a letter written to Harlow N. Higinbotham, who was President of the Columbian Exposition, Mrs. Louise De Koven Bown, a well-known Chicago society woman, bluntly discusses the World's Fair Fund left in the care of Mrs. Potter Palmer twenty-one years ago, and which now amounts to $67,750. Mrs. Bowen writes:

"Perhaps you know that I wrote Mrs. Palmer last November, asking her if she could tell me what had become of a $20,000 fund left over at the World's Fair. Mrs. Palmer took four weeks to reply to my letter, and then said that the fund of which I spoke had reverted to the United States Treasury. She did not tell me there was another fund, which I thought was pretty mean. I wrote Mrs. George Dunlap, and learned from her that she had turned over to Mrs. Palmer $13,000 collected, as she expressed it, 'from the pennies and dollars contributed by children in the various States and Territories.'

"I then wrote again to Mrs. Palmer and asked her if she would be good enough to give me some details in connection with the return of the money to the United States Treasury. To that letter I never had a reply.

"To me she seems to have signally missed the point of the whole thing, which is that if there is a fund in her hands it should certainly be disposed of after twenty-one years. And certainly no fund which was collected in the manner in which that fund was collected can be called a private fund.

"I think we ought to bring some pressure to bear—even if it has to be legal pressure—to get Mrs. Palmer either to trustee that fund or dispose of it."

Mrs. Potter Palmer is now in Florida.

GET THIEVES ON EVE OF $500,000 ROBBERY

Detectives Trail Two Burglars While They Plan to Force Safe of Gem Polishing Firm.

WATCHMAN DECOYS THEM

Takes Thieves' Bribe and Detectives Watch Them Map Place They Hope to Rob.

After trailing them for a month detectives arrested two alleged safe breakers yesterday and captured what Inspector Faurot said was the finest set of burglars' tools and safe-breaking implements he had seen in many years. The men were arrested, it was said, after they had completed arrangements to rob the safe of Stern Brothers & Co. in their office on the eleventh floor of the loft building at 136 West Fifty-second Street of $500,000 worth of diamonds and other precious stones. The thieves had broken into the loft and had mapped it on Thursday night.

Inspector Faurot said yesterday afternoon that the prisoners had confessed that they intended to rob Stern Brothers & Co. They told him, he asserted, that they wanted to make a single "haul" which would enrich them for life. About a sectional bit, which the Inspector called a masterpiece of mechanical ingenuity, he found wrapped a copy of The Boston Globe of Feb. 2, containing an account of how robbers had stolen $4,000 from a safe of the Williams Jewelry Company on Feb. 1. He said that the prisoners were suspected of having committed this robbery. Among the prisoners' effects the detectives found a receipt from George R. Simpson, a lawyer, for $50 paid to him for defending Thomas Connors, a prisoner in the Tombs charged with having burglars' tools in his possession. The detectives had trailed the men to the Tombs and had learned that they had visited Connors.

The burglars were arrested at 915 Intervale Avenue, in the Bronx, at noon yesterday in the room of Jacob Rothner. The police said Rothner was known also as Rothman and Phil Weiss, and was 24,523 in the Rogues' Gallery. They arrested Rothner and Michael Sneiderman, who said he was a merchant of 79 East 107th Street. Sneiderman, they said, was known to them as Mike Snider. The prisoners were locked up in the Mulberry Street Station.

Rathner and Sneiderman arrived in this city from Boston about a month ago. Word of their arrival and their plans to commit a big jewelry robbery in this city came to the police through a stool pigeon. Detectives took up their trail and followed them constantly. They soon met other men who hovered about the suspected thieves. This puzzled them. They thought at first that these men were confederates. Then they discovered that they were Pinkerton detectives. The Pinkerton men had been puzzled by the presence of the city detectives, but after they had identified themselves, the sleuths worked together.

The detectives followed the two men about the city to jewelry stores. On March 7 and 8 the thieves made repeated visits to the jewelry shop of R. V. Hurd, at 126 West Twenty-third Street. When they discovered that it would take three hours to force Hurd's safe, that a private patrolman passed the premises every hour, and that two women slept in an adjoining corset shop, they gave up their intention of robbing that shop.

Immediately after abandoning the project to rob Hurd, the men began to loiter about West Fifty-second Street. Stern Brothers & Co., which has offices at 38 Nassau Street and another office at 33 Gold Street, have a diamond polishing establishment on the eleventh floor of 136 West Fifty-second Street. The two thieves, the detectives learned, rented a furnished room in Seventh Avenue, between Fifty-first and Fifty-second Streets, which gave them a convenient base from which to observe what went on in the Stern factory, as well as a near-by place to which to bring their loot.

The detectives found that the men were trying to get on friendly terms with the elevator man in the loft building, but he repulsed their attempts to bribe him not to report their visits to the building. They next approached the night watchman. The detectives had anticipated this step, and had instructed the watchman to appear to fall in with their plans. When the thieves approached him, he accepted $20 from them and pretended to be eager to get a $5,000 bribe they offered him for the privilege of working without molestation.

The watchman gave them a clear field to enter the building on Thursday night. Detectives had concealed themselves about the premises and saw the thieves force their way with a "jimmy" into the Stern loft. They made maps of the loft, showing where the safe stood, but the discovery that a burglar alarm cage inclosed the safe prevented them from taking any steps to drill it that night. In preparation for their attack on it, however, they had brought a set of tools and explosives to their Seventh Avenue room from their quarters in Harlem and the Bronx. These the detectives found yesterday. The detectives allowed the men to go away Thursday night, but trailed them closely and left a guard hidden in the loft. They decided to arrest them yesterday since, by entering the loft, they had committed burglary, and this with the possession of burglars' tools, exposed them to heavy sentences. While the men were asleep yesterday in their Intervale Avenue room, the detectives broke in and arrested them.

In Sneiderman's room in Harlem the police found a set of braces and twist drills, one automatic and one regulation military revolver, sectional screw jimmies, flashlights, detonation caps, burglars' gloves to cover fingerprints, five wrenches, four saws, two 18-inch blackjacks, a new and perfect set of dentist's tools and a dozen fuse caps. They found also a pair of handcuffs. Part of their bargain with the night watchman in the loft was that he was to be bound and gagged.

In Rothner's room in the Bronx the detectives found three revolvers, twenty-six detonation caps, six twist drills, and a new style of sectional jimmy which they said they had never seen before. In the Seventh Avenue rooms the police found a selected kit of safe-breaking instruments and several sticks of dynamite. After they had confessed to Inspector Faurot at Police Headquarters, the detectives took the men to the Mulberry Street Station. As they were leaving headquarters Rothner said:

"If a girl calls for me, don't tell her I've been caught."

The detectives to whom the Inspector gave credit for trailing the prisoners were Lieutenants Gildea, Watson, Oliver, Birmingham, Fennelly, Gorman and Raphael. Superintendent David Thornhill and Assistant Superintendent John Graham of the Pinkerton Agency participated also in the arrest. Thornhill hid under a couch in the night watchman's home and heard him discuss the plot to bind and gag him when the safe was robbed.

MRS. WALDORF ASTOR ILL.

Operated On and Will Be Confined to Her Room Several Weeks.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, March 15.—Mrs. Waldorf Astor underwent a slight operation to-day and will be confined to her room for several weeks.

Y. M. C. A. EMPLOYE KILLED.

Elevator Operator Is Crushed at the Bottom of the Shaft.

Adolph Woesgien, 60 years old, an elevator operator in the West Side Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, on Fifty-seventh Street, near Eighth Avenue, was killed yesterday morning when he was caught between one of the elevators and the bottom of the shaft.

The Coroner and Woesgien's family, at 333 West Forty-third Street, were notified. The Y. M. C. A. authorities refused to discuss the accident.

HEARD OF ROOSEVELT BILL.

Purser and Passengers on the Verdi Say It Is Common Gossip in Brazil.

Purser Jordan of the Lamport & Holt steamship Verdi, which arrived here yesterday from Brazil, was asked by the reporters at the pier in Brooklyn if he had heard a report in Rio de Janeiro that Theodore Roosevelt had charged $8,000 for the lecture he delivered before the members of the Historical Society.

He replied that it was common gossip in the hotels and cafés that a bill had been received from the ex-President for that amount and that it had been paid by subscription among the members. Passengers on the Verdi said that they had heard the bill spoken of in Rio Janeiro.

ROOSEVELT'S LONG RIDE.

Traverses 500 Miles of the Interior of Brazil on Horseback.

RIA JANEIRO, March 15.—Col. Rondon, a member of the Brazilian commission accompanying Col. Theodore Roosevelt, telegraphs that the expedition has reached Barao de Malgato after a ride of over 500 miles on horseback through the interior of the country without being attacked by savages.

The telegram says that Col. Roosevelt is in excellent health, and adds that he was greatly surprised by the richness of the region traversed.

YALE MEN DISTURB GABY.

Three Arrested for Throwing Things at Star on Stage.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, March 15.—Three Yale students were arrested toward the close of a show given by Gaby Deslys at the Hyperion Theatre last night during a disturbance, in which missles were thrown at the star. She was struck with pennies, cigarette boxes, and finally a bag of peanuts, the latter landing squarely on her forehead.

A large squad of police, fearing trouble, was present, and promptly arrested Rufus Clapp and Frank W. Buxton, freshmen. Clapp is a son of the United States Senator from Minnesota. Later in the performance a post-graduate student, Philip von Dernsmith of New York City, was arrested. All three were bailed out and will probably escape with a light fine to-morrow, as the members of the company state that they will not press the charges against them.

$1,000 FOR MISSING BOY.

Philadelphia City Treasurer Offers Reward for Friend's Son.

PHILADELPHIA, March 15.—A reward of $1,000 for the return to his home of seven-year-old Warren McCarrick, who has been missing since last Thursday, was offered to-night by William McCoach, City Treasurer, after several clues had been found unavailing by detectives. A house-to-house search was made to-day in the vicinity of the boy's home, and the State Constabulary followed clues which led to different parts of the State without success.

Mr. McCoach, who is a friend of the boy's father, James McCarrick, a clerk in the office of the Receiver of Taxes, said if the child was not soon restored to his parents he feared Mrs. McCarrick would collapse.

Three suspects were arrested to-day, but were later released after having convinced the police they knew nothing of the boy's whereabouts. Mr. McCarrick, although unable to account for his son's disappearance, believes he is somewhere in the neighborhood. He declares he has no enemies and cannot see why any one would want to kidnap his child.

BANDITS KILL POSTMASTER.

San Diego Posse Pursuing Supposed Raiders from Mexico.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 15.—The United States customs office and Post Office at Tecate were burned last night and the Postmaster, Frank V. Johnston, was shot dead by three bandits, according to advices received here to-night. Warren Widenback was wounded. Observers of the tragedy say the bandits were Mexicans.

A charred American flag was found in the ruins of Johnston's store, which was also the customs office and Post Office.

A posse started at daybreak in pursuit of the bandits. Johnston, it was learned, was shot through the heart when he refused to give the combination of the safe. Elliott D. Johnston, the dead man's brother, sent telegrams to-day to Secretary Bryan, Gov. Johnson at Sacramento, and Representative Kettner at Washington, demanding a thorough investigation. He placed the responsibility for the tragedy on Mexicans.

Bitter feeling along the border caused by the tragedy was intensified to-day when a newspaper photographer on the American side was fired at by Mexicans. He was not injured.

Ducks Made Bold by Hunger.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, March 15.—Thousands of black and mallard ducks have gathered on the north shore of Long Island Sound and along the creeks near here. They are so weak from lack of food that they are indifferent to the approach of human beings. Neighbors of Supreme Court Justice Martin J. Keogh are throwing food to them. They fight for the eels thrown to them by fishermen, who have difficulty in keeping the sea gulls from stealing the food.

FOES AT TORREON MOVE TO BATTLE

Federals Take the Offensive to Meet Villa's Outposts and Win a Skirmish.

ORDERED OUT BY HUERTA

Rebel Chief, Catching Wireless Message from Mexico City, Promptly Orders an Advance.

Special to The New York Times.

EL PASO, Texas, March 15.—Wireless telegraph messages from Torreon, ordering the advance guard of Huerta's army to attack the enemy, were picked up to-day by the Government wireless station at Fort Bliss, near here.

The messages were from Gen. Refugio Velasco to Gen. Rodriguez, commanding the advance force, which was sent out of Torreon to meet the advancing rebel forces, consisting of the Zaragosa Brigade, commanded by Gen. Benavides, formerly commander of the Juarez Garrison.

The rebel movement started yesterday, and telegraphic advices from Chihuahua say that Villa will leave for the front at sunrise to-morrow morning to command the troops in the field. With him will go Gen. Angeles of Carranza's Cabinet, who has been asked by Villa to take command of the artillery corps of Villa's army. He left Juarez to-day on a special train for the south.

Skirmishes occurred near Mapimi, twenty-seven miles from Torreon, to-day, indicating the presence of the Federals much further from their base than the rebels had supposed. This is the reason why Villa has ordered the forward movement.

All the rolling stock on the Mexican National line, south of Juarez, has been ordered to Chihuahua to carry troops to the front, and the fifty-eight pieces of artillery, which will be in charge of Gen. Angeles, have already left that city.

The forces commanded by Gens. Ortega, Natera, and Rodriguez, are to move south to-morrow, while Gen. Urbana, the bandit commander of Durango rebels, has been ordered to move toward Torreon from Palayo.

The reported attempt of Mexican Federal troops interned at Fort Bliss to escape by way of a tunnel proves to be without foundation in fact. The prison camp is laid out on solid rock, and a tunnel could be excavated only with dynamite.

Says Federals Moved First.

HOUSTON, Texas, March 15.—A general forward movement of both Federal and rebel armies at Torreon was begun early to-day, preliminary, it is believed, to the opening of battle for possession of that city, according to a Chihuahua dispatch to-light to The Houston Post.

In the first skirmishes the Constitutionalists, it is said, were put to flight, but in later minor engagements the rebel troops were reported victorious.

Orders for the advance of his troops were given by Gen. Villa late last night. His action was hastened by the interception of a wireless message from President Huerta at Mexico City to Gen. Refugio Velasco, commanding the Federal garrison at Torreon. As caught by Villa's wireless station, the message directed Velasco to take the offensive immediately against the Constitutionalists.

Within a few hours after orders were given for the rebel advances, dispatches from the extreme front reported a Federal movement westward from Mapimi through Canyon La Cadena, which, owing to its proximity to the Federal outposts, had not been strongly garrisoned by the Constitutionalists. The small rebel force retreated.

Gen. Urbana, with 2,000 men at Palayo, nine Spanish leagues to the north, was ordered to advance, and Gen. Villa issued orders for the advance of all the cavalry at Escalon, Conejos, Peronal, and other points along his battle front to the northward of Torreon.

A later report from the front said that Gen. Benavides had started southward from Conejos in response to Gen. Villa's order to advance, and, encountering a large body of Federals south of Peronal, had driven them into Bermijillo. Losses were not reported.

Rebels Establish Censorship.

JUAREZ, Mexico, March 15.—Establishment of a rigid consorship over telegraph lines to-night was believed here to indicate that important fighting had already taken place in the Torreon region, or that Villa has begun the long awaited attack on Torreon.

The chief operator here said that press dispatches might come through from Chihuahua later. Unconfirmed reports had it that the Federals and rebels clashed in force between Escalon and Bermijillo yesterday, and the sudden establishment of the censorship gave rise to rumors that the rebels were defeated, as officials are not slow to make public news of a favorable character.

Conflicting press dispatches were received last night with regard to the Torreon situation, but a report that the Federals, advancing north from their stronghold, had precipitated a battle received no confirmation at the rebel offices here. A dispatch from Chihuahua received early this morning said the report of the battle was based on the story of a fugitive American, but added that Villa did not believe it.

The American said that as he was coming over the desert south of Sierra Mojada he met 3,000 Federals, commanded by Pascual Orozco. He said that he learned the Federals were marching north with a view to attacking Villa's advance in the rear, and possibly move northward to Chihuahua or Juarez.

He also asserted that the Federals were expecting to be reinforced from Cuatro Ciengas, a station on the railroad in Coahuila.

CHIHUAHUA, March 15.—If there has been any real fighting near Torreon Gen. Villa says he does not know it. To-night he scouted the report that the Federals had advanced from Torreon to meet him, and said he only hoped that the enemy would not evacuate their stronghold, as he hoped to capture most of them.

WON'T PAY REFUGEES' KEEP.

Mexican Government Sends Formal Report Through O'Shaughnessy.

MEXICO CITY, March 15.—The Mexican Government, through Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American Chargé d'Affaires, informed the United States Government to-day that it would refuse to meet the cost of maintenance of the Mexican prisoners now interned at Fort Bliss, Texas.

The note, handed to the Chargé, quotes extensively from international authorities in support of the Mexican Government's contention that the expense of keeping the prisoners should be borne by the United States.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Pending Mr. O'Shaughnessy's report there was no official comment here to-night on the action of the Huerta Government in giving notice that it would refuse to pay the cost of maintaining the Federal refugees, now held at Fort Bliss.

It was pointed out, however, that as the United States Government had no intention of recognizing Gen. Huerta and expected to put in its claim for expense in connection with the interned fugitives after a new Government had been installed at Mexico City, the attitude of the Huerta régime in this matter was of no moment.

FORT BLISS, Texas, March 15.—Gen. Salvatore Mercado, who led the Federal flight from Ojinaga to safety on the American side of the Rio Grande, wrote to Gen. Scott to-day that fellow-prisoners in the camp were threatening to assassinate him because they blamed their plight on him. Gen. Scott thinks Mercado's mind has been affected by illness, but promised to see that no harm should befall him.

News that the Huerta Government would not pay for their keep in the prison camp was received apathetically by the prisoners. The quarantine having been raised, many women and children are leaving the camp. Some of the wives of officers are taking houses in El Paso.

HERRICK CORDIAL TO REBEL.

Report of Ambassador's Greeting to Azcona Stirs Mexico City.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, March 16.—Reliable reports received here from Paris state that United States Ambassador Herrick received Sanchez Azcona, the rebel representative, with great cordiality, making statements which the rebels consider of transcendental importance. Azcona has not cabled a report of the meeting, but is transmitting the whole interview by letter. The conference is said to have taken place on February 3.

The report is creating an unfavorable impression here, where it is interpreted as meaning that Washington intends to assist the rebels in Europe to obtain the favor of the powers.

15 RANGERS ON THE BORDER.

Entire Force Now There—Colquitt Lists Many Border Incidents.

AUSTIN, Texas, March 15.—All the Texas Rangers (fifteen) are now on duty on the 800 miles of Texas-Mexican border with the arrival to-day of two Rangers at Raymondville in response to an appeal from citizens there for protection against cattle thieves and desperadoes.

Along with this news Gov. Colquitt made public a long list of border troubles on which his appeals for more power to protect the boundary were based. Many of the incidents mentioned were comparatively petty crimes, the handling of which by Rangers, according to the records, prevented them from developing into possible international complications.

NEGRO ARRESTED AS A SPY.

American Consul Gets Assurances of His Safety.

JUAREZ, Mexico, March 15.—James Logan, an American negro, is locked up here, charged with being a spy.

Consul Edwards was told to-night that summary action would not be taken in the case. Logan is said to have been out of work and to have frequented gambling halls here.

STATE GETS WARDS ISLAND.

Fifty-Year Lease Made as Result of Protracted Negotiations.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 15.—An agreement has been approved by New York State and the City of New York, giving to the State a lease of Wards Island for fifty-years for the Manhattan State Hospital and transferring to the State the Long Island State Hospital in Brooklyn. This was accomplished after several years of negotiations. The transactions were made possible through the enactment of two bills by the Legislature last year upon the recommendation of Attorney General Carmody and the State Hospital Commission.

The Manhattan State Hospital has been located on Wards Island for many years without legal right. The State during its occupancy of the island has spent $1,233,494 for improvements and repair of existing buildings and for the erection of new buildings. The land and the buildings on the island are valued at $8,950,000.

Under the terms of the lease just approved the State is to continue the Manhattan State Hospital on Wards Island at a nominal rental of $1 a year and New York City is to reimburse the State for such buildings as may be erected with the approval of the city during the last ten years of the lease.

The State Commissioners of the Land Office are to release to New York certain meadows in the East River adjacent to Randalls Island in exchange for the Long Island Hospital property.

According to experts of the State Department of Agriculture there is one of the most productive farms in the State on Wards Island, as part of the State Hospital property. The island includes 227 acres of upland and forty-one acres of land under water.

The Long Island State Hospital is valued at about $500,000. Several years ago it was agreed to turn over the Long Island Hospital property to the State, in return for which the State was to give the city title to the House of Refuge on Randalls Island. The Board of Managers of that institution, however, repudiated this agreement, and it became necessary to enter into new negotiations, which have just been completed.

NEW STOCK EXCHANGE BILL.

Boston Chamber of Commerce Presents One to Owen Committee.

BOSTON, March 15.—Features of a Stock Exchange regulation measure, proposed by a special committee of the Chamber of Commerce as a substitute for the Owen bill, were made public to-night. James F. Jackson, Chairman of of the Chamber committee, explained that the substitute had been prepared and handed to Senator Owen in accordance with a request made by members of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee three weeks ago, when the Chamber representatives were in Washington.

The Owen measure provides that the Postmaster General shall be the judge as to whether a Stock Exchange shall be deprived of the use of the mails in cases where fraudulent transactions in securities appear, but the substitute vests this authority in the proposed Interstate Trade Commission with a right of appeal to the Federal courts. Under the Owen bill, also, Stock Exchanges must be incorporated under State laws. The substitute does not require incorporation.

Corporations whose securities are not listed with any Stock Exchange must file with the Interstate Trade Commission the same information that they would have to file with the Exchanges if they were applicants for listing, according to the substitute bill.

The measure prohibits members of Exchanges manipulating securities and prices by fictitious deals, "matched orders" and "wash sales." It forbids the selling or lending of a customer's securities without his consent in writing. Carrying an account on margin for an employe of a bank, trust company, or insurance company, and selling on behalf of a Director or trustee of any corporation securities of that corporation which he did not own at the time of the sale are also prohibited.

MEXICO DIPLOMATS SEND APPEALS HOME?

Report in Capital That They Have Asked Better Protection Than Bryan Gives.

HAVE NO FAITH IN PROTESTS

Foreign Residents Also Reported Likely to Appeal—Carranza's Reply Held Worthless Promises.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, March 15.—Reports are current here that some of the foreign diplomats are recommending to their governments that action be taken looking toward obtaining more tangible protection tan through the protests of Secretary Bryan to Carranza.

It is also said that some of the foreign residents are preparing to take matters up again with their home Governments, having delayed action in the belief that Washington intended to take a course that would satisfy their demands.

There was an intimation in official circles here to-day that Washington was trying to induce the European powers to construe the Huerta memorandum as meaning that he was unable to protect foreigners, the purpose being, it is alleged, to force joint action by the powers.

Officials assert that this was not the meaning of the memorandum, which was intended to merely call attention to the harm done to Mexico by the lifting of the arms embargo.

Scoff at Carranza's Reply.

Gen. Carranza's reply to Bryan's note is not taken seriously here by diplomats or Government officials.

One prominent official to-night expressed the opinion that Consul Simpich was the author of the statement, and that it was, therefore, meaningless. He went on:

"It may amuse Bryan to write notes to Carranza and have them answered by Simpich, but this fools nobody, and would be a ghastly jest should any foreigner venture into the territory occupied by the rebels, trusting to the promises made by Carranza."

Mexicans further intimated that Washington caused the first Carranza note to be written, and then brought about the later developments in order to impress Europe with its influence over the rebels.

The statement that the United States would protest against rebel attacks on foreigners was criticised by a prominent Frenchman, who said:

"Doubtless Washington will protest, as will also the men whose lives are endangered, and both will have about an equal effect, so far as safeguarding lives and property is concerned. Should the American Congress hold religious services in memory of those murdered by the rebels, praying for the rest of their souls, it would be much more consolation to the widows and orphans whose only support is taken from them."

It is generally thought by Mexicans that Carranza's promise is weightless. The fact that Benton and Bauch were killed almost immediately following the Villa-Scott conference is being brought forward to support this idea. It is further believed here that Carranza is powerless to exercise any authority over the rebels, being merely the figurehead of the revolution, dependent absolutely on the caprice of the actual fighting men.

It is further asserted that it is an open secret in Chihuahua that Villa does not intend to take orders from Carranza and that it is impossible for him to punish offenders or even make representations which will be heeded to protect lives and property.

Hint We Want to Back Down.

According to some diplomats here, Washington was involved in serious complications in the first exchange of notes with Carranza, and now wishes "to get from under," fearing that the European powers intend to hold the United States responsible for harm done by the rebels to their nationals here and leave the powers free to protect their own nationals.

According to report one diplomat said:

"If the Benton case is a sample of the diplomatic ability of the present Washington Administration, there is much trouble and many international complications ahead, since it indicates indecision and lack of weight in their representations.

"First Bryan demands from Villa that the body be turned over to the widow. This is refused, Bryan finally compromising on having the grave marked, which Villa promised to do, but failed to carry out, saying later the body had been removed to Chihuahua. The indications are now that the body had been cremated at the time the promise was made.

"Throughout these contradictory statements Villa was apparently not worried at all by Washington. Meanwhile Great Britain was deterred from making an investigation, pending an inquiry by the American commission to whom Carranza refused leave to start from Juarez.

"To this refusal Carranza added a statement that he would deal direct with Great Britain, apparently looking upon such a course as a recognition of his right of belligerency. This naturally and effectually will prevent both the United States and Great Britain proceeding further in the case.

"Carranza himself then appoints a commission, whose report will doubtless be weightless when rendered, if this is ever done. But the present indications are that there never will be any report. Then Great Britain, still looking to Washington for results, will be told that it may go ahead and investigate."

Burn Bridges to Cut Off Carranza.

NACO, Sonora, March 15.—Federal sympathizers, who stole over the international line and all fell in behind Gen. Carranza on his march toward Chihuahua, burned two railroad bridges on the Cananea & Nogales Railroad last night. The smoke of other fires, presumably started by them, was visible from here to-day.

Railroad employes said two bridges, aggregating 540 feet in length, had been destroyed. The railroad men say they saw a party of twenty-eight at work destroying the track.

Huerta's Regulars 250,000 on Paper

MEXICO CITY, March 15.—Another increase in the army is announced. It is stated that the regular establishment is to be raised from 200,000 to 250,000 men. Including the irregular service, this increase, if the official figures of the strength of the army are correct, would give President Huerta 300,000 men.

"Efficient"— A Tiresome Word!

An over-worked word! A word that has lost its virility! And yet the only word in the English language that properly describes the "Ellis" machine.

It IS an efficient machine.

It does the job.

Proof? Take the case of a certain New York department store. A year ago it employed 13 typewriters to do its billing.

It now employs 8 Ellis machines—and with them does 25% MORE work!

168% increased efficiency! What do you think of THAT?

Say the word and we'll put an Ellis machine in your store on trial. Free!

TURN 3,000 FROM CONCERT.

More than 3,000 persons were unable to gain admission to the public concert held in the auditorium of the Morris High School, in the Bronx, yesterday afternoon. The hall was packed half an hour before the concert began.

The concert was given under the direction of Prof. Henry T. Fleck, Professor of Music in the Normal College. Its feature, Prof. Fleck said last night, was the singing of the Morris High School Chorus under the direction of Dr. Edwin Tracey, in charge of music in the high school. The incidental solo, "As Pants the Hart," was sung by Miss Senigo, also of the Morris High School student body. The second symphony of Beethoven was played by an orchestra of fifty musicians under the direction of Prof. Fleck.

In the intermission Victor Ridder made a short speech, in which he praised the city's authorities for providing high-class music for the people.

"The scheme of giving these splendid concerts in the beautiful auditoriums of the city's school buildings," said Mr. Ridder, "deserves the highest commendation. Music is just as necessary in the Winter as in the Summer, and Prof. Fleck deserves great credit for his work which has made of these auditoriums indoor parks where the people of the city can gather and hear the best there is in song and in music."

A second concert will be given in the Morris High School on Wednesday night under the direction of Prof. Fleck. The concert will be repeated next Sunday in the school auditorium at Tottenville, S. I. Other concerts in various parts of the city will follow each Wednesday evening and Sunday afternoon until the music season in the parks begins.

TELLS DUTY OF CHURCH.

Dr. Jowett Says It Should Seek Deserving Among the Workless.

The Rev. Dr. John Henry Jowett, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, spoke yesterday morning of unemployment as affording an opportunity for the exercise of Christian charity.

"The contention of the unemployed that they are entitled to consideration as the children of God is right," said Dr. Jowett. "It is the duty of every one of us to investigate and search out the deserving so that they may not suffer."

Dr. Jowett said that harboring the unemployed when they stormed churches in a body simply encouraged those who were "chronically unemployed" to continue in their condition. The few who were deserving of aid, however, should receive it.

SOCIALISTS INVITE MITCHEL.

Ask Mayor to Discuss Unemployed Problem at Cooper Union.

Mayor Mitchel has been invited to discuss the problem of the unemployed at a meeting to be held at Cooper Union on next Thursday night under the direction of the Unemployment Committee of the Socialist Party. This meeting will take the place of the one which was scheduled for last Saturday in City Hall Park, which was abandoned. The Mayor will be requested to give his views of and tell about his plans for coping with the problem.

The Socialists plan a vigorous campaign in favor of a system of unemployment insurance. They also will urge the construction of public works to provide employment for some of the idle. The Board of Estimate, the Board of Aldermen, and the Board of Education will be urged to press public improvements.

The committee says that it will press the Board of Education hard because, it says, thousands of children are deprived of an education because of lack of school room, while there are thousands of skilled mechanics out of work who are ready to build new schools if the opportunity was offered.

TO ORGANIZE THE WORKLESS.

Socialists with Committee of 80 Will Work on the East Side.

More than 500 unemployed men and their sympathizers met yesterday at 66 Sheriff Street, under the auspices of the Galician branch of the Socialist Party. A committee of eighty was appointed to organize the unemployed on the east side and to draw up resolutions demanding that the State authorities should arrange for unemployed insurance. The Chairman of the committee is William Rosenwald of the Jewelry Workers' Union.

"The committee appointed to-day," said Rosenwald, "will be divided into groups and will start work at once. We will hold meetings at street corners to enroll members into a large body, which will be able to bring pressure on the authorities. Our plan will be to visit the unions and get information as to the proportion of unemployed men in each industry, so that we will have facts to lay before the authorities."

MONROE DOCTRINE VAGUE, SAYS CLEWS

Banker Tells Peace Gathering It Halts the Development of South America.

SETS EUROPE AGAINST US

Hudson Maxim Favors Peace with a Big Army and Navy to Aid in Maintaining It.

President Wilson's Mexican policy and the Monroe Doctrine were friendly discussed last night at the patriotic mass meeting held at The Playhouse, in West Forty-eighth Street, under the auspices of the American Peace and Arbitration League. The question up for consideration was:

"Shall the people of the United States sustain President Wilson in his efforts to maintain peace?"

Henry Clews, President of the League, and Hudson Maxim spoke in the affirmative, and suggested that it might be a good idea to ask the co-operation of the other powers in solving a problem which in the last analysis seemed an international one. Both agreed that conditions had changed materially since the Monroe Doctrine was promulgated, and they pointed out that the South American republics did not favor it.

The meeting was scheduled for 8 o'clock, but it was long after that hour when it was opened. Ex-Senator William A. Clark, the presiding officer, arrived promptly. Mr. Clews was then pacing up and down on the sidewalk, but there was no Reception Committee. Finally the manager of the theatre had Mr. Clark taken to the star's dressing room, where he waited alone and impatiently.

At 8:35 the speakers appeared on the stage. There were possibly 500 persons in the theatre. Mr. Clark made a brief address in which he referred to the name republic as connected with Mexico as a misnomer. Then he said that $100,000,000 worth of American property had been destroyed in Mexico and that "many Americans had been slaughtered." He sincerely hoped intervention could be avoided, but did not believe in disarmament and thought the country should be ready to intervene if it became necessary.

"As a nation," said Mr. Clews, "we are exceedingly sensitive about the Monroe Doctrine, the indefinite claims of which are always a source of possible international difficulty. The Monroe Doctrine is a claim of much vagueness and many dangerous possibilities; a claim that should be exercised with much discretion until more keenly defined. It is exceedingly unpopular with all nations in South America, who naturally do not relish our playing the big policeman without their consent.

"Nor do some of the great powers like our standing in the way of their colonial ambitions. As they become more thickly populated the national land hunger will increase, and the overflow of the population may seek new fields in South America. Such a development is of much economic importance to the United States; hence the necessity of an interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine which will encourage, and not discourage, the commercial growth of that vast and rich territory."

Mr. Clews said that intervention in Mexico would mean putting in the field an army of half a million soldiers at a total cost of at least $1,000,000 a day. Then, taking up the Panama tolls and Mexico, he said:

"The concluding sentence in President Wilson's recent address to Congress on the repeal of the Panama Canal tolls exemption for American coastwise vessels is indeed significant. We must stand by our President. No doubt the President intends, after the vote on the tolls question, to do something toward restoration of peace and order in Mexico, with perhaps the co-operation of some of the European powers. This probably will be so effective a form of intervention that it will be impossible for the Mexican disturbance to longer continue. Much has been gained by the calm and friendly attitude of Great Britain, which plainly approves of our present policy, though intent on securing reparation for the killing of Benton later on."

Then Mr. Clews said he thought that an earnest effort should be made to bring Huerta and Carranza together, and to procure the appointment of a Provisional President who would recognize the heads of the two opposing parties in some offical capacity. Both must realize, he said, that by keeping up the struggle both must lose, and that intervention by the United States would mean their ruin. Great Britain's exhibition of friendliness and patience had visibly strengthened the entente cordial between that country and the United States, he said, and President Wilson's open determination to stand by the Panama treaty as a matter of national honor would help toward the settlement of the several important questions between the two countries.

Mr. Maxim said that he knew much about Mexico, because he had gone there once to show them how to make gunpowder. He believed that the United States should keep up an army and navy which would command the respect of other nations and make it clear to them that, while America didn't want to do it, it would hit back if pressed too hard.

The audience liked that kind of talk and cheered it heartily, but later it cheered the Simon Pure peace talk just as loudly.

Mr. Maxim said he couldn't be sure, of course, but trouble in Mexico might have been averted if we had put on a bold front at the start. Now he didn't see why we couldn't, without any severe injury to the Monroe Doctrine, ask other countries to help solve the situation. Japan had a Monroe Doctrine of its own, to which we didn't pay much attention when we took the Philippines, he said.

There was an address also by the Rev. Madison C. Peters. He talked about war in general and the expense of it. The best men were always sacrificed in war, he said. If the reverse were true, and the useless eliminated, he would invite a war.

"But do you think the I. W. W. or those who hold down the park benches would go to war?" he asked.

The audience sniggered in a way which showed its belief that the I. W. W. wasn't looking for that kind of trouble.

DEFENDS EXPRESS BUSINESS

Merchants' Association Sees Danger in Federal Competition.

The Merchants' Association in its bulletin to be issued to-day, warns against the extension of the parcel post system. It says:

"Letters from business men indorsing President Marble's statement of the situation into which the express companies may be forced by the extension of the parcel post, as well as the comments which are appearing in the press throughout the country, should warn the Postmaster General to give time for careful consideration before attempting to carry into effect the plans which he has in contemplation.

"The service given by the express companies has recently been subjected to a complete reform by the Government as the result of a country-wide agitation which was initiated by this association. It is more efficient than it ever has been before. In many particulars it is doing what the Government does not propose to attempt, and probably could not do if it tried.

"Yet the Government, having regulated the express service, now threatens to enter into competition with it, which would make a continuance of the service impossible.

"To deprive commerce of the facilities necessary to business which the express service now provides, without supplying similar facilities in place of them, would be an inexcusable blunder."

Harbor Boat Owners Organize.

For the protection of the boat owners of the Harbor of New York and their employes a new organization, to be known as the New York Boat Owners' Association, has been incorporated at Albany. More than 100 members have been enrolled, and the officers are Joseph H. Moran of the Moran Towing Company, President; Thomas J. Howard, Vice President; Anthony C. Boyle, President of the [illegible] Company, Treasurer, and [illegible], Secretary.

MRS. CATT WANTS TO KNOW.

Silence of Men's League Provokes Her to Make Inquiry.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, chairman of the Empire State Campaign Committee of the suffragists, in a public letter yesterday asked what had become of the answers to certain questions on the subject of woman suffrage propounded some time ago to the male members of college and university faculties in New York by the Men's League Opposed to Woman Suffrage. Mrs. Catt's letter in part was:

"Some months ago Everett P. Wheeler on behalf of an organization describing itself as the Men's League Opposed to Woman's Suffrage sent out an elaborate questionaire relating to woman suffrage. It consisted of no less than forty-six different interrogations and, consequently, much time must have been spent on the replies and, doubtless, much valuable information collected.

"Suffragists are at a loss to understand why the published reports of the results obtained have been so long delayed. We request the publication of these reports."

Everett P. Wheeler left for Panama on Saturday to be gone until next May, it was said at his home yesterday, and no one associated with the league would say whether the answers to the questions would be made public before his return, or whether they would be made public at all.

It was learned yesterday, after Mrs. Catt's letter had been received by THE NEW YORK TIMES, that Prof. Munroe Smith of Columbia University framed the questions to which she referred, and that the answers, which are still coming in, are being classified and tabulated by him. After his report is ready, he said, it will be submitted to the Executive Committee of the Men's League Opposed to Woman Suffrage, which will decide whether it shall be published.

JURORS THANK RANSOM.

City Court Work Lightened of Some of Its Burdens.

Justice Ransom of the City Court told the March panel of jurors that he realized that jurors were performing a public service, and that he would do everything in his power to hasten the work, and to see that their personal interests did not suffer any more than was absolutely necessary. Justice Ransom also called the attention of the lawyers to the fact that it was their duty not to delay any of their cases nor to subject the court and the jurors to unnecessary delays and hardships. In appreciation of this proceeding, the first that has taken place in any court, the jurors passed resolutions of thanks to the court when their term of service expired on Friday last. The resolutions say:

March 13, 1914.

Hon. William L. Ransom, Justice of the City Court:

Sir: The undersigned jurors in Part V. of the City Court, during the March term, over which Your Honor has presided, take this means of expressing our appreciation, as citizens, of the unfailing courtesy to all persons, to the learning and devotion to the business of the court that you have shown and the capable and efficient manner in which you have conducted the trial of the causes before you.

As individuals, we also express our thanks for the many courtesies you have shown us, and we unite our sincere wishes for a successful career in the present and such other offices that the people may call you to.

The resolutions were signed by the entire panel.

ENLARGE ST. LOUIS PLANT.

Big Screw Company to Employ 800 Additional Workmen.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, March 15.—Another large concern, the St. Louis Screw Company, to-day announced plans for enlarging its capacity and employing 800 additional workmen. The company will erect a mill on a block of ground, purchased more than a year ago, which has lain idle until this time, when increased business and fine prospects caused the management to give orders for construction to be begun at once.

George Grunewald, secretary of the company, in announcing that the new mill would be built, said that C. P. Burgess, formerly general superintendent of the Western District for the Republic Iron and Steel Manufacturing Company, and James T. English, until recently superintendent of the Inland plant at East Chicago for the same company, who recently became associated with the St. Louis Screw Company, will take charge of the new plant.

ASK MAYOR'S TAX VIEWS.

Society to Lower Rents Wants Him to Support Herrick-Schaap Bill.

Frederick C. Leubuscher, President of the Society to Lower Rents and Reduce Taxes on Homes, made public yesterday a letter which has been sent by that organization to Mayor Mitchel asking him to explain his attitude on the Herrick-Schaap bill, now before the Legislature.

Incorporated in the letter was a statement given by Mr. Mitchel at the Custom House in the campaign, saying he would approve a bill providing for a referendum on the subject. The letter goes on:

"At the meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment held Feb. 20 last, you voted for a resolution deprecating 'the passage of the Herrick-Schaap bill, or similar legislation,' until 'a thorough and impartial study of the subject of taxation upon land and buildings' has been made by a commission. Your vote on this resolution has been widely construed as expressing your desire not to have the Herrick-Schaap bill enacted by the present Legislature, and hence as a reversal of your position and statement while you were a candidate for the Mayoralty nomination.

"Will you not, therefore, do yourself the justice to state publicly that you expect the commission to report before the Fall; and that, in view of your statement at the Custom House, you cannot oppose the passage of the Herrick-Schaap bill by the present Legislature?"

STATE BOARD URGES CHARITY EXTENSION

Additional Institutions Needed for Care of Defectives and Delinquents.

RECOMMENDS BOND ISSUE

Declaring Present System Wasteful, Hinman Advocates Charity Consolidation Under One Head.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 15.—In its annual report the State Board of Charities urges the erection of another institution for the care of girls convicted of misdemeanors, like the State Training School for Girls at Hudson, and the completion of the State Training School for Boys at Yorktown Heights, in Westchester County.

"This institution," the board says, referring to the Training School for Girls at Hudson, "is entirely inadequate to meet the demands upon it, and will continue to be so even when the two new cottages which have been provided for it are complete. From committing magistrates all over the State comes a demand for the enlargement of this school. Not only should its capacity be increased to the maximum limit of 500 inmates, but a new institution should be established in some other part of the State."

The board says there is great necessity for the rapid extension of all institutions for the custodial care of the feeble-minded.

"It seems also desirable," the report says, "to establish a new institution of this class for the convenient use of the populous districts of the western part of the State. All the present institutions are taxed to their fullest capacity, and there are long waiting lists of the feeble-minded whose early admission for their own good and for that of the State itself is most desirable."

The board recommends the establishment of institutions for the delinquent feeble-minded, one for each sex, with observation wards in New York, Buffalo and other cities.

The board also recommends the establishment of at least three State hospitals similar to the one at Raybrook, for the care of tuberculosis patients in the early stages of the disease, with increased hospital provisions for the care of advanced cases.

Asks For $5,260,612.

The report recommends total appropriations for State institutions of $5,260,612, and repeats its recommendation that long-term bonds be issued by the State to provide the money for the construction and enlargement of State institutions. The board reports that there are 82,288 inmates and patients in more than 700 public and private institutions subject to the supervision of the board. The cost of the care of the delinquents in the State institutions under the supervision of the board was about $25,000,000 in the last fiscal year.

The total number of patients cared for in the 176 private hospitals under the supervision of the board was 246,066, of whom 55,637 were public charges.

Assemblyman Harold J. Hinman, majority leader of the lower house, made a statement to-day in relation to the report of the State Board of Charities and its recommendations for a bond issue to cover the cost of improvements in the State charitable institutions.

"The State is not taking care of thousands of defectives who, for the good of the public, should be confined in institutions, because money which should go to the establishment of such institutions is being frittered away on a ridiculously expensive system of administration," said Mr. Hinman. "The repeated demand for a bond issue for State institutions calls attention forcibly to the fact that the present interlocking sysem of department control of public institutions in this State is inefficient, confusing, and expensive, and entirely unwarranted. Department has been piled upon department until the mass is top-heavy with extravagance. An army of clerks is required in State institutions to carry on correspondence with more than twenty departments, and more than half of this correspondence would be unnecessary if the system of administration were put on a business basis.

Check on Public Employes.

"The legislation of the last few years appears to have been based upon the theory that public employes are either incompetent or corrupt, and that checks and counterchecks are needed at every step until, in place of a rational system of checks, there is an inextricable tangle, which makes the fixing of responsibility an utter impossibility, and is worse than no check at all.

"There is a steadily increasing demand upon the State for money to care for its defectives, delinquents and dependents that cannot be ignored. That the State is not doing its duty in this respect has been frequently charged, and it is time some intelligent action should be taken to that end.

"I believe that the bulk of the business of the institution could be transacted more expeditiously, more efficiently and more economically by one State department than by twenty odd, and that the powers granted to the boards of managers in the organic laws of the institutions should be restored to them. At present these powers have been so modified by the various laws creating new administrative departments that the managers are left with practically no powers at all. This, I believe, is bad for the institution.

"In order that a thorough understanding of the present condition in the administration of the State institutions may be had I believe that a careful inquiry should be made by a properly constituted committee of this Legislature, so that intelligent action may follow."

Two Boy Burglars Arrested.

Harry Strassner, 11 years old, of 233 South Second Street, Williamsburg, and Harry Schnipper, 14 years old, of 25 Meserole Street, after being sent to bed by their parents on Saturday night waited patiently until sure every one was asleep and then dressed and stole out of their homes. Two hours later they were arrested by Policeman Essig of the Bedford Avenue Station for "jimmying" their way into a candy and tobacco store at Havemeyer and South Fourth Streets. They were taken to the Children's Society and will be arraigned in the Children's Court this morning.

MEET TO HONOR CLEVELAND

A Thousand Gather at Birthplace of the Late President.

CALDWELL, N. J., March 15.—Mrs. Thomas J. Preston and Miss Marion Cleveland were the guests of honor this evening at the third annual memorial exercises for Grover Cleveland. The exercises were held in the First Presbyterian Church, where the Rev. Richard Cleveland, father of Grover Cleveland, was pastor at the time of the ex-President's birth on March 18, 1837. The church, which seats about 1,000 persons, was crowded to the doors with friends and relatives of the late President, many of these coming from Manhattan and Brooklyn.

The exercises were presided over by Dr. John H. Finley, Commissioner of Education for New York. The principal address was made by St. Clair McKelway of Brooklyn. Oscar S. Straus, ex-Ambassador to Turkey, also spoke.

Dr. Finley said that during the coming year the birthplace of Mr. Cleveland would be turned into a national museum, and also that a library, for which Andrew Carnegie had given the money, would be erected close to the old manse, to be known as the Cleveland Memorial Library.

Dr. McKelway's address was principally of the political life of Mr. Cleveland.

Mr. Straus spoke of the masterful manner in which Mr. Cleveland handled the Venezuelan question.

"Mr. Cleveland never joined any church during his political career," said the speaker, "as he feared such an act on his part might be misconstrued, but he was at heart a strict Presbyterian."

6 STOWAWAYS ON LORRAINE.

French Liner Arrives a Day Late Because of Bad Weather.

The French liner Lorraine arrived yesterday from Havre with 303 cabin and 647 steerage passengers and mails. She was a day late on account of bad weather.

On Sunday, the day after leaving port, the baggagemaster discovered four stowaways in the No. 2 hold among the trunks and reported it to the Captain. When four seamen went below to bring them on deck, two of the stowaways, George Bertiqui and Dominick Brunnet, put up a stiff fight.

The same afternoon two more stowaways were discovered hidden in the starboard quarter lifeboat. They said they were Eugene Telliere and Gabriel Verry and had stowed away on board to make their fortunes in America. All six were taken to Ellis Island for deportation.

Dance at Their Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Moise Bloch, with their six children, their six grandchildren, and 100 other relatives and friends, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding in Yonkers last night. At a ball which they gave, Mr. Bloch, who is 76 years old, and his wife, who is 70, danced old-time measures, as they were not familiar with the modern ones.

Now comes a new method of filing

For years and years—ever since the first filing cabinet was made—there has been endless discussion as to the superiority of the Alphabetic and Numeric methods of filing.

Each had—and has—its advocates; each its critics.

Now comes a new method of filing that combines many advantages of both the old methods; and has some advantages of its own.

It is called the "Automatic Index." Because it indexes itself, automatically.

With the "Automatic Index" it is easy to file letters correctly. It is difficult to file them incorrectly. Why? Because it provides a check against errors. That, perhaps, is the best thing about it—the feature that sets it apart from all other filing methods.

"Vertical Filing," sent on request. The best book on filing ever written.

AID WOMAN AND SON WHO TRIED TO DIE

Mrs. Stephen S. Wise and Other Women Find Them a Home and Work for Young Man.

LIVED AT SEVERAL HOTELS

Forced to Leave When They Could Not Pay Bills—Friends Conceal Identity of "Millers."

Mrs. Florence Miller and her son, Samuel J. Miller, who attempted to commit suicide on the night they engaged an apartment in the Cathedral Plaza apartment house at 101 West 109th Street, were arraigned in the West Side Court yesterday. Several men and women appeared to befriend them. Magistrate Simms was inclined to hold the mother and son for a further hearing until several of their new-found friends offered to provide for their immediate wants. The Magistrate then discharged them.

Before leaving the courtroom Mrs. Miller and her son promised that they would not repeat the attempt to take their own lives. They said they had been without food for several days and had suffered so much that they were not in a responsible mental state when they turned on the gas and lay down to die in the rooms they entered for the first time.

Mrs. Wise, wife of Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of the Free Synagogue, was one of those who went to court to assist Mrs. Miller and her son. Mrs. Wise first heard of them through the newspapers, and on Saturday night she went to the Knickerbocker Hospital to question the woman and her son. Both refused to reveal their identity until Mrs. Wise told them that an unknown person had telephoned her their correct names. They then corroborated the information, but pledged Mrs. Wise and others who went to their assistance not to divulge their names or the identity of their families.

After leaving court money was given to Mrs. Miller for her immediate needs, and rooms were hired for her and her son, which were paid for by Mrs. Wise and several women associated with her. They also gave the woman clothing. Two members of Dr. Wise's congregation made arrangements to provide the son with employment. He had said that his inability to get work had led himself and mother to arrange the double suicide. To-day he will have the choice of two jobs, and as evidence of good faith he must accept one or the other and begin to contribute to the support of his mother.

"Mrs. Miller told us," said Mrs. Wise, "that her second husband, who is wealthy, disliked her son, and when matters became unpleasant between her husband and his stepson she sided with the latter and came here with him several years ago. They had some money, but this was gradually used up."

While the women were assisting the Millers yesterday it was learned that she and her son had been the guests here at several hotels for about three years. At the Hotel Endicott, where they had remained for nearly a year, one of the managers showed a check for $23 which had been drawn by young Miller, when he signed himself Samuel J. Levy, and after the check had been indorsed by his mother with the name Frances Lavey, it was presented to the hotel for board. The check came back from the Corn Exchange Bank marked "account closed."

Following this incident the management locked the door of the rooms of the Millers, and they had to depart. A prominent woman guest at the Endicott from New Orleans recognized Mrs. Miller as a former resident of New Orleans, where she was known before her marriage as Miss Florence Miller. Her first husband was named Levy, it is said, and it was supposed that Lavey was the name of her second husband. He resides in New Orleans. A sister of Mrs. Miller is married to a wealthy realty operator in New Orleans, who is said to own some thirty houses and pieces of real estate.

Before going to the Endicott the Millers had lived at the Marlborough, at Broadway and Thirty-sixth Street, and at the Hotel Ansonia. When a woman at the Endicott suggested that they should take cheaper rooms elsewhere, she says Mrs. Miller replied that she could not think of such a thing after what she had been accustomed to in the manner of her life in the South.

When she left the Endicott some of her baggage was retained, but this the management said was not of great value. Acting on the statements made by Mrs. Miller several of those who are befriending her took addresses of places where her baggage had been held for non-payment of rent or board, and announced that they would try to redeem the articles.

Old-Time Queens Politician Puts His Property in Trust.

James F. O'Brien, one of the old-time Democratic leaders of Queens County, who died several months ago, left an estate valued at $181,540.69, according to the report made to Philip Frank of Long Island City, transfer tax appraiser of Queens. President Maurice E. Connolly of Queens and Patrick J. Mara of Flushing are the executors and trustees named in the will.

O'Brien owned an inn in the old Village of Newtown, and also much real estate, which increased enormously in value after consolidation. He had $13,284 in savings banks, mortgages of $68,256.16, and real estate valued at $68,650. The estate is left in trust for the two sons, James F. O'Brien and Thomas F. O'Brien, students in Anselm College, Manchester, Vt.

RECORD DAY AT ART MUSEUM

15,007 Persons Viewed Its Exhibits Between 1 and 6 P. M.

All previous records of attendance at the Metropolitan Museum of Art were broken between 1 and 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Gatemen's records show that 15,007 persons entered the museum during these five hours, according to Director Robinson.

Attendance between the same hours on Saturday afternoon was 7,118. A total of 106,011 persons have visited the museum since the Morgan art collection was put on exhibition, the officials report.

Previous to yesterday's record the largest attendance in the history of the museum was on Washington's Birthday in 1909, when 13,800 visitors were recorded.

Art Exhibits in Two Public Schools.

Art exhibits for the purpose of raising money to purchase more art are to be held soon in two public schools of the west side. Public School 28, at 257 West Fortieth Street, of which Miss Anna Short is principal, will exhibit from the 17th to the 20th of this month, and Public School 11 at 214 West Seventeenth Street, of which Samuel Viertel is principal, from the 24th to the 27th. More than 200 reproductions of masterpieces will be on display at an admission fee of 10 cents for adults and 5 for children, and the proceeds are to be devoted to the purchase of decorations for classrooms and auditoriums. The children are very enthusiastic, and a large attendance is expected.

was visited continually during the day by friends, many of whom remained at his cell for hours. Mrs. Frank also spent most of the day at the Tower.

J. B. Armstrong, a resident of Dekalb County, has succeeded in obtaining many names of Dekalb citizens to a petition for a new trial for Frank. The petition reads:

> Whereas, New evidence which tends to confirm the claim of an alibi by Leo M. Frank is being brought to light; and
>
> Whereas, We believe that under the wrought-up condition existing at the time of his trial it was impossible that a fair and impartial trial could have been given; and
>
> Whereas, There does exist very serious doubts as to his guilt or innocence; and
>
> Whereas, There are authenticated instances where the innocent have paid the death penalty when, by the granting of a new trial, the guilt might have been discovered;
>
> We, the undersigned, Therefore, do hereby express ourselves as approving of granting Leo M. Frank a new trial, doing it voluntarily and without the knowledge of Mr. Frank.

Albert McKnight, the husband of Minola McKnight, who gave damaging evidence against Frank at the trial and made an affidavit repudiating it about three weeks ago, was found unconscious this morning near the tracks of the Southern Railway. He had been struck by a train. He was removed to a hospital and may die. McKnight disappeared after making the affidavit repudiating his evidence against Frank. The police declare that McKnight was returning under cover to Atlanta after his disappearance when the accident befell him.

FRANK ANSWERS QUESTIONS.

Came from Unfriendly Sources, and His Defenders Are Elated.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 15.—Leo M. Frank this afternoon made public his answers to a series of questions put to him by persons admittedly hostile to the contention that he was unjustly convicted. He had offered to answer any questions put to him, and the queries he answered to-day were framed by persons who hoped he would fail to make satisfactory replies. Frank's friends, however, assert that his answers completely demolish the case against him. The questions and answers follow:

Q.—Why did you not recognize the notes to be in Conley's handwriting when you and others were examining them at Police Headquarters the Sunday after Memorial Day?

A.—I simply did not know Conley's handwriting. There were seven other negroes employed at the factory in one capacity or another. I had also received notes from some of them. I had no more reason to remember Conley's scrawl than that of any of the others. A Superintendent of a factory cannot be expected to recognize the handwriting of every one of his negro employes.

Q.—The State has convicted you of the murder of Mary Phagan. The theory the State gives is that you committed the murder in the metal room on the second floor of the pencil factory. What answer have you to this?

A.—The State's theory as to the murder being committed on the second floor of the pencil factory rests upon three contentions, viz.: (1) The hair found on the lathe; (2) the spot by the dressing room alleged to be blood; (3) Conley's testimony.

The contention as to the hair has been disproved to every fair-minded man and exploded by Dr. Harris's recent revelation.

The supposed "blood spot" was nothing but paint. There are many such spots all about the factory, on account of the paint used in the painting of pencils. The factory used three or four shades of red paint, which, when on the floor, might look like blood. On the second floor was one of the factory's paint storage rooms, from which paint was distributed to all the factory. On April 26 there must have been about sixty gallons of red and brown paint in the second floor storage room, not to speak of 150 gallons of other colors.

Four Blood Corpuscles.

At the trial Dr. Claude Smith, the prosecution's chemical expert, declared that he examined four chips taken from this spot. He found paint or stain on three of the chips. On the fourth chip he found paint and four blood corpuscles. He could not say positively that this was human blood. I am told that a single drop of blood contains several million corpuscles. These are so very small that if one-thousandth part of one drop of blood, which is about as large as the point of a needle, were placed under the lens or magnifying glass of a microscope such as Dr. Smith used there would easily be visible about 10,000 corpuscles. The part of the spot that looked like blood was shown by Dr. Smith's analysis to be paint. If the spot had really been caused by blood from Mary Phagan's head the number of corpuscles would have been countless, and would have been found on all four chips.

As to Conley's testimony, I am obliged to leave it to the intelligence and fair-mindedness of the community whether his successive perjuries, his motive to lie, the most powerful that could actuate a human being, and the utter improbability of his story, do not render it unworthy of belief.

Q.—Why did you not state that Conley could write as soon as you learned that Conley had been arrested on May 1?

A.—On May 1 I was taken to the Tower. I understand that the negro Conley was arrested on the same day, though at that time I did not know it. No suspicions were directed toward Conley at that time, and no one dreamed of what was to follow later. His name was not in the Atlanta newspapers, as far as I remember, from May 1 until May 18, when his first confession appeared. I had no inkling that he was denying he could write, and had supposed that he had been put through the same handwriting test by the police as were all the other suspects in the case, including Lee, Mullinax, and Gantt, as well as myself.

Just as soon as I learned that Conley denied being able to write, I immediately gave the information in regard to Conley's having signed an installment contract for a watch. The detectives took up this clue, located the contract, and thus forced Conley to admit that he could write. His confession thereupon followed. It will thus be seen that I am the very man who enabled the detectives to unearth and prove the most powerful and significant fact in this entire case.

Q.—Conley testified that on Friday, April 25, you asked him to come to the factory Saturday morning to watch. Did you know at that time, or any other time prior to her coming to the factory on Saturday morning, that Mary Phagan was coming to the factory Saturday morning, April 26, or at what hour she was coming, and if you would be alone when she did come?

Thirty Callers That Day.

A.—There was no possible way for me to know or imagine that Mary Phagan would come to the factory on April 26. It is a proven fact that on that day at least thirty people called at the factory, and saw me at my work in my office. I had no idea of how many people were coming to the factory that day or when they were coming. I certainly could have had no knowledge in advance as to when I would be left alone or that I would be left alone at all.

Q.—The record of the case discloses that Conley is the only witness who testified you had been guilty of perversion. What is your theory as to why this was brought into the case?

A.—This was brought into the case to poison the minds of the public and the jury, so that any charge thereafter brought against me, no matter how absurd, would be believed and swallowed whole. In my opinion, this nasty lie is chiefly responsible for my conviction, and its dirty work overshadowed every real issue in the case.

Q.—What of the contention of the State that your wife refused to visit you for ten days after your arrest?

A.—This is a dastardly insinuation and absolutely false. My wife was at the station house to see me on April 29, when first detained. She was on the first floor in company with some of her relatives. I was on the top floor with Rabbi Marx. Word was sent to me that my wife wanted to come up to see me. I consulted with Dr. Marx, and decided that, as I expected to be liberated in a few hours, or a day or so, at the longest, I would save my wife the sight of myself under arrest surrounded by detectives and officers.

My wife hysterically pleaded to see me, but I thought I would soon be out of custody and requested her to return home without seeing me. As long as I was detained at Police Headquarters I was in a private room, where I had the use of a Bell telephone. I had hourly and constant telephone communication with my wife. She still insisted upon coming down to see me, but I refused.

On May 1 I was carried to the tower. There I could use no telephone to communicate with my wife, but for the next ten days every friend who came down to the Tower who had previously seen her brought a message from her entreating me to allow her to come to see me. I still declined, because I could not bring myself to allow her to see me behind the bars of a jail. When my hopes of immediate release were disappointed I finally consented that she might come. I simply wanted to spare her the pain and distress of seeing me under such conditions. Since then my wife has been to see me every day and spends most of her time with me.

Q.—Conley testified that you and he were in the factory on Saturday, April 26, from four minutes to 1 to 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon. What answer do you make to this?

His Whereabouts After 1 P. M.

A.—On Saturday, April 26, I left the factory at 1 P. M. or a minute or two thereafter, locking the factory doors when I left. Miss Kern testified at the trial that she saw me on the corner of Whitehall and Alabama Streets between 1:05 and 1:10. I caught the car for my home at this corner. Mrs. Miller now says she saw me at the same place and time. Mrs. A. P. Levy, who lives opposite my home, testified she saw me get off the Georgia Avenue car near my home on Georgia Avenue at about 1:20 P. M. My parents-in-law and Minola McKnight testified that I arrived at my home for lunch at about 1:20 P. M., and that I sat down and ate my lunch. Albert McKnight, a prosecution witness, testified he was at my home and saw me there before 1:30 P. M. I certainly could not have been in two places at the same time. The wealth of testimony and the truth refute Conley's unsupported assertion. His statement in regard to what he and I did from 12:56 to 1:30 P. M. on April 26 is a lie out of the whole cloth, is absurd on its face, and has been thoroughly disproved.

Q.—Conley says that prior to April 26 and during the year 1912 he watched for you on various Saturday afternoons. What is your answer to this?

A.—This is but another of Conley's infamous lies. His story about watching is preposterous on its face. Aside from this, at the trial it was proved that not alone was Conley's story about watching for me untrue, but was impossible. Among those who so testified were Messrs. Darley, Schiff, Bauer, Weinkauf, Montag, Gottheimer, Mann, Chambers, Payne, Nix, Campbell, Stelker and Holloway. Some of these men were at the factory with me, not alone on the Saturday afternoons in question, but on all other Saturday afternoons. Up to Jan. 15, 1913, the first or street floor of the factory building was occupied by the Clark Wooden Ware Company. Their employes and the National Pencil Company's used the same street entrance—the same entrance that Conley says he watched. The Clark Wooden Ware Company also worked on Saturday afternoons. It was impossible for me—not to speak of Conley—to have controlled any one who wished to enter the building when the entrance was being used by both of the firms.

Could Have Stopped Nobody.

Conley states that April 26 was the first time he watched since Jan. 1, 1913. Conley could have stopped no one previous to Jan. 15, 1913, and, as per his own testimony, he did not watch after that time till April 26. It is a remarkable fact that of all the times he said he watched he never mentioned one person whom he had ever stopped. That is simple to account for. First, he never was watching, and, second, he could not have stopped any one. What white person desiring to enter the building could he have stopped? Any one desiring to enter the factory would have brushed by Conley (if he had been watching) and entered in spite of him.

If, at times, when the first floor was unoccupied, I should have desired any privacy in the factory, I possessed the keys of the building and could have locked the factory doors. If I had desired to be alone, I certainly needed no one (white or black) to watch for me.

Factory officials, employes, salesmen, and friends have all at one time or another visited me in my office on Saturday afternoons. They found me, not behind closed or locked doors, but at work and easily accessible. They never saw a negro look-out or any indecent thing occurring in my office. This was amply brought out at the trial. In addition, my wife was a frequent visitor at my office on Saturday afternoons, often helping me with my work. Against this bulk of human evidence and the physical facts, Conley's unsupported story about watching utterly falls to pieces.

L. A. PRICE TO TAKE 600 SIEGEL WORKERS

Will Employ Them in the New Store of Rothenberg & Co. in Fourteenth Street.

NEW JOBS FOR OTHERS

Lord & Taylor, Stern Bros., Gimbel Bros., Wanamaker, and Others Make Places for Many.

More than 600 of the 900 employes of the Fourteenth Street Store, which was closed on Saturday night with the Simpson Crawford Company store by order of United States District Judge Hough, are to be employed by Leo A. Price in the store which he will open to-day at 34-44 West Fourteenth Street under the old firm name of Rothenberg & Co. Announcement to that effect was made last night by E. T. Carey, Superintendent of the Fourteenth Street Store.

The store of Rothenberg & Co. formerly was owned by Mr. Price, who later became manager of the Siegel and Vogel stores. It adjoins the Fourteenth Street Store. The ground and second floors of the building already are stocked with goods ready for the opening to-day. A. L. Price, the son of Leo A. Price, will be the manager of the store, and more than 200 of the old employes will go to work there at once. The others will be taken in later on.

The report that Mr. Price would be one of the bidders for the assets of the Fourteenth Street store, the Simpson Crawford store and the Merchants Express Company when they are put up at auction on March 24 was confirmed yesterday. Mr. Price has arranged to meet representatives of the owners of the building and site occupied by the Fourteenth Street store to-morrow, when he will make known his desire to take over that building on condition that the rents are reduced. In the event that no reduction of rents can be obtained, and in the event that some other interest acquires the assets of the Fourteenth Street store, the present store of Rothenberg & Co will be enlarged.

Supt. Carey, who is in charge of the 450 employes retained by the Fourteenth Street store to assist in making an inventory, probably will become superintendent of the Rothenberg & Co. store. With him will go most of the employes still at work in the Fourteenth Street store.

General Supt. C. H. Williams of the Simpson Crawford store said there were hardly more than fifty of the employes let out of that establishment on Saturday night who had not found work, and that 25 per cent. of all the saleswomen had been employed by Gimbel Brothers. The entire suit department was taken over by Oppenheim & Collins. Others of the Simpson Crawford employes have found jobs with the Greenhut-Siegel-Cooper Company, Lord & Taylor, James McCreery's, O'Neill-Adams, Franklin Simon, Stern Brothers, Best & Co., and John Wanamaker's.

Dr. Robbins Gilman, Head Worker of the University Settlement at 184 Eldridge Street, said last night that he had received from several men of prominence promises of aid for the Siegel and Vogel saleswomen and girls who have not been able to obtain employment and who may need help to tide them over a period of enforced idleness. The employment bureaus of the Young Women's Hebrew Association and the Young Women's Christian Association also have volunteered their assistance to the women and girl employes who have been unable to find places, and the Workingmen's Protective League has started a canvass of the city to find vacancies which they can fill.

As the saleswomen and girls left the Siegel stores on Saturday night they received circulars informing them that those among them needing it would receive assistance from the Girls' Protective League Employment Exchange, 162 Madison Avenue; the Alliance Employment Bureau, 107 East Seventeenth Street; the National Employment Exchange, 30 Church Street; the Young Women's Christian Association Employment Exchange, 14 West Forty-fifth Street, and the Bureau for Unemployed Women, 17 West Thirtieth Street.

Investigation of the enterprises of Henry Siegel and Frank E. Vogel will be continued by the District Attorney's office, and other indictments may be returned before the end of the week. The District Attorney's office had not received any report yesterday from its agents who are investigating the transactions of Siegel and Vogel in Boston and Chicago, and none is expected for several days.

PRESS CLUB REVEALS FRAUD

Detectives Seek Man Who Distributed Special Memberships.

Detectives from the District Attorney's office are searching for a man whose name has been given as J. B. Auchincloss, who, it is said, has been soliciting money fraudulently from business men for special memberships in the New York Press Club and for the equipment of a houseboat on the Sound for the use of "tired and overworked newspapermen." It was learned yesterday that G. B. Gifford, manager of the Bayonne works of the Standard Oil Company, gave his check for $25 to Auchincloss some time ago for a year's dues as a special member of the club. The check was cashed by a saloonkeeper and returned canceled through his bank to Mr. Gifford.

Several weeks ago the club received a check from R. C. Veit of the Standard Oil Company in payment of dues for a special membership. Mr. Veit said that Auchincloss had called upon him after some one who represented himself as an intimate friend had arranged for an interview over the telephone, and that he had been pursuaded to become a special member in the club. He was too busy at the time, he said, to draw a check, so had one sent to the club after Auchincloss had gone. James M. Gifford of 5 Nassau Street also sent his check to the club after Auchincloss had asked him to become a special member.

In another case a check was drawn to the order of the Treasurer of the club and given to Auchincloss, who it is alleged affixed the Treasurer's name and cashed the check. G. B. Gifford drew his check in favor of "Eduardo J. Kenney," who, Auchincloss told him, was the Secretary of the club. Auchincloss, it is alleged, signed this name when he cashed the check in the saloon. The outstanding indictment and warrant are based upon this transaction.

The Board of Trustees of the Press Club placed what evidence they could obtain in the hands of the District Attorney, and Assistant District Attorney Embree was assigned to the case. News of it was withheld for some time in the hope that the man representing himself as Auchincloss might be arrested, but E. P. Howard, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, decided yesterday that the public should be warned of the imposter.

Mr. Howard said that the Press Club closed its list of special members January, 1913, and that no one had been authorized to solicit special or associate memberships since then.

STATE SOCIALISTS MEET.

Vote to Hold Party Convention on July 4 This Year.

The New York State Committee of the Socialist Party held its annual meeting yesterday at the Labor Temple, Eighty-fourth Street, near Second Avenue, to review its work and outline plans for the coming campaign. Forty-two delegates from the counties of the State attended, including Miss Mary Schonberg, the women's State correspondent of the party. A number of farmers were among the delegates, hailing from Orleans, Schenectady, Monroe, and Niagaga Counties. H. L. Slobodin of New York presided.

It was decided to change the date of the State convention from Decoration Day to July 4 and 5.

After a long discussion a resolution was passed favoring the electing of delegates for the Constitutional Convention in this State. Those voting in favor of the resolution held that the Constitutional Convention would give the Socialist Party good opportunities for spreading its propaganda. A committee of three was appointed to draw up plans for amending the State and national constitution of the party.

Among those booked to sail for Havre to-day on the Chicago are:

Eugene Claudet, M. Deschamps, A. Fitzpatrick, Mrs. L. Jourdan, F. Naudin, and Mr. and Mrs. S. Warren.

REPORTS DR. DIESEL LIVING IN CANADA

Munich Journal Hears Inventor, Supposedly Drowned, Has Begun Life Anew.

DESIGNED FAMOUS ENGINE

Disappeared from a North Sea Steamship Last Fall—Body Supposed to be His Recovered.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, March 15.—The Abend Zeitung of Munich publishes "under reserve" a statement that Dr. Diesel, who was reported drowned in the North Sea last Fall, is not dead, but, according to letters received in Germany, has begun life anew in Canada.

Dr. Rudolf Diesel, inventor of the famous oil-burning engine that bears his name, disappeared from the steamship Dresden on Sept. 29 of last year when the vessel was crossing the North Sea en route from Antwerp to Harwich. Dr. Diesel had left Antwerp on Sept. 28, his purpose being to attend the annual meeting of the Consolidated Diesel Engine Manufacturers in London. He was accompanied by George Carels, a Director, and Herr Luckmann, the chief engineer of the company.

Dr. Diesel had a cabin to himself, and it was not until the Dresden arrived at Harwich on the morning of the 30th that his absence was noted. His bed had not been slept in, though his night attire was laid out on it. His friends conjectured that he had fallen overboard. He had often complained of insomnia, and the theory of his friends was that he continued to stroll the deck after the other passengers had retired.

After the Dresden arrived at Harwich and the fact that the inventor had disappeared became known Herr Carels told of the discovery that Dr. Diesel was missing and the subsequent search of the Dresden.

"We returned to Dr. Diesel's cabin," said Herr Carels, "and an inspection of the bed showed that it had not been slept in. The coverlet was turned down and a nightshirt lay ready for Dr. Diesel on the bed. His keys were in the lock of his little handbag, and he had hung his watch on the side of the bag in such a position that he would be able to see it from where he lay. Everything appeared orderly in the cabin, and there was nothing to indicate any interference with his belongings.

"As Dr Diesel's landing ticket had not been given up, we felt certain that he could not have landed, and as he was not to be found on board, we could not think otherwise than that he had disappeared overboard during the night. If one has to put aside the thought of accident, I can only think that something must suddenly have given way in his brain. He was abstemious, did not smoke, and so far as I know did not suffer from giddiness."

Eleven days after Dr. Diesel disappeared from the Dresden a body was discovered at the mouth of the River Scheldt, near Flushing, Holland, by the pilot of the steamship Coertson. The body was that of a well-dressed man whose figure was about the same as that of Dr. Diesel. The man was clean shaven and in his clothing were found several articles similar to those said to have been carried by the inventor. The Burgomaster of Flushing and a son of Dr. Diesel, who viewed the body, both expressed the opinion that it was his. Neither, however, positively identified the body as that of the inventor.

At the time of his disappearance it was suggested that Dr. Diesel might have committed suicide on account of finacial difficulties.

WOMAN FIGHTS NEGRO THIEF

Knocks Down Intruder She Finds Robbing Her Home.

Mrs. John B. Van Brunt of 507 Ray Street, Jamaica, found a negro early yesterday evening ransacking the drawers of a bureau on the second floor of her home. She seized him and he broke away from her. She struck him and knocked him down, but the negro regained his feet and ran down the stairs. Aroused by his wife's shouts, Van Brunt started in pursuit of the negro.

William Hegeman, a neighbor, tried to head the negro off, but the burglar knocked him down with a blow on the head with the butt of his revolver. A large crowd joined in the chase, and, as the pursuers gained on him, the fugitive turned and fired two shots from his revolver to check them. He then turned into Fulton Street through an alley, entered the home of Dr. Thomas McCarthy, and ran out of the back door. He was caught in another alley and surrendered to Patrolman Dietz.

At the Jamaica Police Station the prisoner said he was Albert Banks, a stage manager and property man, but refused to give his address.

USHER SHOOTS IN THEATRE.

Quarrels with Smokers and Mortally Wounds Inoffensive Man.

More than 300 persons in the Atlantic Theatre at 2,310 Atlantic Avenue, East New York, were thrown into a panic at 8 o'clock last night when an usher suddenly opened fire with a revolver.

Carmino Maziato, 25 years old, of 2,302 Atlantic Avenue, with a groan, slid from his seat into the aisle. He had been shot in the abdomen.

The usher, known only as Saverio, with his revolver in his hand, fled to the street and escaped. The police are searching for him. The man, who is about 25 years old, was employed two weeks ago by Frank Lapardo, owner of the theatre.

The usher had quarreled with men who were smoking. When he ordered them to cease they jeered at him, and a fight was imminent when Maziato entered and took his seat among the smokers. One of those with whom the usher had remonstrated just then took a fresh cigar and lighted it. The usher grabbed him, but the man broke from his grasp. Then the usher fired three shots.

The wounded man was taken to St. Mary's Hospital by Ambulance Surgeon Clements. It is thought that he will die.

WOULDN'T WED COUNT.

Daughter of Danish Steamship Co. Head Fled Here—Now in Chorus.

Miss Karen Kirschner, the nineteen-year-old daughter of Harold Kirschner, President of the H. & K. Steamship Lines, of Copenhagen, Denmark, who ran away from her home in that city a few months ago, is in this city appearing in the chorus of "The Midnight Girl" company at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre.

Miss Kirschner came to America directly after having broken off her engagement to wed Count Gert von Lichtenberg. Count von Lichtenberg's mother was before her marriage the Baroness Wedell-Weldelborg.

Miss Kirschner's parents live at 9 Christiansvej, Hallerup, a suburb a short distance outside of Copenhagen. Ebbe Kornerup, one of the leading Danish artists, who received a gold medal for one of his paintings at a recent exhibit in the Royal Galleries in Charlottenborg, is an uncle of Miss Kirschner. At present she is living with her aunt, Mrs. Marie Jensen, at 1,202 Hudson Street, Hoboken.

Miss Kirschner arrived on the steamer C. F. Tietgen, accompanied by Miss Hannah Hagerup Bull, daughter of the present Prime Minister of Norway, who was on her way to Havana to marry.

Mme. Carreno at Metropolitan.

Mme. Teresa Carreno, pianist, was the principal soloist at the Metropolitan Opera House concert last night, where those who sang were Louise Homer, Rita Fornia and Carl Schlegel. Mme. Carreno played MacDowell's Concerto in D minor in the first part of the programme, and later a group of smaller compositions, with several encores. Mme. Homer's numbers were "Che Faro senza Euridice" from Gluck's "Orfeo ed Euridice," and "Nobile Signor" from "The Huguenots." Mr. Schlegel sang "An jenem Tag" from Marschner's "Hans Heilig," and Mme Fornia Santuzza's air from "Cavalleria Rusticana." The orchestra, under the direction of Richard Hageman, played the overture to "Euryanthe," Chabrier's "Rhapsodie Espana," and the "Cortege de Bacchus" from Delibe's "Sylvia."

Century Opera Concert.

At the Century Opera House concert last night the feature of the performance was the singing of the first act of "Cavalleria Rusticana" by Bertha Shalek, Gustaf Bergman, Morton Adkins, Florence Coughlan, and Cordelia Latham. Others who appeared were Lena Mason, Louis Kreidler, Marguerite Sullivan, and Mary Jordan. The orchestral numbers were the overture to "Masaniello," the barcarolle from "The Tales of Hoffmann," Lacombe's "Aubade Printemps," "Gillet's "Loin du Bal," incidental music to "A Mid-Summer Night's Dream," the intermezzo from "Cavalleria Rusticana," and Tschaikowsky's Slavonic March.

Pavlowa to Give New Ballet.

Anna Pavlowa, the Russian dancer, will play another engagement in New York, opening at the Manhattan Opera House on Monday, April 6, and continuing for two weeks. During this engagement a gypsy ballet, "Amarilla," never before given in this country, will be the principal of the novelties offered, and there will also be some new divertissements. The programme will be changed at each performance. "Giselle," a two-act ballet done by Pavlowa at the Metropolitan three years ago, will also be included in the repertoire. Her supporting company, headed by Novikoff, will be the same as that already seen here this season, and Theodore Stier will again direct the orchestra.

Postpone "Pair of Sixes" Opening.

Coincident with an announcement made yesterday that he had engaged Fritz Williams for a leading role in "A Pair of Sixes," H. H. Frazee has decided to postpone the premiere of Edward Peple's new farce in the Longacre Theatre from Tuesday to Friday evening in order to provide for additional rehearsals. Mr. Williams will replace George W. Howard in the part of the lawyer, and Jack Devereaux has also been added to the cast to replace Raymond Walburn in the role of the traveling salesman.

NEW EARTHQUAKE SHAKES JAPAN

Sixty Persons Known to Have Been Killed in the Island of Hondo.

COPPER MINE COLLAPSES

Fate of the 380 Miners Is in Doubt—Asama-Yame in Eruption.

TOKIO, March 15.—A serious earthquake occurred to-day in the prefecture of Akita, Island of Hondo. Several persons in the city of Akita were killed and many houses were destroyed or damaged. In the village of Kowakubs, which was ruined, there were many casualties. The disturbance badly damaged the railroad and telegraph lines.

The volcano Asama-Yama, ninety miles northwest of Tokio, is in eruption.

Full details of the disaster have not been received owing to the interruption to communication.

Sixty dead bodies were found in the basin of the Omono River, where 320 houses were destroyed. The village of Kitameno was burned.

As a result of the earthquake a copper mine at Tsunmdato collapsed. The fate of the 300 workmen in the mine is unknown.

Simultaneously with the earthquakes came terrific explosions and the bursting of flames from the volcano Asama-Yama, which terrified the inhabitants of the district.

Akita is a garrison town on the Sea of Japan. It does a considerable export trade, especially in rice. The population of the city is about 30,000.

Asama-Yama is the largest active volcano in Japan. A majority of its active periods have been productive only of showers of ashes. Its last great eruption was in the year 1783, when several villages on the north side of the mountain were obliterated by huge streams of lava. The crater is about three-quarters of a mile in circumference.

THE CIRCUS ARRIVES.

Comes in Four Trains for a Week of Rehearsals Before the Opening.

The Circus, meaning Barnum & Bailey's, came to town last night. It came in four long special trains from the Winter quarters at Bridgeport, Conn., and this morning the entire show is already in Madison Square Garden, ready for rehearsals, which start this afternoon and continue up to the first public performance next Saturday afternoon.

It had been the intention to bring the circus to the Garden before midnight, but just as the head of the wagon column was geting under way a representative of the Police Department appeared at the railroad yards an informed the Superintendent in charge of the circus transportation department that the wagons could not move through the streets of New York on Sunday without a special permit. As the circus management was without such a permit all that could be done was to wait until one minute aftermidnight this morning, when a permit would not be needed. At three minutes after midnight the long line started downtown, the head of it, which was made up of the elephant herds, reaching the Fourth Avenue entrance to the Garden at about 1:45 o'clock.

Madison Square Garden was completely transformed yesterday for the show. The floors were sodded for the horses and elephants, the three great rings were put in place, the scenery for the opening spectacle was set and ready for the 1,000 persons who will have a part in that part of the show, the roof supports were prepared for trapeze wires, rings and bars, the great overhead lights were installed and the power turned on, the bandstand was completed, and the quarters in the basement made ready to receive the lions, tigers, leopards, elephants and the other beasts of plain and jungle that go to make up the menagerie.

The show this year, it is stated by Ringling Brothers, the owners, will be greater than ever before in every respect.

Third Avenue Traffic Delayed.

Service on the Third Avenue Elevated Railroad from Ninety-ninth to 129th Street was tied up for forty-five minutes yesterday morning. An empty train, north bound, reached the turn at 129th Street about 8:30 o'clock. The first two cars went around without difficulty, but the third jumped the tracks, ripping up the planks and causing a short circuit which sent sparks and flames into the air. North bound trains stopped at Ninety-ninth Street, and south bound trains were switched to the Second Avenue tracks until the service was re-established.

CATCH FOOTPADS AT WORK.

Police Arrest Five Men for Attempt to Rob Restaurant Cook.

Detective Martin of the West Seventeenth Street Station, who has been employed in watching gangsters, saw two men exchanging hats as they stood with a crowd of young men in front of a saloon at Seventh Avenue and West Twentieth Street early yesterday morning. The detective shadowed the gang closely after that, and a few minutes later saw them follow a man along Twentieth Street from Seventh Avenue towards Sixth Avenue.

As he stood at Seventh Avenue watching the crowd Detective Martin was joined by Policeman Cormick. When the gang closed in on the man they had been following, the detective and policeman started to run towards them. A second later the crowd of young men scattered in all directions. Detective Martin downed one man and Policeman Cormick caught another.

Policeman Dickey, on post in Seventh Avenue, saw one man running, ordered him to halt and then fired two shots in his direction. The man kept on running, with the policeman pursuing until he reached the corner of Eighth Street and Seventh Avenue. Here he saw in front of him Policeman Nathanson, who had run into Seventh Avenue when he heard the firing. Instead of halting when the policeman ordered him, the fugitive fired a shot at Nathanson, the bullet grazing the policeman's cheek. A second later Nathanson had grappled with him and thrown him on the sidewalk.

Policeman Seymour, who was on post nearby, started for Seventh Avenue when he heard the shots, and gave chase to a man who seemed to be running away. Finding that he was not gaining on the fugitive, the policeman kicked off his rubber boots and, running in his stocking feet, overtook and arrested the fugitive. Policemen Nathanson and Cormick later caught two others whom they believed to have been in the gang.

At the West Seventeenth Street Station the prisoners described themselves as Christopher Morris, a driver of 331 West Twenty-first Street; George Dunn, a laborer, of 254 West Nineteenth Street; Thomas Hines, a clerk, of 351 West Sixteenth Street; Frederick Esch, a driver, of 226 West Eighteenth Street, and James McAneny, a clerk, of 1,767 Park Avenue.

The man they had attacked was Vincent Marci, a cook in a Childs restaurant on 125th Street. He was taken to the New York Hospital suffering from a broken nose and lacerations of the face.

It was reported yesterday that the members of the gang had originally attracted the notice of Detective Martin by wearing dress suits and silk hats, which they changed in a saloon for street clothes. According to the police, however, the men wore street clothes when they were first seen, and the only change in attire was in the case of the two men who exchanged hats.

FIGHTS BURGLAR ON ROOF.

Fugitive Traps a Policeman and Pinions His Arms.

Patrolman Donovan of the West Thirty-seventh Street Station last night pursued a burglar who had entered the apartments of Joseph Feraro on the third floor of 331 Seventh Avenue, into the tenement house at 228 West Twenty-eighth Street, and up five flights of stairs to the roof. As the policeman emerged through the scuttle he was bewildered to find no sign of the fugitive.

He advanced, club in hand, when from behind a chimney, where he was crouching, the burglar sprang upon him and pinioned his arms to his sides. There was a struggle, in which the burglar attempted several times to force the policeman over the edge of the roof.

Finally Donovan got one arm free and with his fist struck the burglar on the chin. The burglar relaxed his hold and Donovan quickly beat him into submission. At the police station the prisoner said he was Frank Piscene, 25 years old, of Mills Hotel No. 1.

MONEYMAKERS ASCETICS?

London Preacher Says They Practice Religious Self-Mortification.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, March 15.—Dean Inge in a sermon to-day discussed moneymaking as a form of ascetism, and said it was clear that nothing but a queer sort of religious self-mortification could induce many persons to choose the life which a successful business man had to lead.

When the moneymaker was an honest merchants, subduing the earth and really creating wealth to the public advantage, this work could be, and often was, an instrument of valuable moral discipline. But now that financieds had dethroned merchants; now that wealth was appropriated rather than created, the connection between religious austerity nad business was almost dissolved, and there was the unedifying spectacle, so common in America, of the unscrupulous speculator, who made his home in his office while his wife squandered his ill-gotten millions in vulgar and senseless extravagance.

PARIS HAS DIVORCEES' CLUB

Its Members Meet to Laugh Over Marital Experiences.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, March 15.—A new women's club, the idea of which probably came from America, has just been founded in Paris. Divorce is a necessary qualification for membership.

The organization, which calls itself the "Club des Delestées," ("Club of the Disencumbered,") meets at a monthly dinner in a famous boulevard café for the purpose, according to its constitution, of "confiding past experiences and laughing over them together."

128 of Construction Crew Drowned in Southern Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 15.—Details of the hurricane which swept the Province of Kuban, SCouthern Russia, on Saturday, were received here to-night from Ekaterinodar. A northerly gale caused numerous water spouts off the east coast of the Sea of Azov, and the shore from Yeisk to the Strait of Kertsch, a distance of about 500 miles, was flooded, and six villages were damaged.

One hundred and seventy-six men employed on the construction work of the Kuban Railway were sleeping in a shed. They were awakened by the roar of the storm, and fled before the rising tide to a train standing on the railway line and endeavored to escape on it. Soon, however, the engine and cars were overturned by the rushing waters and all of them were swept away.

The hurricane raged for ten hours. When it ceased the receding floods revealed terrible scenes of destruction. Eight miles of the railway embankment were in ruins.

The wrecked train was covered with the bodies of dead workmen, all of them showing evidence of the terrible struggle they had gone through in their endeavor to escape death. Forty-eight of the 176 men finally got to shore on floating wreckage, but it is feared that all the other members of the construction crew were drowned.

Many courageous rescues of persons floating on wreckage on the sea have been reported. Many bodies have washed ashore at various points.

The meagre dispatches received to-day reported that 1,500 lives had been lost as a result of the storm, but no reliable details giving what may be termed an accurate estimate have yet come to hand.

FIVE LOST IN BRITISH GALE.

Swedish Bark Wrecked — Queenstown and Liverpool Suffer.

LONDON, March 15.—The Swedish bark Trifolium was driven ashore on Land's End last night, and Capt. Olsen and four sailors were drowned. Six members of the crew were saved.

Storms all along the coast did much damage during the night to small craft, and several vessels were wrecked in Queenstown and Liverpool harbors.

PLEASED WITH WAR SCARE.

German Chauvinists Congratulate Themselves on Its Success.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, March 15.—Reviewing the net results of the Russian war scare which it organized, the German Chauvinistic press, in a week-end review of the international situation, has expressed itself, on the whole, well satisfied with what has been accomplished. The organs of the war party profess themselves gratified that the alarms which they pride themselves on having sounded for months have been "officially confirmed" by the Russian War Office.

The Tägliche Rundschau repeats the allegation that M. Sverbieff, the Russian Ambassador at Berlin, made representations to the German Foreign Office in regard to the Cologne Gazette's alarmist article immediately after its appearance, but that the German Government replied only very late, and not until after the Russian Government had expressed itself in reassuring terms in its official organ.

Another victory claimed for the war-scare campaign by the Rundschau is the alleged abandonment of the proposed Russian trial mobilization on the Austrian frontier and the evidence of lessened Russian hostility in Asia Minor.

The Cologne Gazette, by way of rebuking the official North German Gazette for pillorying the former's action in starting the war scare, reprints prominently the defense of the Gazette which appeared in the Hamburger Correspondenz, concluding as follows:

"No unfriendly word against the Cologne Gazette can be tolerated from the mouth of our diplomacy. We do not say this from a feeling of journalistic solidarity, but primarily because in the present position of the empire we expect little or nothing from sugar-coated courtesies and everything from proud and fearless expression of self-conscious strength."

ST. PETERSBURG, March 15.—The conference begun last night between Premier Goremykin and his Cabinet Ministers and the leaders of the chief parties of the Duma continued until early this morning. The Ministers fully explained the international situation to the members of Parliament and the necessity for increased naval and military credits.

It is stated that the army will be increased by 460,000 men, making the total of the first line of defense 1,700,000 men. The extra cost, it is estimated, will be $25,000,000, spread over three years.

PASSENGERS MUST 'REPORT'

Now Required to Tender Fares to Berlin Street Car Conductors.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, March 15.—This capital is now blessed with another police regulation, requiring passengers on street cars and buses to "report themselves" to the conductors instead of waiting to be asked to pay their fares. Failure to do so will be a misdemeanor.

The regulation is aimed at "absent-minded" persons addicted to the habit of becoming deeply absorbed in newspapers or books about the time the fare collector makes his round.

POLICE CURB CHURCH RIOT.

Polish Parishioner Interrupts a German Catholic Priest.

BERLIN, March 15.—The police to-day were compelled to clear St. Paul's Catholic Church of the members of the congregation at the morning service.

There have been long-standing differences between the German and Polish members of the parish, and to-day a Pole rose in the midst of the sermon and began an argument with the priest. The pastor, anticipating trouble, had appealed to the police for protection, and a detachment of them was scattered among the congregation when the service began.

When the disturbance arose the officiating priest gave a signal to the police, who ordered every one to leave the church. The order was obeyed with only slight resistance.

MILITANTS DAMAGE BURNE-JONES ART

Daub "Votes for Women" Throughout Birmingham Cathedral.

WANT AN ABBEY SERVICE

Sylvia Pankhurst Notifies the Dean of Westminster She'll Be There Next Sunday.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, March 15.—Suffragette messages, daubed in white paint over the pillars, floors, pew fronts, side galleries, and practically ever other part of the interior within reach, were discoveed to-day in Birmingham Cathedral.

Even the beautiful Burne-Jones window was not respected; the words "Votes for Women" were painted across the middle of it, and it is feared that permanent injury was done to it.

The pulpit front was disfigured, and on the vestry door were the words, "The Clergy Must Rise on Our Behalf," while the front of the organ was slashed.

The work must have occupied a number of people, with buckets of paint, for several hours.

LONDON, March 15.—Suffragettes to-day chanted prayers in Westminster Abbey, York Minster, and a Brighton parish church for their imprisoned colleagues.

Sylvia Pankhurst has written the Dean of Westminster, acquainting him with the intention of the East London suffragettes to march to the Abbey next Sunday and participate in the evening service and pray for the success of their cause. In her letter she said she would be present personally, and that she desired the Dean to adapt the service to a special congregation of suffragettes.

GLASGOW, March 15.—A band of suffragettes rose in the Cathedral during the service to-day and chanted "O Lord, we beseeth Thee to save Emmeline Pankhurst, Helen Crawford, and all the brave women who are suffering for their faith!" The congregation took no notice of the demonstration.

ARREST JAPANESE ADMIRAL.

Matsuo, Inspector General of Naval Construction, Charged with Graft.

TOKIO, March 15.—Vice Admiral Tsurutaro Matsuo, Inspector General of Naval Construction, on the reserve, was arrested to-day charged with complicity in alleged graft in naval expenditures.

Admiral Matsuo, who is 50 years old, was graduated from the engineering department of Tokio University in 1885. He served the Government abroad for a number of years and has been decorated several times. On his retirement he went in business for himself.

TOO EASY WITH MILITANTS.

German Jurist Condemns Leniency of the "Cat and Mouse" Act.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, March 15.—While praising the promptness of British justice in punishing last week's suffragette "martyrs," German jurists condemn the public sentiment which permits "wild women" to cheat the law by hunger striking.

Privy Councillor Josef Kohler, Dean of the Law Faculty of the University of Berlin, writing in to-day's Lokal Anzeiger, says that recent events in England prove that society can defend itself only in one way—by preserving absolute calm and cold indifference. All false sympathy must be put aside. Anybody who commiserates a hysterical woman is her slave next day. He who succumbs to sympathy for wholesale hysteria sins against humanity. If suffragettes try to starve themselves, society is entitled to prevent it in the same manner as it prevents other prisoners from committing suicide.

If the prisoners are weakened, he suggests that they be placed in the prison hospital, but not released. Only by showing entire unconcern over such abnormalities, he says, can society retain the upper hand.

BUILD UP A NEW LEG.

With Bone from Sound One, Surgeon Gives Cripple Relief.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, March 15.—A remarkable surgical operation has been performed successfully at St. Mary's Hospital, Paddington. Years ago a 15-year-old boy injured his right leg below the knee. The larger bone of the lower leg began to swell and became very painful. The surgeons recently removed six inches of the diseased bone, leaving the fibrous covering of the bone in position.

To repair the gap thus formed a seven-inch strip of the smaller bone of the sound leg was removed at a second operation. This narrow shaft of bone was inserted into the soft central marrow in the two healthy ends of the formerly diseased tibia. The wounds in both legs have healed satisfactorily.

RUSH SHIP TO ESMERALDAS.

British Gunboat Hurries to Ecuadorean Port—Cable Has Been Cut.

PANAMA, March 15.—Word came from Ecuador to-day that the British gunboat Shearwater had been ordered to proceed at top speed to Esmeraldas at the request of the Biritish Vice Consul. Communication with Esmeraldas has been interrupted since Friday night, when the cable apparently was cut. From Guayaquil it is learned that the Federals are still in control there.

The Ecuadorean rebel junta here believes that the evacuation of Esmeraldas last week by Gen. Concha was a strategic move, designed to bottle up President Plaza and his forces in the city.

PAYS HIGH TRIBUTE TO LADY BATHURST

Writer in London Daily Mail Praises Morning Post's Proprietor

ON THE MORN OF BATTLE

She Engages with Lord Northcliffe To-day for Supremacy in Penny Paper Field.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Monday, March 16.—In reference to the triangular contest of the London penny newspapers, which begins this morning with the reduction in the price of The Times, The Daily Mail publishes an article by "A Daily Mail Observer."

Discussing the personalities of those behind the scenes in the production of these journals, the writer pays the following tribute to Countess Bathurst, who controls The Morning Post:

"A young and beautiful woman of the world revealed the inherited brains of two generations and made The Morning Post the goodly paper it is to-day. She is one of the most influential women in England. She uses her power well, on the whole. The gallant knights of the pen who daily do her bidding find her wise counsel or great comfort and assistance. Her intimate knowledge of home and foreign politics, of naval and military affairs, and of the complications of the land question is a revelation in female capacity.

"Jealous folk point to the fact that ex-editors of The Morning Post are numerous; there have been four in a short span Feminine caprice, however, has little to do with her choice. She picks her staff as Queen Victoria chose her houses of old, and displays, indeed, many of the qualities of that great ruler. Traveled, widely read, and an accomplished linguist, she makes The Morning Post a considerable factor in the battle beginning in Fleet Street this morning. Left to the care of the Board of Directors of The Morning Post, one a strong Radical, the property might have suffered extinction."

Pointing out the fact that John Walter has for some years taken complete charge of the printing of The Times, the writer says that Mr. Walter occupies his father's place in Printing House Square, with occasional advice and assistance from Lord Northcliffe, "whose active participation in journalism, however, is not what it was."

"Unlike Lord Northcliffe, who rarely sees and never reads a letter, being mainly nowadays engaged in golf and travel, Mr. Walter is at Printing House Square all day and every day."

There has been endless speculation regarding the circulation of The Times. To-day its publisher reveals some figures. He says that during the last few years a daily sale of 54,000 has been attained, which is not far from that of The Post and much nearer that of The Telegraph than most people know. On important occasions, he says, as many as 100,000 copies have been sold.

CROMER'S AID MARRIED.

Harry Boyle, British Consul in Berlin, Weds Romantically.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, March 15.—It has just become known that Harry Boyle, the British Consul General in Berlin, who is known as "the man who helped Cromer rule Egypt," was recently married under romantic circumstances.

His bride is a young and beautiful Polish Jewess, Fräulein Asch, who was employed as a stenographer in the offices of the Consulate General, where she made Mr. Boyle's acquaintance. She came to Berlin to study music, and, although she is the daughter of wealthy parents, accepted a place in Mr. Boyle's offices, as an agreeable means of occupying her spare time. Her father is a prominent citizen of Posen and her brother is a lawyer.

Mr. Boyle is 50 and his bride is much younger. The Consul General was Oriental Secretary to the British Agency in Cairo when Lord Cromer was the British Agent. He is a profound Oriental scholar, and is said to speak Arabic better than any other Englishman.

Deaf Mute Wins Cambridge A. M.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, March 15.—Cambridge University has just conferred the degree of Master of Arts on Armand Mackenzie, the first deaf and dumb man who ever won the Masters' hood in a British university. Mackenzie, who was born deaf and dumb, paid the university fees out of his scanty earnings. He married a deaf wife.

SCOTTI TELLS OF SINGER'S HANDICAPS

Acting on Operatic Stage Always Governed by Composer's Music, Says Baritone.

DEMAND FOR VERSATILITY

Verdi Understood the Dramatic Values—Difficult Problem Presented in "Tosca."

Antonio Scotti, the baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and one of the most famous exponents of the "acting" rôles in the lyric drama the world over, pointed out one day last week for a TIMES reporter some of the handicaps of the actor on the operatic stage as compared with his brother of the stage of the spoken word.

"The point to start with," said Mr. Scotti, "is the very obvious one that whereas the material which the actor uses is plastic, to be moulded by his own hands to fit his own ideas, the opera singer is confined in delivering any given line to one inflection, one intensity, one speed—the one that the composer has given it.

"An actor can say 'I love you' in any one of a hundred ways, but the singer can say it in only one. Where the actor can vary his delivery in many ways, and thus keep his audience interested by the constant change, the opera singer can only do this in so far as the composer allows him. Yet the operatic actor is called upon by almost all of his rôles to make the character he is portraying a definite individuality outside entirely of the musical significance.

"Sometimes when I have a certain speech to deliver in one of my parts, my instinct would make me want to say it, for instance, in the most rapid speed with great intensity. But it may happen that the composer has set to that particular speech a flowing melody. Therefore, in delivering it, I must work against my own feeling, while the actor, with the same phrase, would be free to follow his own instinct. Yet I must deliver that phrase with perfect conviction or lose its effect on the audience.

"With this matter of naturalness in dialogue and action there is a great difference among composers. No one has ever achieved the perfection which Verdi did in this respect. In my study of the rôles of Falstaff and Iago it has been borne in on me many times how perfectly the composer understood the mechanical problems of stage action, and how ideally his dialogue is fitted with music that times the words correctly. If I were called upon to read the lines of his libretto to either of these operas I would not need to change at all from the way I sing it.

"Verdi surely had the kind of mind that would have made him an actor if he had wanted to. He must have had the faculty of seeing the play acting before him as he wrote. Therefore the task of throwing reality about the character you are singing in these operas is one where you are helped instead of hindered.

"All composers are not so thoughtful in this regard, however. In my whole career I have not worried as much over anything as what I was to do when the soprano begins her 'Vissi d'arte' in 'Tosca.' You know the tenseness of the situation and how everything depends on working that up. Scarpia has risen to a climax of feeling, the desire of gaining possession of Tosca dominating him, and when it is at its height, when the moment of action seems to be at hand, Tosca calmly turns away and sings the 'Vissi d'arte,'—'I have lived for art.'

"In proportion as I have been able to show the gathering passion on the part of Scarpia, just in such degree does this moment bring awkwardness. The librettist and composer have conspired to blot the baritone out of the picture, just as if some one came and put a screen in front of him. What can I do? If I do anything noticeable it will take away from the singing of the soprano, and, on the other hand, I cannot let things drop entirely, because the situation leads to the climax of the opera in a short time and the suspense must be maintained.

"So I gaze at her a short time as if her words had given me a new thought, then I go slowly back to the centre door or to the window and look out. If the character of Scarpia is to continue to leave its force, I must make these artificial actions seem as if they meant something, yet they must not unduly take away the attention from the soprano. I assure you that the experience gained in many years on the stage is needed to carry through a moment of such demands as that. And you must do it all with finish, with utmost economy of means, or it becomes meaningless.

"There is an instance which the actor does not often parallel in his experience. A line to take him out of the way naturally or some business could easily be arranged, but on the operatic stage the steady course of the music is inexorable, and arias wait for no man.

"This Scarpia that I have been giving to the New York public for twelve years is never quite the same man from one night to the other. I change the business of the part slightly all the time, probably because I am an Italian. I have studied in the French school, and it is most valuable, but if you stick to it you will be using the same gestures and positions all the time. The Italian method leaves more to the inspiration of the moment, hence there is more variety. French actors have a tendency always to express the same thought in the same way. Once you have acquired the routine you have something that is always graceful and dexterous, but, as I say, I like to do things differently, and I think it is a relief to the public.

"Another advantage which the actor has over us, I think, is that we are called on for more versatility than he is. This may not have been true in the old days, but certainly at the present time an actor is largely confined to one line of characters in which he has been particularly successful. In direct opposite to this, an operatic singer will be called on, as I am, to supply the deft farcical acting of one of the older comedy works, like 'Don Pasquale,' and the intensity of the modern 'Tosca,' all in the same week. The part of Tonio, the clown, in 'I Pagliacci,' ranges in one night in demand from low comedy to tragedy.

"Those are some of the reasons for my thinking that the singing actor has a more difficult task to get his effects than his brother Thespian. Of course, there is not too large a percentage of opera singers who can act at all, because acting is a gift of personality aside from the voice entirely. You can teach a man to sing, but you cannot teach him that something which makes his presence felt by the audience as soon as he comes on the stage, so that you know he is there even if you shut your eyes.

"The reason that I have kept my voice after twenty-four years on the stage is that I fortunately began while the influence of the old school of thorough voice mechanics still prevailed. I had to study longer than I would now, but the result is a foundation that allows me to use my voice without spoiling it. Nowadays a great many singers rush into the operatic field without proper preparation, and suffer on account of it, just as the actors do because of similar lack of training in their own profession. I constantly watch the dramatic stage of this country and France, indeed, wherever I go, and I would advise all singers to do the same thing."

MR. SAPIRSTEIN'S RECITAL.

The Pianist Appears for the Fourth Time in Princess Theatre.

David Sapirstein closed yesterday the series of four pianoforte recitals that he has been giving on Sunday afternoons in the Princess Theatre. They have shown his talent in a favorable light; have shown commendable progress in his art, and given promise of his future advance. He is a young man who has had his training in this country, and very good training, too. He has brought himself with dignity and without ostentation before the public, and has declared himself an artist who ought to be reckoned with.

He played yesterday a somewhat conventional programme, as he has before. It would be well if he were to venture a little more boldly outside of the virtuoso's traditions in programme making. He began with Schumann's "Carnaval," and followed it with a group of Chopin's pieces—eight preludes, the G minor ballade, the Berceuse, the B flat mazurka, and ended with Liszt's "Reminiscences of Don Juan." There were breadth and power in his playing of the "Carnaval"; in the later sections more of warmth and imagination than he put into the earlier ones. And his tempo for the "March of the Davidsbündler" was more appropriate in its measured pace than the hurried rate at which it is often taken. Mr. Sapirstein's repose, his general certainty of technique, his tonal gradation were all admirable.

FILM FIGHT ON FAKE CURES.

Brooklyn Organization to Make Novel Anti-Tuberculosis Campaign.

By the aid of moving pictures the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities is preparing to make a movie fight on fake tuberculosis cures and also to show how the disease may be cured when treated in its early stages.

How "John Bond," a political boss, was won over to the support of a new tuberculosis hospital in New York, is the theme of the chief film, which will be shown this week in four Brooklyn theatres. The title of the film is "The Awakening of John Bond," which, together with "Hope," "A Curable Disease," and "The Price of Human Lives" will be presented at the request of the Tuberculosis Committee of the Bureau of Charities.

Mr. Sinzig's Recital.

Mr. Ferinand Sinzig's piano recital in Rumford Hall yesterday afternoon was devoted mostly to modern music. After Brahms, Mozart, and Bach there were pieces by Sinding, Saint-Saens, Glazanow, Widor, three by Mr. Sinzig himself, and others by Debussy and Raval. Mr. Sinzig has not the technique of a virtuoso, nor a virtuoso's style; but he plays with sincerity, musical feeling, a charming touch, and with a real interest in the music with which he is concerned. Yesterday his own "Slumber Song" gave so much pleasure to the audience that he repeated it. He was assisted by Mrs. Eudora van Horn, who sang songs by Paladilhe, Huë, Boradin, and Vidal

Postpone "Pair of Sixes" Opening.

Coincident with an announcement made yesterday that he had engaged Fritz Williams for a leading role in "A Pair of Sixes," H. H. Frazee has decided to postpone the premiere of Edward Peple's new farce in the Longacre Theatre from Tuesday to Friday evening in order to provide for additional rehearsals. Mr. Williams will replace George W. Howard in the part of the lawyer and Jack Devereaux has also been added to the cast to replace Raymond Walburn in the role of the traveling salesman.

FORBES-ROBERTSON REVIEWS HIS CAREER

Wishes to Retire Now, He Says, While He "Can Kick a Leg."

BRIGHT OUTLOOK FOR DRAMA

Tells Press Club of Marvelous Advance in Theatrical Matters the Last Forty Years.

Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson was the guest of honor last night at a dinner given by the New York Press Club in its clubhouse in Spruce Street. J. I. C. Clarke was the toastmaster, and in introducing Sir Johnston he said that he could not believe that the actor really intended to retire from the stage while he was still in his prime.

"Nothing could be more absurd to me," he said, "than that our guest of honor to-night, this great artist, this young man, should retire now. There is no reason for it. Why should one of the most brilliant stars in the heavens stop shining? Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson may be making a farewell tour, he may make many farewell tours, as other great actors have, but I cannot think that he really will retire. We will see him in 'Hamlet' again, this prince of the drama walking the heights—for that was the Hamlet of our guest."

Sir Johnston, in his response, left no doubt in the minds of his hearers about his retirement. His speech was in light vein, but sincere.

"Your toastmaster," he said, "has been good enough to wish that I might not retire, and I thank him for it, but my present farewell tour is really my last. For many years I have had the desire to retire, to ring the last curtain down, while I could yet, as it were, kick a leg. I have no wish to hear it said of me in some year to come, as has been said of more than one actor who stayed on the stage too long: 'Oh, yes, he's very good; but you should have seen him in the forties.' I want to retire before I go backward."

Sir Johnston added that his wife would not retire, and he expressed the hope that when Americans saw her as their Gertrude Elliott they would think of him.

Has Liking for America.

"For," he said, "since I first came to America twenty-seven years ago I have found some of my warmest friends here, and have learned to love your country. I have been received on my many trips with the sincerest kindness both as a public servant and as a private individual. I have a deep love for America, and I will not hear a word against the institutions of this great country, as my wife will not hear a word against the institutions of England.

"I feel strongly that this is right. I have long felt that there should be a close relationship and a thorough understanding between England and America and the peoples of both countries. It rejoices me to see the flags of the two countries above by head embracing, as it were, and in my heart of hearts I believe that they are entwined now and forever. And if the advent of men like Cyril Maude in America and the advent of your great actors in London helps to make the understanding between England and America more thorough and the mutual regard more lasting, how proud all of us actors should be of our profession."

In a short review of his life as an actor, Sir Johnston said that in his opinion the drama had advanced more in recent years than any of the other arts.

"When I first went on the stage, forty years ago," he said, "the state of affairs was not encouraging. I think that there were not more than three theatres presenting native plays in London. But the state of affairs in both England and America has immeasurably improved since then. The advance of the drama has been marvelous.

"The people have come to recognize in the drama an educational force equal to that of painting, music, and sculpture. The actors are better, the average among them is higher, and better plays are being written.

"We have now an American drama and young men are going to make names for themselves in giving their talents to it. People are no longer satisfied with a merely sensational play, nor with a pretty love story. They are looking for some spiritual push, as it were, behind the story, and this is the inspiration of the authors who are making the drama of England and America."

Praise for Actor's Calling.

Dr. Talcott Williams, Director of the School of Journalism of Columbia University, was the spokesman of the Press Club in paying a tribute to Sir Johnston. In his address he likened the actor to the newspaper man in that both "hold up the mirror to nature," both claim all life for their field.

Lady Forbes-Robertson was also invited to the dinner as a guest of honor, but sent word that she felt too tired after her last performance in Philadelphia Saturday night to come to New York. She went direct to Washington yesterday, where she and Sir Johnston open to-night.

Among the speakers at the dinner were Robert Erskine Ely, President of the Civic Forum; Daniel Frohman, Percy S. Bullen, George T. Wilson, Vice President of the Pilgrims of the United States, and Sir Courtenay Walter Bennett, Consul General of Great Britain.

MR. LETZ'S RECITAL.

Violinist of the Kneisel Quartet Plays in the Little Theatre.

Something more than four years ago, Mr. Hans Letz gave a violin recital in New York in which he showed an admirable equipment in technique and musical understanding, though it was evident that he had not then arrived at the full maturity of his powers. Last evening he gave another one, in the Little Theatre, of which a different account may be rendered. In the meantime Mr. Letz has been concert master of the Chicago Orchestra, and then second violin of the Kneisel Quartet, which position he still holds. These experiences have contributed much to Mr. Letz's artistic advancement, and he has grown greatly in his art. His style has matured and mellowed; his playing has gained in color and variety of expression, in masculine energy, in finesse and finish. He showed before a remarkably fine technique, vigorous and elastic bowing, almost unfailing accuracy of stopping, and a style that clearly revealed in many ways the most thorough grounding.

Mr. Letz was thus able to give an extremely interesting and enjoyable interpretation of the short but meaty programme that he had set for his recital. Brahms's sonata for piano and violin in A, the adagio and fugue from Bach's G minor solo sonata, the romanza from Joachim's Hungarian concerto, and Max Bruch's Scotch Fantasic, were the numbers. To these he added Jenö Hubay's brilliant display piece called "Zephyr." Mr. S. Chotzinoff played the piano part in Brahms's sonata, and the accompaniments to the other pieces with quite unusual sympathy and precision. The audience was fairly numerous, and found frequent occasion for warm applause, which at the close amounted to real enthusiasm.

ELMAN'S LAST RECITAL.

Violinist Gives Farewell Concert of the Season in Carnegie Hall.

Mischa Elman gave his last recital of the season yesterday afternoon at Carnegie Hall. His programme included Beethoven's Sonata in F, Bruch's Concerto in D minor, Wieniawski's "Faust" Fantasie, and a final group which comprised Tschaikowsky's "Serenade Melancolique," Hungarian Dance, No. 7, by Brahms-Joachim; Aubade Provencale by Couperin-Kreisler, and an Etude Caprice by Paganini-Auer.

In his playing yesterday the violinist again exhibited the familiar qualities which are associated with his artists, among which the most noteworthy were the sweep and vigor of his style, and the big tone, beautiful, if not in the sensual way, at least with a virile singing quality. Percy Kahn's work at the piano was a valuable factor in the success of the music, which greatly pleased a comfortably large audience.

"JERRY" ON MARCH 26.

Frohman Postpones Trip to Produce Billie Burke's Play.

Charles Frohman decided last night to postpone his annual trip to Europe in order to put on his final production of the season, which will be Billie Burke in the new comedy, "Jerry," by Catherine Chisholm Cushing. The first rehearsal will be held this morning. Although an American girl, this will be the first time that Miss Burke has ever acted the part of an American girl on the stage; all of her previous characters have been either French, English, or German.

The scenes of "Jerry" are laid in the suburbs of Philadelphia, though the rôle played by Miss Burke is that of a Chicago girl.

It is now definitely settled that Miss Burke will give the first performance of "Jerry" at the Lyceum Theatre on Thursday, March 26, this time dispensing with the usual preliminary out-of-town performances. Others in the cast will be Gladys Hanson, Alice Johns, Shelley Hull, Allan Pollock, Thomas Reynolds, Lumsden Hare, and Bernard Thornton.

There is a Great Difference in Tobaccos

Tuxedo is the Mildest, Sweetest, Most Pleasant Smoke in the World, Because—

First—No one but the makers of Tuxedo is willing to spend the money necessary to buy the mildest, choicest, most thoroughly aged, selected Burley tobacco.

Second—No one but the makers of Tuxedo knows how to treat this Burley tobacco so that every bit of pleasantness and goodness remains in the tobacco and every bit of unpleasantness and harshness is taken out.

Tuxedo
The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

Tuxedo was born in 1904. Its first imitator appeared two years later. Since then a host of imitations have been born, and are clamoring for your patronage.

No imitation is ever as good as the original. No amount of advertising, no amount of bluster and bluff, can ever make an imitation tobacco as good as Tuxedo.

If you are not a pipe smoker, you are denying yourself the greatest smoking pleasure known to man. One week of Tuxedo will give you more enjoyment than you have ever had—and at the end of the week your nerves will be better and your general health will have improved. Try Tuxedo this week!

Vantine's
The Oriental Store—Introduced Oriental Rugs in America in 1878

Saruk Rugs

VANTINE'S Oriental Rug floor prides itself almost as much upon its very unusual collection of Saruk rugs as it does upon its Old Chinese pieces and its remarkable collection of Kermanshahs.

Saruks, and their close relations, the fine Kashan rugs, have the fineness of weave and design of the Kermanshah, with a thickness of pile which makes them most attractive and extremely serviceable.

We show not less than forty pieces of unusual fineness in the carpet sizes—a collection that it has taken years to get together, with all our Far Eastern facilities; while in smaller sizes our selection is almost unlimited.

One big Saruk, in design and coloring as refined as a Paisley shawl, is 10.9 by 17.9 feet, priced at $1,500. The Kerman florals are freely displayed and the rug bears a Persian inscription at one end. It has intricate, jewel-like borders and a Feraghan green medallion, surrounded by a live ruby border.

A second large piece, at $1,600, is 10.7 by 13.2 feet, and might strictly be classed as a Kashan, woven at the same place as the famous Ardebil rug, now in South Kensington Museum, London. It has a beautiful sapphire ground, with a floral center showing old gold, yellow and turquoise shades. The knots are as fine as in a silk rug, permitting the most intricate filigree effects in the many borders. It has a deep pile and the softness of satin—a most unusual rug and unquestionably old.

A good Saruk, worthy of any surroundings, is priced at $275; size, 9.3 by 11.9 feet; a rich wine red ground with an ultramarine floral center. Another with a thick, rich pile, 8.6 by 12.6 feet, prominently displaying the Herati fish design in jade green, is $350.

There are other worthy examples, among the large rugs, at $150, $245, $285, $300 and $350—rugs which cannot be duplicated even by us.

Around the 4 by 7 feet size in Saruks, we show from 60 to 70 choice pieces, ranging from $57 to $95—gems of the purest weave; while smaller sizes are offered at $32 to $45—a bewildering variety of beautiful small rugs.

Engagement Gifts

It is a beautiful sentiment which prompts the sending of presents to the newly engaged.

The beauty and fitness of Gorham engagement gifts give new point to this ancient custom, now grown popular again.

The language of sentiment is exquisitely spoken in each one of these articles. It is a language as intangible as imagination itself, but spoken so surely in these symbols of silver and gold that no one can fail to understand.

Gorham engagement gifts are intended for those who regard the selection of presents as an art. The degree to which a gift fits the occasion and the recipient is the degree to which the culture of the giver has attained.

The art of gift designing has advanced so far that there is no excuse for sending an unsuitable present. The styles and prices of the Gorham gifts are varied enough to suit every taste and every purse.

An inspection of the articles in Gorham's gift department will show you what we mean. Some of these articles, though it is only a partial list, may be suggestive to you:

DR. PRICE'S CHURCH DENOUNCES CHARGES

Unanimous Vote of Confidence Given to Minister Accused of Impropriety.

FORMER ORGANIST BLAMED

Gossip Started Soon After He Was Discharged, Says Official—Trustee Solid for Pastor.

By a rising vote the congregation of the Washington Heights Methodist Episcopal Church at 153d Street and Amsterdam Avenue unanimously expressed yesterday its faith in the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Jacob E. Price, who was recently accused by several women parishioners. Many of those present were moved to tears. The testimonial of confidence came as a surprise to Dr. Price, who expressed his thanks to the congregation in a broken voice. The charges against the minister have been put before Bishop Luther Wilson, and he has been asked to investigate them.

The little edifice, which is popularly known as "The Homelike Church on the Hill-Top," was crowded yesterday morning at the regular Sunday service. Dr. Price, in his opening prayer, made no allusion to the charges, but before the text of the sermon was announced Walter R. Comfort, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the church, arose and read this statement, which had been prepared by the Board of Trustees:

> Certain rumors have been put in circulation reflecting upon the character of our honored and beloved pastor. On behalf of the official board we wish to say that our estimate of the merit of these rumors may be inferred from the fact that the Quarterly Conference, with full knowledge of them, and in the presence of the congregation invited to atetnd the session, unanimously invited the pastor to return and requested the Bishop and District Superintendent to make the reappointment.
>
> Knowing the rumors have found their way into the press, and some people might be troubled thereby, we wish to state that our confidence in our pastor is unshaken, and we have no doubt in the final outcome of the investigation which the pastor has requested shall be made before or at the approaching session of the annual conference.

After reading this statement, Mr. Comfort explained that he felt moved to make plain his own attitude toward the pastor. He said:

"I feel that I must express my own feelings at this time. I have watched this church grow in the last year, and it has been the source of a great pride to me. To-day we are a unit with our pastor."

Mr. Comfort was immediately followed by Frederick B. Fisher, General Secretary of the Laymen's Missionary Movement of the Methodist Episcopal Church and a member of Dr. Price's congregation, who suggested that a rising vote of confidence in the pastor be taken and a suitable hymn sung. When the vote was called the entire congregation arose and sang "Blest Be the Tie that Binds." At the conclusion of the hymn Dr. Howard D. Marsh, who is President of the Methodist Brotherhood, made a brief address denying the truth of the report that he was contemplating leaving the church because of the rumors circulated against Dr. Price.

"I will remain and work as I have done in the past," he said.

The text of Dr. Price's sermon was from the 17th verse of the Fifth chapter of the Gospel of St. Matthew: "I am not come to destroy, but to fulfill." The preacher spoke upon evolution and its application to religion and character. After the service Dr. Price said to the newspaper reporters:

"This is not my fight personally. It is the fight that every minister has to make who does his duty."

An official of the church, who asked that his name be not mentioned, said that the whole trouble was caused by the discharge of a certain organist.

"The organist sued the church," said this speaker, "and the matter was afterward compromised. Rumors then began to be circulated against Dr. Price and this trouble came upon us."

Ex-Assistant District Attorney Frank Moss has charge of the legal end of the matter for the church, and shares the opinion of the rest of the congregation that Dr. Price has been maligned. The members of the Board of Trustees said yesterday that they were with the pastor to a man and would stick to him to the end. Among those who expressed their confidence in Dr. Price at the service yesterday was ex-Lieut. Gov. Linn Bruce.

Dr. Price laughingly related that he had received a telephone communication from a clergyman in Brooklyn who said that he did not trust himself to express his opinion of the charges in a letter lest he be betrayed into using language which might subject him to arrest, and so telephoned his condemnation of the charges and his unshaken confidence in the minister.

BRAZILIAN ROILS A YANKEE.

Flag Waving Leads to a Scuffle on Deck of Incoming Ship.

While the steamship Verdi, from Brazilian ports, was on her way yesterday from Quarantine to her pier, there was a disagreement between two of the first-class passengers on the promenade deck. José H. Farras, a coffee merchant of Rio de Janeiro, who has four adult sons living in this city, was walking about with the colors of his country tied to the handle of an umbrella which he awved to and fro in an enthusiastic manner.

William W. Yager of San Francisco, who was standing near the rail, became annoyed and said: "Stop waving that flag. You are in America now." In reply Mr. Farras became much excited and waved the flag in the American's face. Mr. Yager then tried to take it from him.

In the struggle which ensued Mr. Yager lost his temper and knocked the Brazilian down.

Several of the ship's officers and passengers prevented further trouble. When the four sons of Mr. Farras, who were at the pier, saw a bruise on their father's forehead, they wanted to be revenged. They asked Acting Deputy Surveyor O'Connor to have Mr. Yager arrested, but Mr. O'Connor said he could do nothing in the matter. The American told the reporters that he was sorry he had lost his temper and was willing to apologize.

FOUR BISHOPS TO OFFICIATE

Prelates Will Conduct Funeral of the Right Rev. John Scarborough.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., March 15.—Four Bishops will officiate at the funeral of Bishop John Scarborough of the Episcopal Diocese of New Jersey in Christ Church in Trenton at 11 o'clock on Tuesday morning. They are Bishops Edwin Lines of Newark, Ethelbert Talbot of Bethlehem, Penn.; Philip Rhinelander of Philadelphia, and David Greer of New York.

The Standing Committee of the diocese will form an escort for the coffin. These are the members of the committee: The Rev. Hamilton Schuyler, the Rev. Alfred B. Baker, the Rev. Charles M. Perkins, the Rev. H. M. Pearse, J. B. Woodward, David E. Baird, Charles Townsend, and Warren R. Dix.

Give a Biblical Play.

The congregation Rodeph Sholom celebrated the eve of the Feast of Purim, which will be observed to-day with a Biblical play at the Temple Building, Sixty-third Street and Lexington Avenue, yesterday. The characters in the play were children. An address was delivered by Maurice B. Blumenthal, former Deputy Attorney General.

HIGH DEATH RATE IN RURAL NEW YORK

Grangers Point to It as an Argument for the Pending Hygiene Bill.

SAY FARMERS FAVOR IT

Sanitary Agents Would Be Named to Make Surveys, but Not to Compel Action on Them.

A statement has been given out by prominent Grangers calling attention to the high death rate in the rural districts of New York State, and urging the passage of the Rural Hygiene bill introduced in the Legislature by Senator Clayton L. Wheeler of Hancock and Assemblyman Alexander Macdonald of Franklin County. A table is given which shows that the death rate in rural New York was 15.2 a thousand. The only State which shows a higher rate is Maryland. There the negro population is large and the rate reached 16.8.

The statement begins with this assertion:

"Had the death rate in rural New York communities of less than 8,000 population been as low as the death rate in New York City last year, 3,900 people would be alive to-day who are now dead.

"Statisticians have carefully figured the value of a human life at $5,000. Court decisions in negligence cases have placed the value at many times that sum. At the conservative estimate of $5,000 rural New York last year suffered a preventable loss of $19,500,000.

"Almost any appropriation that the farmers of the State might demand from the Legislature would be justified if its wise expenditure offered even a possibility of preventing this enormous waste of the State's resources.

"The Wheeler-Macdonald bill creating a division of rural hygiene in the State Department of Health is receiving practically the united support of the farmers of the State. It does not impose restrictions on the farmers for the protection of the cities, but simply offers the residents of rural New York the health protection which has reduced the city death rate while the death rate in the rural districts has risen. The increased knowledge of sanitation and hygiene which this new division will carry to the farmers of the State makes a measurable reduction in the rural death rate not only a possibility but an absolute certainty."

Attention is called to the fact that only $75,000 is asked for in the bill, a sum much smaller, it is stated, than is spent by the State in experiments in road-making, forestry, and other activities.

"We realize that inspections are unpopular in the country," the statement continues. "A sanitary inspection of a farmhouse is not, however, an inspection in the ordinary sense.

"We believe that every farmer in New York State sees the practical value to himself and to his neighbors of having a rural sanitary agent provided in the Wheeler-Macdonald bill, available for such surveys as those in Indiana."

The statement was signed by W. H. Vary of Watertown, Master of the State Grange; W. N. Giles of Skaneateles, Secretary and Chairman of its Public Health Committee; Charles G. McLouth of Shortsville, and E. P. Browne of Savannah, members of the Grange's Public Health Committee. The State Charities Aid Association is co-operating with the Grange to obtain the legislation.

Certain-teed
ROOFING
CERTAIN-TEED LABEL OF QUALITY
GUARANTEED
One-Ply 5 Years
Two-Ply 10 Years
Three-Ply 15 Years

The General says:—

Buy roofing by this label—it's your advance proof that you're going to get the service for which you pay.

WHY THE QUALITY OF CERTAIN-TEED ROOFING IS HIGHER ALTHOUGH THE COST TO YOU IS LOW.

By George M. Brown, President General Roofing Manufacturing Company

There is one great big point about Certain-teed Roofing that I want to impress as forcibly as I can upon your mind.

It costs you less and gives you more.

When I say it costs you less, I do not mean that you can't buy roofing at a lower price. You can—much lower in some cases. But you cannot figure cost merely by the price you pay. You've got to consider the years of service.

A Certain-teed Roof will last 15 years or more. Even if you pay a few dollars less for some other roofing to cover the same area and it dries up and leaks and has to be done over in a year or two or possibly five—it has cost you many times the cost of Certain-teed per year.

Certain-teed Roofing is the highest quality possible for skilled men and perfect machines to make of the best raw products obtainable. There is no step in its manufacture in which we do not bear constantly in mind that we are making a roofing which will surely make good under our 15-year guarantee. It must be the finest protection for your building and its contents; it must be so durable that it will effectively resist heat and cold, rain and snow and all other weather conditions.

It must be all of this to justify us in guaranteeing it for fifteen years. It will last longer than that, and it will save you money in every year of its service on your buildings. Certain-teed would have to be higher in cost were it not for our manufacturing facilities, our method of distribution, and our enormous volume.

You can buy Certain-teed Roofing of your local dealer, whom you know. We market it only through the jobber and retailer—not through mail-order houses. Everybody likes to buy things face to face with the seller.

When you buy of your local dealer there is a personal element in the transaction. There is a personal satisfaction. You know the dealer and he knows you. His word is good with you as your word is with him. You know him well enough to know that when he says a thing is right he will make good.

Our Certain-teed label explains our guarantee—fifteen years for three-ply, ten years for two-ply, and five years for one-ply. It protects you, your dealer, and us.

Certain-teed

Quality Cert-ified — Roofing — Durability Guaran-teed

There are many roofing tests—pulling, twisting, tearing, biting—for toughness, tensile strength, pliability, etc.—but they are all false tests. A roof does not have to undergo these things.

Roofs do not wear out—they dry out. Certain-teed is made of the slowest drying materials—a soft center mineral asphalt base, protected by a harder asphalt surface. It's not tough to tear—but it will be on the job, on the roof, long after other roofs have dried up and blown away.

The man does not live who can tell in advance, by looking at, or by any other test, how long a roof will last. But this label tells you how long Certain-teed will last—and the three biggest mills in the roofing industry are responsible for our guarantee.

You can buy roofings for less than the price of Certain-teed. Your saving, however, is but a few dollars at most—and it's poor economy. The price of Certain-teed is always reasonable and it's least expensive in the end. For sale by dealers everywhere.

A Certain-teed Construction Roof for buildings of the most permanent type appeals to architects, engineers and builders as well as to owners.

A Certain-teed Construction Roof is a built-up roof and is the modern scientific process of covering—whether a gable roof or a flat roof with poor drainage.

A Certain-teed Construction Roof does away with the smoky tarpot and as no gravel is used, does not collect dust and the roof is washed clean after every rain. It is a sanitary roof.

Costs more—but worth more. Applied only by responsible roofers.

When Your Rent Goes Up

Business Men—Have You the Answer Ready for the Next Rise in Your Cost of Doing Business?—A Way to Equalize the Next Increase in Expenses?

A druggist once read an advertisement in SYSTEM, the Magazine of Business, for a store fixture that would display a complete stock of goods in the ordinary waste space of a store. But he didn't need it then.

A year later his rent was increased. He looked up the ad, bought the fixtures and with it installed a new line of goods and made the extra profits pay his increase in rent.

If you are a manufacturer your overhead has gone up and is going higher. The banker's clerk-hire has gone up, the merchant's delivery charges have increased, the wholesaler's warehouse space has enlarged. Down the whole line of business the cost of doing business has increased.

Many business men hold profits steady by utilizing the results of modern invention to save labor and time with machines and appliances and to increase capacity with efficiency equipment and devices. Others stand the drain out of their profits. What are you doing? Do you know how you can save money and time and labor in your business?

In the advertising pages of SYSTEM, the Magazine of Business, things that seem like miracles become practical facts. From the advertisements in SYSTEM you can learn how some business houses send letters without addressing the envelopes, how some houses print price lists, circulars or advertising matter without employing a printer, how in some institutions, checks are written without pen and ink, and hundreds of other simple, practical ways by which successful business houses are making reduced selling prices or increased costs of business net the same dividends as the fat years gone by.

SYSTEM carries more advertising of interest and value to business men as news than any other magazine in the world, and to read its advertising pages closely makes you a better posted business man, better able to lay business plans, better equipped to win business success.

March SYSTEM is one of the biggest advertising mediums in the world. It carries more advertising than any other standard magazine; it has more pages of advertising than many magazines have pages of advertising and reading matter combined. And every page of its advertising section should be read by every man who makes his living from business.

Get the March number of SYSTEM and study the advertising in it and see where and how you can economize in the running of your business. Whatever your business is, there are things advertised in March SYSTEM that apply to it and will help it. Send $2 and get not only March SYSTEM, but all the numbers of SYSTEM for a full year. If you do not get full value for your money from the advertisements in March SYSTEM alone, your $2 will be refunded. Send $2 today, to SYSTEM, Wabash Ave. and Madison St., Chicago, or [illegible] Fourth Ave., New York City, and prepare yourself to meet the rising costs in your business.

No business can afford to lose money

THAT sounds trite and commonplace, we know, yet the business which pays rent for space which it cannot use is actually losing money—worse, it is wasting it.

And that is just what the Equitable Efficiency Corps is designed to guard you against—wasting your money on space which you cannot use and which therefore you cannot afford.

Let the Equitable Efficiency Corps figure the minimum of your space requirements—that is what it exists for.

Leases now being made from May 1, 1915. The building, however, is due to be completed 2 or 3 months ahead of that date.

TRADE BOARD BILL GREATLY MODIFIED

Will Be Reported to House To-day—Three Commissioners at $10,000 a Year.

THEIR POWERS CURTAILED

Supervision Practically Limited to Corporations with $5,000,000 or More Capitalization.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The redrafted and modified bill to create an interstate trade commission has been approved by the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, and will be introduced in the House to-morrow by Representative J. Harry Covington of Maryland, Chairman of the subcommittee which drafted it. Several important changes were made in the draft of the original bill, one of the most striking being that, with certain qualifications, the powers of the new commission are to apply only to industrial corporations having a capital in each case of $5,000,000 or more, or which, with affiliated corporations, have that amount of capital.

The view of President Wilson that the commission's principal business should be to make inquiry when it "smells a rat" is carried out in the redrafted measure. The President's idea was that whenever the commission suspected a corporation of wrongdoing, it should seek to ascertain if its suspicion was justified. While to the commission is given considerable power, its operations are curtailed by the provision that it can only institute court proceedings against corporations or individuals with the approval of the Attorney General. This curtailment of powers is in accordance with the views of President Wilson.

Again, the power of the commission is curtailed in a provision which amounts to forbidding it to investigate a corporation to ascertain whether it is violating the anti-trust laws unless directed to do so by the President, the Attorney-General, or either House of Congress.

One of the most important provisions of the bill fixes a penalty of fine or imprisonment, or both, the limit of the fine being $5,000 and the limit of the imprisonment one year, to be imposed on "any person who shall make public any information obtained by the commission without its authority." This provision is intentionally broadly drawn so as to cover newspaper publications of information gathered by the commission.

If a corporation does not file its annual report or any required special report within the specified time, it "shall forfeit to the United States $100 for each day it is in default."

The commission is to consist of three instead of five members, as provided in the original bill. Each Commissioner will receive $10,000 a year, and the Secretary $5,000. The three Commissioners are to be appointed originally for terms of two, four, and six years, and thereafter one is to be appointed every two years for a term of six years.

Under the original bill the Commissioner of Corporations was to become the first Chairman of the commission. This has been changed so as to provide that the commission shall elect its Chairman. The Chairman's term is to be for one year.

The text of the bill follows:

Commission to be Bi-Partisan.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That a commission is hereby created and established, to be known as the Interstate Trade Commission (hereinafter referred to as the commission), which shall be composed of three commissioners, who shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. Not more than two of the commissioners shall be members of the same political party. The first commissioners appointed shall continue in office for terms of two, four, and six years, respectively, from the date of the taking effect of this Act, the term of each to be designated by the President, but their successors shall be appointed for terms of six years, except that any person chosen to fill a vacancy shall be appointed only for the unexpired term of the commissioner whom he shall succeed. The commission shall annually choose a chairman from its own membership. No commissioner shall engage in any other business, vocation, or employment. Any commissioner may be removed by the President for inefficiency, neglect of duty, or malfeasance in office. No vacancy in the commission shall impair the right of the remaining commissioners to exercise all the powers of the commission. The commission shall have an official seal, which shall be judicially noticed.

Section 2. That each Commissioner shall receive a salary of $10,000 a year, payable in the same manner as the salaries of the Judges of the courts of the United States. The commission shall appoint a Secretary, who shall receive a salary of $5,000 a year, payable in like manner, and it shall have authority to employ and fix the compensation of such other officials, clerks, and employes as it may find necessary for the proper performance of its duties and as may be from time to time appropriated for by Congress. Until otherwise provided by law, the commission may rent suitable offices for its use.

All of the expenses of the commission, including all necessary expenses for transportation incurred by the Commissioners or by their employes under their orders, in making any investigation, or upon official business in any other places than in the City of Washington, shall be allowed and paid on the presentation of itemized vouchers therefor approved by the Chairman of the commission. Witnesses summoned before the commission shall be paid the same fees and mileage that are paid witnesses in the courts of the United States. The Auditor for the State and other departments shall receive and examine all accounts of expenditures of the commission.

Take Over Existing Bureaus.

Section 3. That upon the organization of the commission and election of its Chairman all the existing powers, authority, and duties of the Bureau of Corporations and of the Commissioner of Corporations contained in an Act entitled "An Act to Establish the Department of Commerce and Labor," approved Feb. 14, 1903, and all amendments thereto, and contained in resolutions of the United States Senate passed on March 1, 1913; on May 27, 1913, and on June 18, 1913, are hereby vested in the commission.

All clerks and employes of the said bureau shall be transferred to and become clerks and employes of the commission at their present grades and salaries. All records, papers, and property of the said bureau shall become records, papers, and property of the commission, and all unexpended funds and appropriations for the use and maintenance of the said bureau shall become funds and appropriations available to be expended by the commission in the exercise of the powers, authority, and duties conferred on it by this act.

That the Bureau of Corporations and the offices of Commissioner of Corporations and Deputy Commissioner of Corporations are, upon the organization of the commission and the election of its Chairman, abolished, and their powers, authority, and duties shall be exercised by the commission free from the direction or control of the Secretary of Commerce. The information obtained by the commission in the exercise of the powers, authority, and duties conferred upon it by this section may be made public, in the discretion of the commission.

Section 4. That the principal office of the commission shall be in the city of Washington, where its general sessions shall be held; but whenever the interest of the public may be promoted, or delay or expense prevented, the commission may hold special sessions in any part of the United States. The commission may, by one or more of its members, or by such officers as it may designate, prosecute any inquiry necessary to its duties in any part of the United States.

Section 5. That, with the exception of the secretary and a clerk to each Commissioner, all employes of the commission shall be a part of the classified civil service, and shall enter the service under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the commission and by the Civil Service Commission.

Section 6. That the words defined in this section shall have the following meaning when found in this act, to wit:

"Commerce" means such commerce as Congress has the power to regulate under the Constitution.

"Corporation" means a body incorporated under law, and also joint-stock associations and all other associations having shares of capital or capital stock or organized to carry on business with a view to profit.

"Capital" means the property owned or controlled by a corporation.

"Acts relating to restraint of trade" means the act entitled "an act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies," approved July 2, 1890; also the Sections 73 to 77, inclusive, of an act entitled "an act to reduce taxation, to provide revenue for the Government, and for other purposes," approved Aug. 27, 1894; and also the act entitled "an act to amend Sectionr 73 and 76 of the act of Aug. 27, 1894 entitled 'an act to reduce taxation, to provide revenue for the Government, and for other purposes,'" approved Feb. 12, 1913.

"Acts to regulate commerce" means the act entitled "an act to regulate commerce," approved Feb. 14, 1887, and all amendments thereto.

"Documentary evidence" means all documents, papers, and correspondence in existence at and after the passage of this act.

Aid from the Departments.

Section 7. That the several departments and bureaus of the Government shall furnish the commission, upon its request, all records, papers, and information in their possession relating to any corporation subject to any of the provisions of this act; and the several departments and bureaus of the Government shall detail from time to time such officials and employes to the commission as may be directed by the President.

Section 8. That the commission may from time to time make rules and regulations and classifications of corporations for carrying out the provisions of this act. The commission may from time to time employ such special professional experts as it may find necessary for the proper representation of the public interest in investigations made by it; and the expenses of such employment shall be paid out of the appropriation for the commission. Any member of the commission may administer oaths and affirmations and sign subpoenas. The commission may also order testimony to be taken by deposition in any proceeding or investigation pending under this act. Such depositions may be taken before any official authorized to take depositions by the acts to regulate commerce.

For the purpose of prosecuting any investigation or proceeding under this act the commission, or its duly authorized agent or agents, shall at all reasonable times have access to, and the right to copy, any documentary evidence of or relating to any corporation being investigated or proceeded against under this act.

Upon the application of the Attorney General of the United States, at the request of the commission, the district courts of the United States shall have jurisdiction to issue writs of mandamus commanding any person or corporation to comply with the provisions of this act or any order of the commission made in pursuance thereof.

Section 9. That every corporation engaged in commerce, excepting corporations subject to the acts to regulate commerce, which, by itself or with one or more other corporations owned, operated, controlled, or organized in conjunction with it so as to constitute substantially a business unit, has a capital of $5,000,000 or more, or has a less capital and belongs to any class of corporations which the commission may make, shall furnish to the commission annually such information, statements, and records of its organization, bondholders, and stockholders and financial condition, and also such information, statements, and records of its relation to other corporations, and its business and practices while engaged in commerce as the commission shall require; and the commission may, to enable it the better to carry out the purposes of this act, prescribe as near as may be a uniform system of annual reports. The said annual reports shall contain all the required information and statistics for the period of twelve months ending with the fiscal year of each corporation's report, and they shall be made out under oath or otherwise, in the discretion of the commission, and filed with the commission at its office in Washington within three months after the close of the year for which the report is made, unless additional time be granted in any case by the commission. The commission may also require such special reports as it may deem advisable.

If any corporation subject to this section of this act shall fail to make and file said annual reports within the time above specified or within the time extended by the commission for making and filing the same, or shall fail to make and file any special report within the time fixed by the order of the commission, such corporation shall forfeit to the United States the sum of $100 for each and every day it shall continue in default in making or filing said annual or special reports. Said forfeitures shall be recovered in the manner provided for the recovery of forfeitures under the provisions of the acts to regulate commerce.

Powers of Investigation.

Section 10. That the commission shall, upon the direction of the President, the Attorney General, or either House of Congress, investigate the organization, management and business of any corporation while engaged in commerce, to aid in ascertaining whether or not the corporation investigated is violating the acts relating to restraint of trade. And the commission shall make a report of such investigation, which may include recommendations for readjustment of business in order that said corporation may therafter maintain its organization, management, and conduct of business in accordance with law. Reports made after investigation may be made public in the discretion of the commission.

Section 11. That when in the course of any investigation made under this act the commission shall obtain information concerning any unfair competition or practice in commerce not necessarily constituting a violation of law by the corporation investigated, it shall make report thereof to the President, to aid him in making recommendations to Congress for legislation in relation to the regulation of commerce, and the information so obtained and the report thereof shall be made public only upon the direction of the President.

Section 12. That in any suit in equity brought by or under the direction of the Attorney General, as provided in the acts relating to restraint of trade, the court in which said suit is pending may at any time during the progress of the case refer to the commission any question arising in the litigation or any proposed decree therein, whereupon the commission shall investigate the matters referred to it and shall make a full report of its investgation to the court.

Section 13. That any person who shall willfully make any false entry or statement in any report required to be made under this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be subject to a fine or not more than $5,000, or to imprisonment for not more than three years, or both fine and imprisonment.

Section 14. That any person who shall make public any information obtained by the commission without its authirty shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $5,000, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

Section 15. That for the purpose of this act the commission shall have and exercise the same powers conferred upon the Interstate Commerce Commission in the cats to regulate commerce to subpoena and compel the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of documentary evidence, and to administer oaths. All the requirements, obligations, liabilities, and immunities imposed or conferred by said cast to regulate commerce and by the act in relation to testimony before the Interstate Commerce Commission, approved Feb. 11, 1893, and the act definin gimmunity, approved June 13, 1906, shall apply to witnesses, testimony, and documentary evidence before the commission.

Section 16. That the commission shall on or before the first day of December in each year make a report, which shall be transmitted to Congress. This report shall contain such facts and statistics collected by the commission, the publication of which shall not violate the provisions of this act, as may be considered of value in the determination of questions connected with the conduct of commerce by corporations, excepting corporations subject to the acts to regulate commerce, together with such recommendations as to additional legislation as the commission may deem necessary. The commission may also from time to time publish such additional reports or bulletins of facts and statistics relating to corporations engaged in commerce as may be deemed useful and do not violate the provisions of this act.

Section 17. That nothing contained in this act shall be construed to prevent o rinterfere with the Attorney General in enforcing the provisions of the acts in restraint of trade or the acts to regulate commerce.

Weds Sweetheart After 20 Years.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, March 15.—Word has been received in this city that Miss Jennie Thornburg, for many years a librarian at Cornell University, had been recently married in Phoenix, Ariz., to Thomas J. Jennings, to whom she was engaged twenty years ago while a young girl. Miss Thornburg, who is a graduate of Cornell and has lived here many years, traveled through the West recently on a three months' leave of absence. She met her old sweetheart, who proposed again, and they were quietly married in Phoenix. Jennings is now a ranch owner in Arizona.

Stop endless scuttle lugging!

When you married, it was far from your thoughts for your or her future that you would endure years of scuttle-lifting, fire-poking, clinker-sifting, blackening, smoke-pipe scuffling, etc. If now you look back on the years of your struggle with old-style heating, it must seem endless strife—a treadmill of distasteful drudgery and back-straining. Why continue it? Put a stop to it at once and forever by changing over to the ideal heating comfort and fuel economy guaranteed by an outfit of

AMERICAN RADIATORS & IDEAL BOILERS

An IDEAL Boiler carrying one small but highly effective fire in the cellar calls for the least possible attention—in zero weather once in 8 hours, or in milder days once in 16 to 24 hours. All the rooms and halls of your home are kept evenly warmed with not one-tenth of the caretaking for one stove. The house is not littered with coal-dust, ashes and soot—which greatly reduces housework and gives longer life to decorations and furnishings.

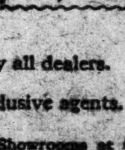
With IDEAL Boiler and AMERICAN Radiators you can also have SYLPHON regulation, which automatically controls the boiler check- and draft-dampers—saves hundreds of stair journeys each winter. Keeps the house steadily at 70°—thus preventing underheating or overheating and fuel waste.

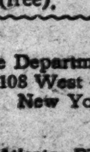
Every year we reheat thousands of old homes, stores, schools, churches, public buildings. IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators give new life and value to old buildings—make them far more rentable and salable. These outfits are quickly and simply put in, without tearing up partitions or disturbing the folks. Stop punishing yourself and running the health risk of the coal-lugging, old-style heating. Prices are now usually the most attractive of the year and you get the services of the best fitters! Ask for free book, "Ideal Heating." Will gladly give you heating help worth having—puts you under no obligation to buy! Act now!

A No. 1-25-W IDEAL Boiler and 575 sq. ft. of 38-in. AMERICAN Radiators, costing the owner $230, were used to heat this cottage. At this price the goods can be bought of any reputable, competent Fitter. This did not include costs of labor, pipe, valves, freight, etc., which are extra and vary according to climatic and other conditions.

IDEAL ARCO BOILER
AMERICAN RADIATOR

IDEAL Boilers are safer and easier to run than stoves, and their cleanliness reduces housework one-half. They will last as long as the building and need no repairs. Accept no substitute.





The unfailing ARCO WAND Vacuum Cleaner

For easy and thorough room cleaning, we guarantee fully the ARCO WAND—a basement-set machine which works through a small iron suction pipe running through a central partition, to each floor. A light hose is easily attached to suction pipe opening in baseboard on each floor. Cleans ceilings, walls, moldings, floors, carpeting, mattresses, clothing, furs, etc., of dirt, lint, threads, moth, etc., without raising any dust. Ask for catalog (free).

Over Sixty Years of Successful Manufacturing

You Will Pay $29.00 to $50.00 Less for the new Encyclopaedia Britannica, if you subscribe at once, than you will have to pay if you delay. The present terms are about to be discontinued and higher prices to be asked.

If You Are Interested in Music or Art

as a student, or a connoisseur, or just an average person who wants to know something about these subjects when other people talk about them, an indispensable book for you is the New

Encyclopaedia Britannica

Its articles on Music and the other Fine Arts are clearly, interestingly written by authorities known all over the world. For instance:

Arts and Fine Arts are by Sidney Colvin, late Keeper of Prints and Drawings, British Museum; Music, Bach, Beethoven, Counterpoint, Fugue, Harmony, Opera, etc., by Donald F. Tovey, author of "Essays in Musical Analysis;" Bach, Haydn and Schubert by W. H. Hadow, editor "Oxford Directory of Music;" Brahms, etc., by J. A. Fuller Maitland, musical critic London Times, editor of Appendix to Grove's "Dictionary of Music and Musicians;" Liszt, E. G. Dannreuther, editor of Liszt's "Etudes," etc.; Plain Song, etc., by W. S. Rockstro, author of "A Great History of Music," etc.; 123 articles on Musical Instruments by Kathleen Schlesinger, editor of "Portfolio of Musical Archaeology," etc.; A. J. Hipkins, author of "Musical Instruments," etc., and Victor Mahillon, Principal of the Conservatoire Royal de Musique, Brussels.

Painting (36 illustrations) by M. H. Spielmann, Leonce Benedite, Howard Khnopff, J. C. VanDyke, Richard Muther and Gerald Baldwin Brown; Drawing by J. R. Fothergill, editor of "Slade;" Miniature by G. C. Williamson, author of "History of Portrait Miniatures;" Mural Decoration by William Morris and Walter Crane; Mosaic, Raphael, etc., by J. H. Middleton; Andrea del Sarto, Correggio, Titian, etc., by W. M. Rossetti; Holbein, Hobbema, Van Eyck, etc., by Sir J. A. Crowe; Botticelli, Leonardo, Michelangelo, etc., by Sir Sidney Colvin; Inness by J. C. VanDyke; Sculpture by J. H. Middleton, M. H. Spielmann, P. G. Konody, Leonce Benedite; Greek Art by Percy Gardner; Roman Art by H. S. Jones; Japanese Art by William Anderson and Capt. Frank Brinkley; Chinese Art by Laurence Binyon.

What Subscribers Say:

"I am glad to take this opportunity to express my great admiration for the work itself which has increased as I have become more familiar with it. When I ordered my copy I little thought I should become a constant reader, but such has been the case."—Edward Robinson, Director Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York.

"I do not think I could have given a more practicable indorsement of this work than I did when I gave you an order for two other sets."—Rudolph E. Schirmer, Music Publisher.

"The maps and illustrations, particularly the illustrations in color, are remarkably fine. For instance, the eight pages in colors illustrating thirty-three specimens of pottery are the most beautiful examples of color work that I have ever seen in any work of reference."—G. H. Grosvenor, Editor National Geographic Magazine.

So also with such subjects as Arts and Crafts, Wood-Carving, Ceramics, (three full page color plates and 70 other illustrations), Jewelry, Enamel, Metal Work, Plate, Numismatics, Medal, Terra Cotta, Ivory, etc.

And all subjects on which you may wish information, whether arts or science, literature or business, are treated fully, clearly and authoritatively in the new Encyclopaedia Britannica.

The Whole Realm of Knowledge

The new Encyclopaedia Britannica will give you just as valuable and interesting information on Metallurgy or Methodism, Medicine or Mohammedanism, as on Music; on Referendum or Roosevelt as on Raphael; on Military Affairs as on Miniatures or Michelangelo; on Engineering as on Enamels or Engraving; on North American Indians as on Hindu Architecture; on Alkali Manufacture or Alchemy or Algebra as on Alma Tadema or Alto Rilievo; on Immigration as on Impressionism; on Wheat or the Whisky Insurrection as on Whistler; on Saint Petersburg as on Saint Gaudens; on the Hohenzollerns or Home Rule as on Hokusai or Holbein.

This great library of what you need to know, written so that you can understand, by those who know,—1,500 contributors from 21 countries, chosen from the whole world—contains 44,000,000 words. But this enormous amount of material is made easy of access, convenient to house, and handy to read. For it is printed on India paper, so that each of its 29 elegant volumes weighs only a little more than two pounds and is only an inch thick.

THE GOVERNMENT'S ALASKAN RAILWAY.

The Government has undertaken to spend five times the price of all Alaska in building a railway through a small portion of the Territory. Government ownership of railways is like matrimony, in that it is for better or worse. It is unlike matrimony in that there is no relief, not even by divorce or death. Government railways even more than other railways run eternally, as rivers to the sea, and their demands on the Treasury are worse than any wife's run on her husband's pocketbook. The cost of this Alaska venture is limited to $35,000,000, it is true, but if that limit shall be observed it will be a unique experience. Congress disposed of the business by turning it over to the President. He is told what to do, but is not told how to do it. He can choose the route, and he can buy or build the line. He can operate the road, or he can make a contract for its operation. The rates are to be regulated by the Interstate Commerce Commission, "subject to the approval of the President." So wide is this discretion that the responsibility, and therefore the praise or the blame, belongs to him alone. Nobody is opposed to the development of Alaska, but until this project develops itself under the President's constructive hand there will be room for difference of opinion about legislation in this manner. Whatever Congress has been able to conceive, but has not been able to accomplish, in recent years has been turned over to somebody else, an official or a commission, and Congress has taken up the next thing, as though the matter in hand were finished instead of started.

It is to be hoped that the President will avoid building a road which may not be satisfactory to the only possible operator, whoever he may be. That is the situation regarding a Government-built railway in Canada at this moment. The Transcontinental road was estimated to cost $61,415,000, and was to be operated by the Grand Trunk. The latest estimate of cost is $234,651,521, and the Grand Trunk is reluctant to take over a road which is less attractive on the later basis of fixed charges; "$40,000,000 wasted" is a Canadian headline. That is only a little more than the sum given to the President to spend.

When the President is bargaining it may be hoped that he will make the bargain include the interests of the users of the railway. The price of coal and the cost of freight are as important to shippers as the cost of construction to the Government. The two quantities are so related that they might well be bound together. That is to say, it would be well if the builder were also the operator and under contract to operate in such manner that rates should fall as profits rose. There are examples of this in the case of some public utilities which are allowed to raise dividends only as prices are reduced. If the President should proceed in this manner he would extract credit from a situation which has dangerous possibilities as well as much promise. He has an opportunity to use the plant and personnel from Panama. He would do well to avoid the Panama precedent regarding the rate problem. The Panama Railway rate is 3.48 cents, against an average rate for the United States of three-quarters of one cent. The Panama Railway has to include terminal charges on a short haul, and there are other adjustments which ought to be made in fairness. Yet every allowance would leave a Panama Government rate of double the private railway rate. If the Alaska experiment shall have no better result than that, the experiment of Government construction will not justify itself.

VEHICLES AFTER DARK.

Why should any vehicle on wheels, whether stationary or in motion, be permitted after dark on a public highway or bridge without displaying lights visible in front and from the rear? Assemblyman Gillett has introduced Bill No. 193, requiring such display on all vehicles from one hour after sunset to one hour before sunrise. Certain exceptions to the rule are provided, as for vehicles propelled by hand on lighted streets, for any vehicle where the street or highway contains lights not more than 500 feet apart, and for wagons loaded with inflammable hay and straw; also, it empowers the State Commission of Highways to make special exemptions. But all these exceptions are carefully guarded by this provision:

> Nothing in this section shall be construed to affect the provisions of any existing statute, rule, or regulation requiring lights on motor vehicles or affecting the obligations of operators or occupants thereof.

The intent of this bill is to enforce considerately a common rule of prudence often neglected after dark by drivers of carriages and wagons on the public highways. It is designed for their own safety, as well as for the safety of those who may come upon them unexpectedly. Many of the rural roads are narrow and winding, with sharp turns. If the bill becomes law, it will impose no hardships on drivers of horse-drawn vehicles.

THE WOMAN OF 1914.

The pictorial forecast of the feminine fashions for the year contained in the special pictorial supplement of The Sunday Times revealed a gratifying change for the better. Though a certain air of rakishness is imparted by the cocked hats, waistcoats, and skirts of ankle length which might have impressed unfavorably the critics of an earlier generation, in which the semblance of gentle femininity was believed to be most fitting in the female garb, it is obvious that the woman of 1914 will be able to get about more briskly and more gracefully on her feet than the woman of 1913, even when her skirt was split to give play to her limbs. It is noticeable that the feminine ear, which used to be the object of much and fervent poetic adulation, is still to be kept under cover. The fashion of wearing the hair over the ears has persisted since it was revived nearly fourteen years ago by those almost forgotten leaders of Paris fashions, Cleo Merode and Liane de Pougy, whose ears were ill-shaped. While it is a pity that a comely ear, large or small, should be hidden from view for no better reason than the disposition of some women to hide their defects, we must submit to the dictates of fashion, and we can afford to do so more graciously now than a year ago.

Judging from this admirably complete exposition of the Spring styles, we may infer that the woman of 1914 is to be becomingly and decently clad; that evening dress, in spite of the eccentric broadening effect at the hips, will be gratifying to the eye; that the wraps and capes will not suggest the dreams of futurists and the hats and bonnets will be much less offensive. Some of the new hats actually give us hope that woman's headgear in the near future will be designed to cover and, if need be, adorn the wearer's head, and not simply to excite amazement when worn on the street and annoyance when worn indoors. In other words, we are emboldened to hope that feminine fashions are on the mend.

A REMINDER.

Soon after the election last Autumn it was announced by the Mayor-elect, and cordially approved by the chief members of the Board of Estimate—which in many ways is an Executive Commission for the city, with some substantial legislative powers—that the city was to be administered with careful reference to immediate past experience. It was made particularly clear that important changes in the Charter—the City Constitution—would be proposed only after deliberate consideration, with the view of making secure what had been gained in the previous four years and providing for the continuous development of a system suited to the essential and permanent interests of the city.

We take the liberty to suggest to the Mayor that his strenuous campaign for a revolutionary change in the tenure and organization of the police force is not consistent with this gratifying and reassuring statement of intention and policy. A very radical recasting of the most important branch of the city service is urged by him—and not only urged, but contended for almost desperately—on his personal responsibility and immediately on taking office. This is done avowedly to meet the assumed requirements of one proposed appointee to the head of the force, without even a clear assurance that this gentleman would be available if the legislation should be obtained. So far is this plan based on the experience of the last administration that it is not too much to say that that experience distinctly shows the extreme peril of its adoption. For the Mayor, while seeking to strengthen the power and define the responsibility of the Police Commissioner by forbidding the courts to review the action of the Commissioner, has devised a plan that would leave the Commissioner hampered by the intervention of a Board of Review, or, as originally drawn, by that of the Mayor himself. Now, intervention and interference by the Mayor was the worst element in the situation during Mr. Gaynor's term. To perpetuate, extend, and confirm that evil—as we believe that Mr. Mitchel's scheme necessarily would—is to fly in the face of recent and conspicuous experience.

Already rumors, extremely unpleasant but quite inevitable, are in circulation as to a deal in patronage underlying the passage of the police bills. We do not wish to impugn the excellence of the Mayor's motives, but has he anybody but himself to blame if such rumors are circulated? He is reputed to be something of a politician. His nomination was accompanied by much negotiation and adjustment of "claims" and "recognition" of factions. Since he has been pressing his bills the committee rooms and lobby of the Legislature have been visited by the men who took part in the Mayoralty business. The man in the street cannot be called credulous or unduly suspicious if he sees in such tactics in support of bills which in effect legalize interference with the police by the Mayor evidence of that sort of understanding which usually goes by the name of a "deal." And if this happens now, what will be the result if the bills are passed and Mr. Mitchel comes to use the power he is seeking? Though he were as chaste as ice, as pure as snow, he could not escape calumny.

REFORM IT ALTOGETHER.

The Assembly committee having in its charge the admirable bills relative to the obsolete and mischievous Coroners' offices in New York seems strangely unready to report them. It is obvious that every day's delay gives the opposition to the bills increased advantage. Nothing would suit them better than that the measures should go the way to dusty death in the pigeonholes of the committee room. And nothing would be worse for the interests and rights of the whole city, which are abominably injured by the present ridiculous and wicked administration of these offices.

The issue is perfectly plain. On the one side is the claim of the people of this great city to an efficient, fair, and intelligent system for the investigation of violent or accidental death, with suitable safeguards for the rights of individuals and of the community. On the other is the greed of the place holders and place hunters for the entirely wasteful, useless, costly, and sordid spoils involved in the present system. It has been shown beyond all dispute that the Coroners do nothing that must not be done over again; that what they do is done with incredible stupidity and recklessness; that their action tends directly to defeat the aims set for them by law; that they are an intolerable stumbling block and nuisance in the way of civil and criminal justice. The safety of life and the enforcement of the legal right of the community to the protection of life and the punishment of those who imperil it—the essential purpose of the law creating the Coroners' offices—are imperiled and impeded by the present system.

It is now proposed to do away with this system, to distribute its duties between a Chief Medical Examiner and competent assistants, the Magistrates of the City of New York, and, as concerns civil proceedings, to the City Chamberlain. A plan like this has been in successful operation in Massachusetts, where work many times as great has been done far better and at less cost than under the old, bad system of Coroners. Moreover, as pointed out convincingly by Dr. Symmers in a letter to The Times yesterday morning, "New York City would "be provided with an opportunity not "only to protect its citizens but to "contribute incalculably to the advancement of medicine as applied "to crime and casualty." The bills are strongly urged by the New York Academy of Medicine, by the Bar Association, and by various civic bodies. It is now twenty years since the power was given to the Legislature to deal with the Coroners' offices, which had long been a disgrace to the State, but up to the present time all efforts to secure a modern, rational, and efficient reform have been in vain. The spoilsmen in both parties have resisted and are resisting the reform. If the present excellent, carefully prepared measures are choked to death in the Cities Committee of the Assembly, there will be no room for doubt as to how it is done.

THE COMMERCIAL PAPER DEBATE

The Merchants' Association discussion of the relative merits of the American or single-name paper system and the two-name or foreign system resulted as might be expected. There were 39 votes in favor of the familiar system and 10 in favor of the foreign. Part of this disapproval was caused by the misconception that the new law provides some sort of compulsion for the adoption of new ways. It merely removes a prohibition of an alternative method, which must make its own way on the merits if it is to cut any large part in American affairs.

Chairman Page made one of the strongest statements, to the effect that one leading house within his knowledge had substituted in recent years $3,000,000 of open accounts for $1,500,000 of notes. That certainly shows that the system of open accounts has made its way against the system of promissory notes, but it does not show the superiority of the open account system. It owes its existence to the fact, as stated in the discussion, that some of the largest buyers are the worst payers. Railways and public buyers, cities, counties, States, are examples of those who will not give promissory notes which the receivers can indorse. That compels the sellers to finance the business, a course which makes it sure that the profits in the price are proportioned to that unnatural course of trade. The buyer would more suitably finance his purchase. In the two-name system buyers and sellers combine to get and to make secure the credit obtained in the interest of both. The economy of the open account and cash discount system is delusive if the price includes a larger charge for carrying the slow account. The two-name system signifies closer figuring both on the bargain and on the credit. It makes business more solid by making it sure that buyers must pay, and cannot cancel orders or return goods with the certainty that the return must be allowed because the account is open. As one speaker put it, trade should seek credit from dealers in credit, and not from dealers in goods.

Bank credit is better and cheaper than mercantile credit, but banking credit on open account is a poor and restricted sort of bank credit. It is purely domestic and largely provincial. Just in proportion as it has those characteristics it is straitjacketed and compartmented, and there is no such free flow of capital as remedies both excesses and deficiencies of supply. If a bank is to serve customers freely and cheaply its accommodations must have the surety of two-name paper of a sort which will produce cash at maturity, and will not ask extension or increase because of personal relations. Open account credits are sluggish, and the banks must carry the customers at a price and a pretty profit. Two-name discounts mean quick circulation, new blood, and a thorough digestion of commercial credits. It is only in that way that credits can be cheapened and one cost item be reduced. If that is not the result of the authorization of two-name paper there will be no result at all. The inferior method will not drive out the better or even the more favored, according to the maxim regarding currency. The cheaper and better credit system will drive out the worse.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

"Home" Means Everything and Nothing. One might imagine from the comments which have followed the presentation in a recent lecture by Mrs. Gilman of views about "the home" which she expressed in her books years and years ago, that the word "home" had a fixed and definite meaning, due to the fact that all homes are alike in their essential characteristics. Yet everybody knows perfectly well that there are as many kinds of homes as there are of home-makers—in other words, that no two homes have more than a general resemblance, and that while some can without much exaggeration be described as heavens on earth, others invite, and from the truthful compel, a comparison drawn from the opposite direction.

Between these two extremes stand homes in infinite gradation between supernal and infernal, and it is as absurd to credit them all with the charms and virtues of the better sort as it would be to accuse them all of being places fit for devils, which some and not a few unquestionably are.

"Home cooking," too, another subject of present impassioned controversy, ranges from best to worst, with all the space between well covered, and yet, from much of the current talk about it one might imagine—if a determined self-deceiver and a vehement upholder of convention—that the phrase invariably and inevitably carried the significance of a diet wholly ambrosian and nectarous. Than which, of course, nothing could be further from the truth. Bad as is a good deal of hotel and restaurant cooking, it probably averages above that done in homes, if for no other reason than that it is more often intrusted to specialists who have nothing else to do.

The common claim that the word "home" should always be spoken with reverence and love may rest on nothing else than a tacit agreement that only good homes deserve the name. If that theory be rejected, one must fall back on the suspicion that to admit a possible imperfection in homes would start inquiry as to what the home conditions best known to him or her making the admission are or were. In reality, to say "old-fashioned home" or "new-fashioned home" is simply to mention an infinite diversity, since there never was, is not, and never will be, until the millennium, even an approximation to a single type, good, bad, or indifferent.

We Are In for a Lot of Ridicule. Of all the mistakes that have been made by our immigration officials in their well-intentioned efforts to limit the importation of "undesirables," few if any have been either more regrettable or harder to understand than the one which caused them to humiliate a writer as admirable and a woman as estimable as Flora Annie Steel.

Of course it is not quite criminal not to know of Mrs. Steel or not to have gained from reading her books the assurance that her mind is, to say the least of it, about as sound as any to be encountered in a long Summer day, even in places where the encountering is particularly good. With the briefest of inquiry, however, if directed to literates, almost anybody could learn a lot about Mrs. Steel, her abilities and her achievements, and the obvious failure on the part of the guardians of our port is enough to make us all extremely cross with them.

For we, the people of the United States, will not soon hear the last of what by foreign critics will be called our welcome to a woman who ranks high among the present producers of English fiction. Much more than she are we humiliated by the blunder of our representatives. It is to be hoped that she will see the humor of the episode as well as, or better than, its stupidity, and that she will not be too inclusive in the manifestation, after she gets home, of her well-justified resentment of the treatment she received here.

Nobody Scorns the Bard. With the grief of Alfred Noyes over a spreading of the notion that he cares more than poets should about making poetry pay, we sincerely sympathize, and not the less sincerely because in our opinion he is unduly and unnecessarily troubled. We are sincerely regretful, too, if The Times has had any part in creating the impression of which he complains so bitterly, and not the less sincerely because nothing in our news or comment can be recalled that could fairly have been twisted into denial or questioning of Mr. Noyes's literary motives or poetic conscientiousness.

Nobody with any sense or appreciation—nobody whose judgment should affect him in the slightest degree—has even a suspicion that for money considerations he has ever written less than his very best or that "Will it pay?" determines either the matter or the manner of his verse.

It was reported that in one of his lectures Mr. Noyes advised poets to demand and get an adequate material compensation for their songs. As it is inconceivable that any reporter invented this out of malice, Mr. Noyes, whatever he intended to say, must have conveyed the idea ascribed to him, and if it was a misinterpretation of his words, he, as a practiced builder of sentences, must at least share responsibility for the error.

But the advice, as reported, was good advice, and if it led to certain references to himself as exemplifying the practicability of his preaching, there was as little of disrespect as of unkindness in that. He is not the first poet who has been well paid for good verse; it is to be hoped and can be believed that he will not be the last. The part of the public that expects a poet to starve in a garret is a very dull part, and it would be better employed in confessing its stinginess and repenting of it than in critical exclamation over the poet who wears a coat of unsolved continuity and keeps his hair cut after the fashion of his day.

These are the severest charges against Mr. Noyes that have come to our attention—certainly they are the harshest we have ourselves made—and there is no danger that they will deprive him of the place among the immortals that he might otherwise have gained.

OLD-FASHIONED HOMES.

The Mothers Were Extraordinary Managers and Workers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

An old codger like myself gets something of a shock as he reads the report in Thursday's Times of Mrs. Gilman's attack on the home. I like to think of my childhood, and, with my brother, we often talk of that period of our lives, say from 1855 to 1865, and everything for a little while seems to have turned back to "the happiest times of our lives." But I fear that the cold truth is exactly in line with Mrs. Gilman's remarks. Our mother was a pioneer in Northern Ohio. She not only made the bread, but the soap, and she sewed cords of carpet rags for rag carpets; she actually made the dyes for the rags, and us boys used to go down in the woods to peel bark from butternut trees for the browns, while mother concocted other crocks full of greens and blues. The soap was made with the bones and grease from the family's supply of pork during the Winter. Mother also made our candles from the tallow saved. She spun the wool cloth and made the mittens and stockings; she made clothes for five boys and three girls. She was our doctor, our ministering angel. All that any of us have of goodness we owe to her, though our father was a good man. There were no "improvements." I used to fetch a washtub from the cellar every week for our bath. There was no sink, and all dishwater had to be carried and thrown on the garden as fertilizer. The toilet was a building at the other end of a big yard.

Do we want a return to those good old days? Not on your life. And my greatest regret is that my mother could not have lived to have some of the luxuries of the present era.

We always had a bootjack in the house.

New York, March 14, 1914. R. A. DIX.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Grandfather and grandmother settled in Central New York when the country was new. Grandfather was busy clearing and planting the land, and grandmother spun, wove, cooked, washed, made butter, cheese, soap, and not only made the children's clothes, but spun and wove all the linen and woolen used for clothing or for household purposes. She bore fifteen children, and eleven grew up and had families of their own.

I have heard grandmother say that when there were four children, the eldest a boy of 8, and the youngest a baby of a year, she had chills and fever. Grandfather was very anxious to plant his corn, so the eldest girl, aged 6, was left in the house with grandmother, and grandfather took the boy and the two little children into the field with him. The boy dropped corn for grandfather to cover, and the child of 4 looked after the baby, subject to grandfather's supervision.

And with it all grandmother died in her one hundred and first year, never having had a day's serious illness. M. H.

THE PULLMAN PORTER.

Underpaid, He Is Courteous and Obeys Orders.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Is it not ridiculous for "C. L. B." to complain of the "insanitary" brushing of the railway porter? Does the gentleman think that the Pullman porter invented brushing for pastime? What would happen if he did not brush or offer to brush passengers? Whatever is wrong in the sanitary arrangements and usages of Pullman cars is the fault of the company, which lays down minute rules for every movement of its employes. To break these rules means fine or dismissal.

Even the tipping evil is not the porter's fault; it is his misfortune. The Pullman Company pays porters an average of $25 a month and expects the public to pay the rest. If the public does not like this impudent tax let it help the porter to better pay—a man's pay which would make him independent of tips.

Will the public do this? Does the public want the porter independent of tips? Imagine the attitude of the public toward a strike of Pullman porters. Deserted and maligned, the porters would soon be on the street and their places taken by better paid white men.

Yet the Pullman porter has done his duty valiantly. With tens of thousands of sick and old people, women, and children in his charge every hour, he is patient, courteous, cheerful, uncomplaining. He works long hours, he must be away from home most of the time, with all the additional expense which that involves, and, above all, he must suffer in season and out the carping criticism of men like "C. L. B." for faults for which he is no more responsible than "C. L. B." himself. W. E. D. DU BOIS.

Proper Folding of Newspapers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It was the late Walter Scott of Plainfield, N. J., who had the ideal folding device for newspapers, and embodied it in the Potter-Scott angle bar press. This machine printed columns along the cylinder. It folded the papers with two parallel folds, which is the ideal way of folding a paper so that you can read it comfortably without crowding any one. JAMES CARRUTHERS.

Richmond Hill, L. I., March 9, 1914.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Apropos the "Subway train of thought," may a woman say that for many years (no, I shall not say how many) it has been her practice to fold her paper columnwise when time limit has forced her to travel and read during rush hours?

My usual method is, first, to fold the paper lengthwise and glance over the first page. I next open at the editorial page—without spreading my paper—and turn the edges of this and all preceding pages forward to outside centre fold, creasing in middle line. The other portion of the paper is treated in the same manner, turning back to centre fold.

This divides the paper with all edges and original centre fold coming together. A trial will convince that all pages are easily turned, with no annoyance to others nor inconvenience to one's self. TIMES ADMIRER.

TOLLS AND SHIP SUBSIDIES.

Horace White Exposes the Newest Disguise of the Latter.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I find myself addressed by The New York American in a formal letter sent by mail under a 2-cent stamp in the following terms:

> March 12, 1914.
>
> The New York American invites your attention to the inclosed pamphlet, "Ten Reasons Why Congress Should Not Yield Our Panama Canal Rights at England's Demand." We are aware that the New York Peace Society has passed resolutions favoring the repeal of the exemption clause of the Panama Canal act. We ask that you, as a member of the Peace Society, read the pamphlet we inclose. If a perusal of it changes your opinion as to the canal tolls question, we would appreciate hearing from you. Very truly,
>
> THE NEW YORK AMERICAN.

Turning to the pamphlet inclosed I find the first of the ten reasons to be a trap for the unwary. So I drop the other nine into the waste basket and proceed to examine the nature of number one. It says:

> If Congress repeals the act granting American domestic commerce free use of the Panma Canal, the only power in the world hampered and shackled as to the use of the canal will be our own country, that alone built and owns the canal. Any foreign power may remit the tolls paid by its own ships. Spain has already decided to do so. Other nations may reimburse their shipowners for all Panama Canal charges as an encouragement to commerce. England and Germany pay enormous subsidies to their shipowners. But President Wilson declines "to have any controversy" with England over our rights to give any privileges whatsoever to our own domestic commerce in our own canal.

The insinuation here is that if Congress repeals the tolls exemption, then any country except ours may grant a cash subsidy to its own ships equal to the canal tolls, but that we alone are prohibited from doing so. What prevents us from doing so? Does any clause of the Constitution forbid?

We had a ship subsidy once, which ran for its allotted time and came to an end. Great Britain has not objected to our granting a ship subsidy equal to the tolls, or double the amount of the tolls, or any other amount. The history of the toll exemption clause shows that Congress can be induced to grant an indirect subsidy by sneaking it into a canal bill and hastily covering it up with the Monroe Doctrine, the battle of New Orleans, the Clan-na-Gael, and any old rags that come handy, but cannot be induced to vote for a straightforward cash subsidy. The only kind of subsidy politically possible is a dishonest one, where the operation of it is concealed and the amount unknown.

"Give us the money and call it patriotism" is the cry of the subsidy hunters. Call it, Down with John Bull; call it, Down with the railroads; call it anything except what it is. Its true name is privilege to a particular class, here denominated "our own domestic commerce," an omnibus load of ship owners against all the taxpayers whose earnings have built the Panama Canal. HORACE WHITE.

THE TROUBLE WITH TENAFLY.

Too Many Generals Brought on 'Jag List' Rumpus, Townsman Says.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If there is anything I abhor it is to "rush into print," and yet the present situation seems to warrant it, as the matter not only affects me but my family as well. In The New York Times of Thursday last you devoted considerable space, under the heading "Public Can't Edit Tenafly's 'Jag List,'" to my remarks at this meeting, and I might add you misquoted them in a manner that has brought down a storm of criticism upon me which is as unwarranted as it is unjust.

To quote your article you say I said: "I think the protectors have made a big mistake and injured Tenafly, and I think the Board of Protectors should be abolished." The first part I did say, but I did not say that I thought the Board of Protectors should be abolished. As this speech of mine was carefully prepared, I will quote exactly what I did say in reference to the abolishment of the board. I said in part, as follows:

> I was called up on the telephone last evening by several gentlemen and urged to come here and speak to-night. One of those gentlemen was your Police Commissioner, K. B. C. Smith, who told me that a certain member of the Council had made a motion at the Council meeting the previous evening to have the board abolished. This, my good friends, is absurd and ridiculous; neither the Council nor the Mayor can abolish this Board of Protectors. Once you start the wheels of the law going they are not easy to stop.
>
> For example, let me cite the present "dillying and dallying" of the Interstate Commerce Commission, which is at present taking testimony on the increase in freight rates at Washington. As a Wall Street man who represents the interests of investors, I may criticise the manner in which they are holding this matter up, but to abolish this commission would be absurd. Individual members may be impeached, but the commission cannot be abolished except by an act of Congress, neither can your Board of Protectors be abolished unless the law be changed. The Mayor and Council could, according to my lawyers, bring charges against the board, and if these charges were sustained they could remove certain members of this board, but, gentlemen, neither the Mayor nor your Council could abolish the board. Such are the grim facts, according to the law.

I notice in an article to-day our "Fighting Parson" alludes to me as "the modest man from Wall Street." I thank him publicly for the compliment. It is refreshing in these days of turmoil and unrest to hear a Wall Street man called "modest." Personally, I would much rather be called honest; this would mean much more to us at the present time, for every one knows all Wall Street men are "modest."

The grave trouble with Tenafly is, like all boroughs of its kind, that we have too many Generals there and not enough privates. I am in the private class for the reason I do not want to become a General. When two people ride an ass one of them has to ride behind. It is this that has caused all the troubles of the most beautiful of all towns in the Northern Valley. If some of them were willing to "ride behind" the world at large would never have heard of the now famous "Jag List" and the beast of burden would have gone uncomplainingly along its way. NORBERT R. PENDERGAST.

Travelling from Brooklyn.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Going to New York on Wednesday, I took a train at Forty-fourth Street, on the West End line. This train went as far as Fulton Street, where we were told to take the next train, but the next train going only as far as Fulton Street, we had to wait for still another, which was marked "Brooklyn Bridge," but which only went to Adams Street, where we got off and took another train, which only went to the Brooklyn terminal, where I had to change again for a train going to Park Row.

Surely, Brooklyn is growing fast enough to get better service than heretofore. I notice that very many people change at Atlantic Avenue for the Subway, even when they only have to go to Park Row, and thus it costs them 10 cents to get to Park Row. MOSES BECK.

CALLS FRANK'S TRIAL 'MOCKERY OF JUSTICE'

John F. McIntyre Severely Arraigns Conduct of Atlanta's Famous Murder Case.

PREDICATED UPON NO LAW

Hearsay Evidence Admitted, Mere Opinions Let In, Clamor Unrestrained, and Frank's Rights Ignored.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Constitutions of this and our sister States contemplate fair and impartial trials, and the common law here and abroad has always been insistent that one accused of crime should be tried justly and with due regard to the forms of well recognized law. Courts and juries were not created by the wisdom of men to be moved by the press, clamor, and prejudice, nor was it ever intended that prejudgment was to be substituted in the stead of calm and deliberate decision arrived at through an analysis of proof.

We are speedily departing in this State and elsewhere from a fundamental jurisprudence which has regulated our relations to society for centuries, and yielding to innovations calculated to invite utter contempt for what is called law and justice, in that a fair and impartial trial guaranteed by the Constitution is not accorded one accused of crime—and particularly so is this the case when a sentiment is manufactured against one accused of the commission of a criminal offense—and we find some courts then geared to convict in order to obtain temporary laudation and short-lived commendation. Under this condition juries come to be the mere tools of a Judge working an exclusion of a meritorious ending.

In this country it is pretended that impartiality is much admired. Impartiality was not as prominent in some trials lately as it should have been. In recent times we have seen the organic and statute laws looked upon with disdain, and we wonder to what quarter will we look for protection from an infringement on guarantees of the Constitution. Must we be constrained to go to the highest court in nearly every instance for the purpose of obtaining dispassionate consideration and a fair and impartial determination?

In the case of the People against Charles Becker a prejudicial atmosphere was permitted to permeate the courtroom, vital safeguards were disregarded, all orderly procedure was discountenanced. As counsel for Becker I did all that one could to safeguard him in his constitutional rights, but to no avail, however, until he was thrown into the death house, there to wait for fifteen months and until the Court of Appeals said he was unjustly condemned.

Convicted on No Credible Evidence.

Another example of an unfair trial was the trial and conviction of Leo M. Frank in Atlanta. He was not convicted on credible evidence, and according to the rules of law, but by public clamor voiced in the press, prejudice and bias, and failure to apply the law of the Commonwealth in a fair and impartial manner. His rights were prostrated from the day of his arrest. I have read the record carefully. It presents a travesty upon justice. In many respects it goes beyond the Becker case. Some parts of the inquiry border upon brutality.

To hang Frank upon the evidence and rulings contained in the record would in my judgment amount to judicial murder. The only witness that the State of Georgia had who could establish the alleged killing of Mary Phagan (a girl of tender years) by Frank was a besotted negro who had himself exclusive opportunity to do the act, who was not without a motive, who had been convicted of crime eight times, served in prison, who had committed forgery, who made three affidavits concerning the homicide, two of which concededly were perjurious, and in the last for the first time incriminated the accused. He was not corroborated in the essentials, and was discredited and torn apart under cross-examination, and upon his testimony a jury convicted. Improbability is to be found in almost every sentence of his testimony. It makes one's blood run cold—it shocks the moral sense to think that human life can be toyed with upon such evidence.

The record of the trial is unique. Among other things the court ruled that it was proper to show that a negro named Lee, who had been arrested for the murder, was, on the morning after the murder, less nervous in deportment and otherwise than Frank, who at that time had not been accused. This ruling is certainly not based upon any principle now known or ever known to the law.

As if On Trial for Other Crimes.

In the record it appears that when Frank was taken to a police station at 8 o'clock in the morning in the custody of two detectives a person named Black was present. He was called by the prosecution and allowed to show that the accused had already retained counsel who were awaiting his coming. It does not appear upon what basis the admission of this testimony rested. The court it would seem regarded the employment of counsel as an incriminating circumstance, and therefore submitted the fact to the jury. Lee, who, as I said before, was arrested for the commission of the crime, was under observation by detectives, and evidence was received showing the conduct of Lee and Frank for the purpose of comparison. In other words, it was established that Lee was not at all nervous; that Frank was extremely nervous. I fail to see in the record how such testimony became competent and relevant.

The Solicitor General, who, by the way, is a quasi judicial officer whose duty it is to present the evidence against a prisoner impartially and fairly, apparently intending to impassion and inflame the minds of the jurors against the accused, put in evidence through the lips of the negro Conley acts of moral perversion by Frank with women in no wise related to the case or the deceased, which acts happened months before the homicide and which, if true, were separate and independent crimes. The fact stands out that notwithstanding the accused was indicted and tried for murder, at the same time he was on trial for perverted desires. This testimony under no authority in law was competent. It was highly prejudicial, it tended to disgrace Frank before the jury and expose him to a conviction, not because he had committed murder, but because he was accused of depravity and degeneracy.

Again, the evidence shows that when the negro Conley, the accusing witness, was brought to a place where Frank was, Frank declined to see him. The court allowed evidence upon this point to be received as a circumstance from which the jury might infer guilty knowledge on the part of Frank and the incident was admitted in evidence, although it appeared that Frank was advised by counsel to see no one nor speak with any one concerning his case.

But one of the most extraordinary things ever done in a court of justice was the establishment in this case of the fact that Mrs. Frank, wife of the accused, did not call upon him while he was incarcerated, which seemed to be admitted upon the theory that she thought him to be guilty, hence she was reluctant to go to his side in the time of trouble, notwithstanding the fact that the accused wished his wife to abstain from calling since he did not want her to suffer humiliation. Yet the court sent the circumstance to the jury, a circumstance which had no relevancy to the question at issue.

Many more drastic rulings appear in the record too numerous to mention at this time, all, however, in keeping with that which I have already pointed out. It becomes appalling to think that a man must go to his death upon such rulings and testimony indicated in the record.

Trial Dominated by the Mob.

The trial seemed to be dominated by mob rule and mob law. Every semblance of dignity and decency was cast aside. The courtroom was small, the spectators surrounded the jury box in consequence of the Court House being crowded to overflowing, their jeers, gibes, comments, and utterances of dislike for the accused were said in the presence and hearing of the jury, without remonstrance from the Sheriff, court attendants, or the presiding Judge. When the Solicitor General each day left the Court House for luncheon, (and the jury did so at the same time,) he was met at the doorsteps by an admiring crowd of a thousand or more and cheered for minutes. He would bow his acknowledgments, take off his hat, and hold an informal reception. The record of the case shows these incidents.

In this farce-tragedy there remains a blight ineradicable upon American law. Demonstrations of approval by the crowd occurred frequently in the courtroom when the court was called upon to rule. When a ruling was in favor of the accused it was received with signs of disapproval, and the record of the trial shows that when rulings were made adverse to the defendant the spectators in the courtroom, with the jury but twenty feet away, cheered and made their violent manifestations of approval unrebuked, and when counsel for the defendant asked that the courtroom be cleared the application was denied. Hearsay evidence was received, opinions, conclusions, and conjectures by witnesses were permitted predicated upon no law that I can see from a reading of the record. But it will doubtless be argued that Frank had a fair and impartial trial. It will be said, too, that no prejudicial error was made. The record teems with improprieties notwithstanding, I am informed, that the Appellate Court of the State of Georgia has affirmed the conviction.

I do not believe that the condemned man received at the hands of the commonwealth such a trial as is intended by our law and civilization. The record to my mind pictures a mockery of justice. JOHN F. McINTYRE.

WISE AND QUIET GIRLS

The Kind Men Approve, but Do Not Seek in Marriage?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Referring to the letter signed by "P. A. E." in reference to the "wifeless breakfast tables," I desire to express some of my views regarding this matter.

I have noticed, and probably others have also, that the woman who paints the most and who wears the latest up-to-date styles, whether modest or immodest, (very often the latter,) has the best chances as far as matrimony is concerned; and a man prefers that kind of woman for the reason that she is a "good sport" and a "good mixer," (that refers to drinking and smoking, I suppose,) and, of course, that sort of woman does not need to be educated and a good housewife, as that type is not required. She is wanted to amuse him and "jolly him along," and that tickles the average man's palate. Of course, he marries her, and he is willing to put up with the "wifeless breakfast table."

I am interested in various subjects; for instance, science, domestic economy, ethics, and appreciate a good, wholesome work of fiction, with a moral, and when I do get into conversation with men and we express our opinions on different subjects of the day I have often heard it said, (of course, when my back was turned,) "Oh, she's a wise one; you can't fool her!" So, I gather from this that a man, (of course, excepting a very broad-minded one,) far more prefers a woman he can fool and deceive, sometimes, if not always, and who does not need to be educated or know anything.

It fills me with disgust when the average man says that he prefers an old-fashioned girl, quiet, homelike, modest, and sweet, and a good housekeeper, when in his heart of hearts he does not care a "row of pins" about her. BACHELOR GIRL.

Uncommon "Free Love."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There are surely many good reasons for thanking God for women like Mrs. Rooney, as "W. C. C." does so fervently in his letter published in your issue of yesterday. But if "W. C. C." has heard Mrs. Wise's address, instead of (apparently) only reading Mrs. Rooney's reply as quoted by you, he would know there was no reason for alarm. Possibly your mention of Mrs. Wise "as talking frankly about the desirability of free love" misled him. There was certainly no attack upon the integrity and sacredness of the home. Mrs. Wise quite beautifully described as one of woman's wants a love free from the selfish and lowering conditions of economic pressure—an ideal even the most conservative would be glad to see realized. This is something quite different from "free love" as commonly understood, and so abhorrent to all decent men and women like Mrs. Wise, Mrs. Rooney, and "W. C. C." G. A. HELMS.

300,000 BABIES LOST TO THE NATION IN 1913.

Whose is this crime? Not on the heart
Of wretched parent must it fall!
The fool's is but the lesser part—
Let meed of blame for these be small!

They knew but instinct—glimpsed no sight
Of human justice. Victims they!
Theirs but to feel the throe of blight,
The horridness of wits astray.

Condemn not where right's tardy voice
Brought no true sense of woe and wrong!
These made the dumb brute's primal choice—
Strong guardianship to such belong!

Great Nation, on your wanton soul
I put the brand of all this shame!
Outrageous 'tis that such a toll
Of human suffering you claim!

Three hundred thousand hearts to beat
An hour, a day, and then be still,
While strength and power lie at your feet
To save and succor—if you will!

FETE TO AID WOMEN OUT OF WORK HERE

A Morality Play with Post-Impressionist Scenery by Markoe to be a Feature.

SOCIETY FOLK IN A MASQUE

300 Will Take Part in "Vanitas Venetiae"—Greek Tableau and a Ball to Follow at Waldorf.

The full programme and an outline of the character of the entertainment and ball to be held in the Waldorf-Astoria on Wednesday night for the benefit of the unemployed women in the city was given out last night by Mrs. Peter Cooper Hewitt, Chairman of the conference on unemployment among women.

One of the most unusual features of the entertainment will be the scenery for the morality play and masque which are part of the programme. It was described yesterday by F. H. Markoe, who designed it, as "post-impressionist with a touch of cubist." In none of it will there be any attempt at realism. Mr. Markoe's object is to create by impressions the mood and thought in the audience he desires rather than to display before them the detailed representation of a room, a street, or a field.

William Faversham will be the master of ceremonies, and will speak the prologue for the "Vanitas Venetiae," which is described as "A Masque of Magnificence." More than 300 persons will take part in it, among them being Mrs. August Belmont, Mrs. Henry Clews, Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Mrs. Otto Kahn, the Countess Leary, Mrs. Amos Pinchot, Mrs. Douglas Robinson, and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt.

"Mankynd," a morality play, is the other number of the programme under Mr. Markoe's direction. Thirty-five of this season's débutantes will appear in it.

Following it there will be a Greek Frieze Tableau, arranged by Miss Janet Scudder, the sculptress, assisted by Mr. Valentino, curator of the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Mlle. Bori and M. de Segurola of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company will appear in a Goldoni sketch, and Miss Elsie De Wolfe will give a new dance, "A Phantasy of Fountains," in a gown designed for the occasion by M. Poiret. The music for the entertainment has been scored by Kurt Schindler and Romualdo Sapio. Music for the ball following the theatrical programme will be by Conrad's two orchestras.

The entertainment is to be given under the patronage of the Governor and Mrs. Glynn, the Mayor and Mrs. Mitchel, and many of the society leaders of the city.

MISS CHAPPELL'S WEDDING.

Fiancee of H. R. Kunhardt, Jr., Announces Her Attendants.

Miss Louise R. Chappell, whose marriage to H. Rudolph Kunhardt, Jr., a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Kunhardt, will take place on Monday, April 20, in the Church of the Incarnation at 4 o'clock, has decided upon her attendants. Her sister, Miss Constance L. Chappell, will be her maid of honor, and the bridesmaids are to be the Misses Marie Tailer, Mary Brooks, Amy Bradish Johnson, Gertrude Hoyt, Mary R. Haskell, Elizabeth Kendall, Margaret R. Strong, and Margaret Trevor. She will also have a little flower girl, Miss Hildegarde Kunhardt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Kunhardt of North Andover, Mass., a cousin of Mr. Kunhardt.

Mr. Kunhardt will have his brother, S. Farnham Kunhardt, as his best man, and the ushers will be William K. Dick, Lyman N. Hine, William P. Hardenbergh, Jr., Amory L. Haskell, Robert Williams, and Ralph Hornblower. Dean Grosvenor of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine will officiate, assisted by the Rev. Howard C. Robbins, rector of the Church of the Incarnation.

The wedding reception will be held at the residence of the bride's parents, Dr. Walter F. Chappell and Mrs. Chappell, 7 East Fifty-fifth Street.

Miss Virginia Graves, an aunt of Miss Chappell, will give a luncheon on Wednesday at Sherry's for her and her attendants and a few additional girls, and Miss Margaret Trevor is to give a dinner for Miss Chappell on Thursday, and take her guests afterward to the Mi-Carême Carnival at Sherry's.

Shortly before the wedding Mrs. Chappell will give a dinner for her daughter and the entire bridal party.

Mellon-Manice Nuptials April 14.

The wedding of Miss Sarah Remsen Manice, the daughter of Mrs. William Manice, and Charles Henry Mellon, will be solemnized very quietly in the chapel of St. Thomas's Church on Tuesday, April 14. None but relatives will be invited owing to the recent death of Mr. Manice, and there will be no reception. The Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires will officiate. The engagement was announced last Autumn.

French-Burrill Wedding.

The marriage of Miss Eleanor Livingston Burrill, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Livingston Burrill, and Francis Ormonde French, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Tuck French, will take place on Thursday afternoon, April 23, at 4 o'clock, in St. Bartholomew's Church, and the reception will be held at the Burrill residence, 8 West Forty-eighth Street. The attendants have not yet been decided upon. The engagement was announced on Feb. 11.

LYMAN B. STOWE TO WED.

Hilda Smith to Marry Grandson of Author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

The engagement of Miss Hilda Robinson Smith, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robinson Smith of 34 West Sixty-ninth Street, and Lyman Beecher Stowe is announced. Mr. Stowe is a grandnephew of the late Henry Ward Beecher and a grandson of the late Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, who wrote "Uncle Tom's Cabin." He lives at Forest Hills, L. I., and is engaged in literary work. He has written an interesting life of his grandmother. He was graduated from Harvard in the class of 1904 and is a member of the City Club.

Miss Smith made her début several years ago and has traveled extensively abroad with her family. She has one sister, Miss Gertrude Robinson Smith, and Count Vincent de Wiezbicki is her half uncle. Her mother before her marriage was Miss Jeannie P. Steele.

GUSTAVUS D. S. TRASK.

Ex-Governor of Sailors' Snug Harbor Dead in 78th Year.

Special to The New York Times.

ORANGE, N. J., March 15.—Gustavus D. S. Trask, 77 years old, former Governor of Sailors' Snug Harbor, died at his home in Orange to-day, after a month's illness. Mr. Trask was well known among the sea-faring, having been in charge of Snug Harbor for fourteen years previous to his retirement in 1898. Previously he had been Captain of various ships for approximately a quarter of a century. He had his first ship at the age of 21 years.

He is survived by three sons, George S. D. Trask, President of S. F. Hayward & Co., fire department supplies, 39 Park Place, New York; John E. D. Trask, Chief of the Fine Arts Department for the Panama-Pacific Exposition, and Benjamin D. Trask; and three daughters.

The funeral will take place from Grace Church chantry, at Broadway and Tenth Street, to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

OVERCOME BY COAL GAS.

Mother, Daughter, and Son Found Unconscious in Their Home.

Mrs. Sarah Cohen, her married daughter, Mrs. Pauline Kessler, and a son, Jacob Cohen, 9 years old, were found unconscious from coal gas in their home at 406 South Fourth Street, Williamsburg, yesterday morning. They were taken to the Eastern District Hospital. The family had moved into the house on Saturday afternoon.

Early in the morning the younger son, Abraham, 7 years old, awoke and managed to crawl to the front window and open it enough to call for help. A policeman heard his cries and broke in the door.

DEATH OF GEN. G. C. REID.

In Marine Corps 40 Years and a Veteran of Two Wars.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Brig. Gen. George C. Reid, U. S. M. C., retired, died at his home here to-day from apoplexy, with which he was stricken last Friday night. He was 74 years old.

Gen. Reid served in the Marine Corps more than forty years, participating in both the civil war and the Spanish war. He was born in Lorain, Ohio, and before entering the Marine Corps was graduated from Oberlin College and the Columbian College of Law. Since his retirement in 1904 he had practiced law here.

HEAR JOHN McCORMACK.

Big Crowd Attends Tenor's Concert at the Hippodrome.

A huge crowd turned out last night to hear John McCormack, the Irish tenor, in his concert at the Hippodrome. It was said that all the tickets had been sold before the house opened last night, and there were several hundred turned away when it did. Mr. McCormack's programme comprised a recitative and arioso from Handel's "Jeptha," a group of songs by Schumann, Hue, Cyril Scott, and Allitsen; four old Irish songs arranged by Hughes, and an aria from "Mignon" and "E Lucevan la Stelle," from "Tosca." He was assisted by Donald McBeath, violinist, who played four numbers not of the character usually given on such occasions, and played them interestingly. Mr. McCormack was in good voice last night and sang in a straightforward style, giving obvious pleasure to his enormous audience. He was very capably assisted at the piano by Vincent O'Brien.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The Duke of Manchester was among the visitors at Miss Joan Sawyer's Persian Garden on Saturday night. At a reserved table a party of twenty sat down to supper in celebration of the silver wedding of one of their number.

Frank Lea Short has signed a contract for the production in the open air during the coming Summer of "Robin Hood," by Owen Davis. Mr. Davis has used the Robin Hood ballads as a basis for his dramatization. The open-air tour of the Short company will begin on May 6 at the University of North Carolina.

On March 28, at the Berkeley Theatre, the Socialist Press Club will present four one-act plays, two of them by its members and the others translated from two well-known modern dramatists. Members of the club will take part.

Margaret Mayo, author of "Baby Mine" and "Polly of the Circus," is putting the finishing touches on a new comedy, "The Lookers On," that Selwyn & Co. will produce.

Owing to illness of Harry Fox he and Miss Yancsi Dolly will be unable to fulfill their engagement at the Palace Theatre, scheduled to begin this afternoon, and in their place will appear Charles J. Ross, presenting "Chuckles," written by Mabel Fenton.

On Saturday night William A. Brady received from Sir Charles Wyndham a cablegram closing a deal for the London production of "Too Many Cooks," now at the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre, and "The Things That Count," at Mr. Brady's Playhouse. Under this arrangement the time at Wyndham's new theatre for a full year from the beginning of next September has been turned over to Mr. Brady.

Arrangements have been completed for the appearance in vaudeville in the near future of Lord Dangan and Lady Dangan, who was May Picard, an American showgirl. A sketch, with music, is being written by Thomas J. Gray. In the company will appear not only the son and daughter-in-law of the Earl of Cowley, but the Misses Alma, Corinne, and Alleyne Picard, sisters of Lady Dangan.

Oliver Morosco announced yesterday through his local offices that, owing to the reception given Laurette Taylor in the special matinee performances of the three one-act plays by J. Hartley Manners at the Cort Theatre, Mr. Manners has commenced the work of reconstructing "Happiness," the second play of the triple bill, into a three-act comedy.

MUSIC NOTES.

Felice Lyne has been engaged by Henry Russell of the Boston Opera Company for a special performance of "Rigoletto" in Boston on Friday evening. This occasion will mark the first operatic appearance in the United States of the former star of Hammerstein's London company.

Frany L. Sealy, organist of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, will give an organ recital there to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the series which will hold through March.

Mme. Maud Kraft will give a piano recital in the Myrtle Room at the Waldorf on Thursday evening.

FATHER DORNEY DIES IN CHICAGO HOSPITAL

Fighting Priest Was Called "King of Stock Yards"—Banished Saloons from Parish.

ONCE EMISSARY TO PARNELL

Carried Documents That Proved Pigott's Charges Were Based on Forgery and Saved Irish Leader.

CHICAGO, March 15.—The Rev. Maurice J. Dorney, a Catholic priest whose name is known on both sides of the Atlantic, died to-day at Mercy Hospital, where his sister is one of the nuns in charge. Death was due to paralysis following heart trouble, which attacked him a few weeks ago.

Archbishop Quigley was at the bedside just before Father Dorney became unconscious.

Father Maurice J. Dorney, "the King of the Stock Yards," was one of the most picturesque characters in the West. Counselor, protector, and friend to thousands, he had for thirty-five years the power of the ruler of a principality in one of the great industrial centres of the world—the packing house district of Chicago. His prestige extended to the White House, and on one occasion he earned the gratitude of Celts everywhere as an envoy from Irish leaders on this side of the Atlantic to Charles Stewart Parnell in London.

Father Dorney's parish, St. Gabriel's, at Forty-fifth Street, the nearest to the main entrance of the stock yards, is called the most Irish parish outside of Ireland. Such was the force of his personality that by his efforts a mile square of territory surrounding his church had for twenty years been free from saloons.

Residents of the district, regardless of creed, revered him. Here is the reason as explained by one of the men of the yards:

"If you want a battle, just say something against Father Dorney, and you'll get fight in plenty, all the way from kids to grandfathers. No hour was ever too long or too dark or too cold or the roads too rough to stop Father Dorney from going to one who needed help. And what's more, it never made any difference whether man or woman was Catholic or Protestant, Gentile or Jew. Father Dorney helped.

"When he started out for something it was nothing short of a riot till he got what he went after. Now can you see why from Forty-third to Forty-ninth and from Halsted to the Wabash tracks was surely bound to be dry."

The meeting of Parnell and Father Dorney in the House of Commons is historic. Father Dorney delivered to the Irish leader documents which proved that the informer Pigott's accusations against Parnell were based on forgery. This caused the collapse of the prosecution, and Pigott not long after committed suicide in Spain. Father Dorney had been intrusted with the documents by his life-long friend, Alexander Sullivan, President of the Irish National League of America, and Patrick Egan, former Treasurer of the Irish National League, and later Minister to Chile.

A native of Massachusetts, Father Dorney was a real orator. A six-foot athlete, he had a voice of corresponding power, yet capable of the finest modulation, and a ready wit and smile that never failed to charm. Usually he spoke in an easy, almost colloquial style, but it was no rare thing for him to move an audience to tears.

MRS. C. S. BROWN DIES.

Well-Known Social Reformer and Suffragist Succumbs to Pneumonia.

Mrs. Corinne Stubbs Brown, a well-known social reformer and suffragist, died yesterday in the Bancroft apartments, 509 West 121st Street, in her sixty-fifth year. She was born in Chicago and resided there until last year, when she came here with her daughter, Corinne, who is taking a course in Teachers' College at Columbia University. Pneumonia caused her death. She had been ill a week.

Mrs. Brown was a graduate of the Chicago High School and became a teacher and Principal in the public schools there, from which she retired at the time of her marriage to the late Frank E. Brown, cashier of the First National Bank, Chicago. She was a former President of the Woman's Alliance of Chicago. She founded the Social Economics Club of Chicago, and was an active member of the Woman's Federal Labor Union. Mrs. Brown was active in the suffrage movement here and in Chicago.

WILLIAM LUMMIS DIES.

One-Time Head of Stock Exchange Passes Away in 73d Year.

William Lummis, a former President of the Stock Exchange, died yesterday at his home at 701 Madison Avenue, in his seventy-third year. He was born in New York, was graduated from Columbia College with the class of 1859, and after two years spent in the study of law went into the banking business. Later, with Henry Day, he founded the firm of Lummis & Day, for many years prominent in Wall Street. He was admitted to the Stock Exchange in 1864, and later served on its governing board for twelve years. In 1884 he was elected Vice President, and succeeded Frank Hatch in the Presidency after the failure of Fisk & Hatch. His work at that time is still remembered by older members of the Exchange.

Mr. Lummis was prominent in Catholic circles, having been a Trustee of St. Patrick's Cathedral for many years and its Treasurer in 1910-11, at which time the debt was paid off. He was one of the founders of the Xavier Alumni Association and the Catholic Society. He was a member of the Chamber of Commerce and a former Commissioner of the Board of Education. He had also served as a Director of a number of railroads and banks.

He married Miss Elizabeth Coleman, who survives him. He leaves two sons, William and John, and a daughter, Harriet. Of late years Mr. Lummis had been retired from active participation in business, but still maintained his office at 45 Wall Street.

TRY TO 'BLEED' HOTEL MAN.

Fake Sleuths Arrest Him for Keeping Relics of War of 1812.

Two well-dressed men entered the Old Farm Hotel, at 72 University Place, on Saturday night and noticed the collection of relics of the War of 1812 which Max Pause, the proprietor, had acquired. They told him with seeming regret, that the old pistols, which the collection contained, constituted a violation of the Sullivan law, and that they would have to arrest him. He had started with the men to go to police station as he supposed when one of them said that $10 would "square things up." When Pause's son heard this he became suspicious and held one of the men while his father went for a policeman. The other man escaped.

At the Mercer Street Police Station the prisoner said he was Daniel J. Sullivan, an actor of 37 Jay Street. He was held by Magistrate Freschi yesterday in $2,500 bail on the charge of extortion.

Morris K. Sweitzer Dies.

Morris K. Sweitzer, for twenty-seven years manager of the stores controlled by the Caswell-Massey Pharmacy Company in this city, and for the last two years lessee of the Freeman Pharmacy, Amsterdam Avenue and Eighty-second Street, died yesterday morning in his home, 208 West Eighty-second Street, from a paralytic stroke. Mr. Sweitzer was born in Wilkes-Barre, Penn., fifty-five years ago, and was one of the best-known men in the retail drug trade in this city.

The Bond to Offer in Court
Delays in Court usually are costly and always inconvenient. His client's interests demand of the lawyer that proceedings be expedited in every possible way.
Whenever a Surety Bond is required, it should be a Bond of such known strength that its acceptance is immediate—a Bond which is recognized to be absolute in its protection and a guarantee of prompt reimbursement in case of loss.
Considering their grave responsibility in approving sureties, it is a fair inference that Judges are pleased when the Bond of the American Surety Company is presented, not only because this is the largest and strongest Surety Company in the world, but because it has established, during the past thirty years, the most enviable reputation for the prompt payment of its obligations.
The American Surety Company of New York is the Largest Surety Company in the World.

Growth
IN THE OPEN
Things grow in cellars and dark alleys and in boggy soil and under glass roofs, but the strong and enduring fibre is always grown on high ground and in the open. Good seed, good soil, sunshine, fresh air, water and let it alone. That is nature's way. It produces timber that won't crack or warp under heat or rot and decay in bad weather. Newspaper growth is very similar. Enduring circulation is never of the mushroom variety. The most remarkable record of month-by-month and year-by-year newspaper growth is that presented by The New York Times. The circulation is ten times as large to-day as it was fifteen years ago; a steady increase due to a fortunate combination of "seed" and "soil" and "high ground."

GIANTS CUT LOOSE AND SHUT OUT WACO

Tesreau and Ritter Hold Texans Down to 2 Hits—McGraw's Men Bat Hard.

Special to The New York Times.

WACO, Texas, March 15.—The Giants cut loose with hard hitting and wholesale base running this afternoon and left the Waco team far behind. McGraw's workmen won by a score of 10 to 0, and the fact that the home team was blanked was the result of the admirable pitching of Tesreau and Ritter, aided by steady fielding.

The New Yorkers played the best game they have so far put on display, their team work at the bat being decidedly effective. With their timely batting was unchecked base running. They took big leads on the home pitchers, and often resorted to the hit and run. Merkle was the boss base-stealer. Of the nine sacks pilfered by the Giants he stole four. In one inning he stole second and third, and then came in on a double steal.

Merkle didn't have a fielding chance at short, and Snodgrass at third was in the same boat. Both made up for their lack of fielding opportunities at the bat and on the paths. The only error committed by the Giants was a muff by Jim Thorpe, and just for that Jim picked up the ball and threw out the batter when the latter tried for second on the transgression. Doyle, although carrying a slight charley horse from yesterday's engagement, played brilliantly in the field. His best feat was a stop back of second on which he threw out the batter.

The speed of Tesreau and Ritter was very effective, Tesreau using his spitball on occasions. Waco made one hit off him and one off Ritter. The latter pitcher was in the last five innings and struck out eight men. He had steam and control.

Only four of the home batsmen reached first base. In six of the nine innings they were set down in one, two, three order. The all-around playing of the Giants was the most attractive of Spring campaign so far. Fine weather here allowed them to open the throttle several notches. The score:

TURN TABLES ON DALLAS.

Giants' Second Squad Wins Loosely Played Game, 8 to 5.

Special to The New York Times.

DALLAS, Texas, March 15.—The Giants' squad, under acting Manager Donlin, turned the tables on Dallas to-day by defeating them in an interesting but poorly played game by the score of 8 to 5. The contest was a tie at the end of the fifth inning at three runs. The Giants managed to pile up a brace of tallies in their part of the sixth, and after that were never headed. They increased their lead by four in the eighth by batting Duvenick, who relieved Erickson, for four hot singles which with an error, gave them the runs.

Demaree after a poor start came right back for the next five innings, and was invincible, allowing his opponents but one more hit and no runs. He was batted for a single and a triple in the first inning, and gave a base on balls. Schauer was in the box three innings, and held the locals safe except in the ninth, when they made three singles, which with Stock's wild throw, gave them two runs.

The game was witnessed by about 2,000 people, among the spectators being Evelyn Nesbitt Thaw and Paul Armstrong, the playright. The latter accompanied the Giants back to Marlin last night, leaving at 8 o'clock. The score:

MAY BUY CHICAGO CLUB.

President Tener Discusses Sale with a Chicago Syndicate.

HARRISBURG, Penn., March 15.—Representatives of a Chicago syndicate which is negotiating for the purchase of the Chicago National League Baseball Club held an extended conference with President Tener of the National League here to-day and assured him of their ability to finance and conduct the affairs of the club. While no details of what transpired at the conference were made public, the Chicagoans expressed confidence that they would secure the club.

Two of the visitors, John T. Connery and F. D. Mayer, left to-night for Cincinnaiti, where they will meet Charles P. Taft, owner of the Cubs, and make an offer for the purchase of his entire interest.

New Orleans Trims Tigers.

NEW ORLEANS, March 15.—The New Orleans Southern League team to-day defeated the Detroit Americans 8 to 4. Ty Cobb in his first appearance this season struck out the first two times at bat, but doubled to left on his third time up. He went out trying to steal home. The score:

Cobb to Play with Detroit.

NEW ORLEANS, March 15.—Tyrus Cobb, outfielder for the Detroit Americans, to-day set at rest reports that he had been approached a second time with an attractive contract by the Federal League. He declared no such offer had been made. Cobb said he had refused one Federal proposition and emphatically added that he would play this season with Detroit. President Navin arrived here to-day and returned to Gulfport with the team. He said Sam Crawford, [illegible]

YANKEES BY ONE RUN.

Light Batting Game at Houston Ends in Victory for New York.

Special to The New York Times.

HOUSTON, Texas, March 15.—While the Yankees are still shy on the batting end of the game, which Manager Chance hopes to brace up in the final week of work at Houston, the New Yorkers managed to beat the home team to-day after a hard struggle by the narrow margin of one tally, the score being 2 to 1 when the fans started home.

Keating and Schulz did the hurling for the Yankees, and both showed up in good form. Keating was pitching for four innings and the Houston team managed to get four hits. Schulz, the left-hander, was good for two singles being made from his left-handed slants.

The second inning was the New Yorkers' big one and the only round they secured any runs, the total being two. In this capter Hartzell started by going out on a tap to the pitcher. Peckinpaugh then walked, stole second and went on to third when Allen made a bad throw to second. Reynolds scored the New York shortstop with a single to left field. After Keating was retired on a bounder to the pitcher, Maisel cracked a long single to centre that scored Reynolds. That was the end of the New Yorks' scoring.

The Yankees had the best chance in the opening inning to break up the game, but the same fault which has cropped up in the other games, that being their inability to hit in the pinches, loomed up once again.

The one play which stood out above any, as far as the fielding was concerned, was made by Jimmy Walsh in the fifth inning, when it looked as if the home club was going to break up the game. There were two Houston men on the bases, first and second. Davis hit a sharp line drive that looked good for a long hit, but Walsh got the ball and whipped it to Peckinpaugh for a double play. Otherwise the game was a peaceful battle all the way. The score:

FAVORS SUNDAY BASEBALL.

President Cox of Atlantic League Advocates Freer Use of Sabbath.

The league known last year as the New York and New Jersey League adopted the name of the Atlantic League at a meeting held yesterday at the Hotel Wallick, and completed arrangements for the opening of the season. The most important move of the league is to play at Weidemeyers Park in Newark on days when the Newark Club of the International League is on the road. This move had the approval of President Barrows of the Internationals for a one-year trial. It is an experiment at covering up territory against invasion by the Federal League.

The Kingston Club was transferred to Bloomfield, N. J., where there is a better field for the new league. It was voted to raise the guarantee of each club from $40 to $50 a game. The season will open on May 20, and the circuit is now as follows: Perth Amboy, Paterson, Bloomfield, Newark, Middletown, N. Y.; Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; Newburg, N. Y., and Danbury, Conn.

Mayor Rosslyn M. Cox of Middletown, N. Y., President of the league, who is also Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Majors Conference of New York State, made the following statement in regard to Sunday baseball:

"This meeting of our league was called on Sunday afternoon to emphasize the fact that there is a real demand among the people and especially among the toilers throughout the State for more liberal Sunday laws, not only for baseball, but for other means of recreation and amusement.

"The bills now pending in the Legislature at Albany to further the freer use of Sunday as a day of rest, recreation and worship, if not passed, will be killed in committee at the instance of a combination of liquor dealers, politicians, and some misguided but well-meaning dominies, who are working in unison for divers reasons which they each believe will further their own individual interests."

REST FOR SUPERBAS.

Brooklyn Players to Meet President Wilson on Return Journey.

Special to The New York Times.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 15.—For the first time in over two weeks Manager Robinson gave his players a day of absolute rest to-day. The players were quick to take advantage of this opportunity, and automobile rides were taken to many points of interest in and around Augusta.

Robinson and Nap Rucker, as partners, played a match game of golf with one of the correspondents and S. J. Newcomb, proprietor of the Albion Hotel, as opponents. The Superba's new boss and Rucker were novices at the ancient game, yet, notwithstanding their unfamiliarity with bogey and par, they managed to come out on top at the finish.

Robinson, over the long-distance telephone to-night, tried to make arrangements with Manager Birmingham of the Cleveland club to send his first team here for an exhibition game some time this week.

Pitchers Neyenhouse and Andrews, who have been working out with the Superbas, may be left here with the local club. Both are youngsters, and a stay of a year or so in the South Atlantic League may prove beneficial to them.

Congressman Daniel J. Griffin of Kings County sent a letter to Capt. Jake Daubert that he would like the members of the Brooklyn baseball club to meet President Wilson upon their arrival in Washington the last of this month. Daubert wrote him to the effect that the players would be more than pleased to see the President and to go ahead and make arrangements.

Fordham's Indoor Baseball Practice.

The baseball management at Fordham has secured the armory of the Second Battery in the Bronx for the training of the baseball squad. The armory has been used for indoor baseball. Its floor of tan bark permits the laying out of a regular diamond, and forms a good substitute for the outdoor field. Batting, bunting, running the bases, and tossing the ball around forms the chief part of the work. Outdoor work is expected during the latter part of this week. The squad was enlivened the last few days by the arrival of a trio of football stars, "Bud" Wymard, Captain of next season's eleven; Tommy McAviney, and Granfield, both backs on the Maroon eleven last Fall, reported for their practice. Gossip on the campus reports that "Long Tom" Kehoe and "Skip" McCarthy, both former Captains of Fordham athletic teams and still students at the university, will not play with the Maroon nine this Spring.

Blue Laws Stop Practice.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 15.—The Brooklyn Federal League team was not allowed to work out here to-day because of a local law which prohibits ball playing on Sunday. Manager Bill Bradley set the example for his men by getting away early to church, and most of the members did the same. Some of the boys are feeling the effect of yesterday's practice and spent the day at the hotel, while the others were out sightseeing. Hildebrand, who caught for the St. Louis Cardinals last season, came in town to-day and looked fit to enter a game at once. Tom Seaton and Steve Evans are now the only absent members of the flock.

St. Louis Federals Win Game.

SHREVEPORT, La., March 15.—The St. Louis Federals hit better in the pinches today and won an interesting exhibition game, 5 to 1, from the Chicago Federals. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	5	7	6
Chicago	1	5	3

Batteries—Willett, Cooper, and Chapman; Seaton, [illegible], and Wilson.

GIANTS IN LINE FOR A FOURTH PENNANT

Phillies and Pirates Weakened by Raids of the Federal League.

Manager John J. McGraw of the Giants will start the season of 1914 with the ambitious purpose of upsetting baseball tradition. He plans to win a fourth consecutive pennant, a feat which has never yet been accomplished in the major leagues. New York, under eleven years of McGraw, has won five National League pennants. The Giants won in 1904 and 1905, and also in 1911, 1912, and 1913. Chicago, under Frank Chance, won three consecutive pennants, in 1906, 1907, and 1908, and finished second in 1909, but came back and won again in 1910.

Under the present conditions in the National League, McGraw's chances of accomplishing this great feat of four successive pennants look bright. The Giants are just as strong to-day as they have been for the past few seasons, while the other clubs in the National League which in the past have given the Giants much trouble are weaker. New York has been the least affected by the Federal League. Last season Philadelphia was a strong contender, and on the 1st of July in 1913 the Phillies were in the lead of the pennant race.

The Federal League raids have robbed the Phillies of many of their best players, and facing these losses, Manager Dooin's forces cannot hope to be as formidable as they were last season. The loss of Knabe and Doolan, two of the club's mainstays, will be felt, while it will be hard to get so accomplished a pitcher as Seaton.

Pittsburgh, another staunch Giant rival, has also suffered from the Federal League activity, and Manager Fred Clarke will have a hard time developing new men to fill the place of the men he has lost. The Pirates last year failed to display the speed which is required of a championship contender, and the team this season does not look even as fast as last year's outfit.

The Cubs have undergone such violent changes that they cannot hope to win back the place they have held in the past as a pennant possibility. The loss of Evers will probably prove a greater blow to the Chicago team's possibilities than apepar at the present time.

The strengthening of the Boston Braves under Manager George Stallings brings that club to the front as the Giants' most dangerous rival during the coming season. The addition of Evers should prove a great benefit to the team. The Boston Club has lacked the hitting strength which is demanded of a championship club, but if this branch of the game can be developed this season Boston will give the Giants a lot of trouble.

The only setback in McGraw's plan will come if Shafer cannot be persuaded to return to play third base. President Hempstead has gone to California to try to coax the player to change his mind, but if he is unsuccessful McGraw has three candidates for the place. They are Stock, Eddie Grant, and Dyer. Dyer and Stock have shown up well at the practice at Marlin, and although it is contrary to McGraw's policy to put young players in important places without a long preliminary service on the bench, circumstances this year may force him to change this policy.

Manager McGraw, after his return from the trip around the world, stated that he considered the Giants' chances for another pennant as exceedingly bright. He would not venture an out-and-out prediction, but he believes that his pitching staff will be better this year than last, and expects that the batting strength will be greater. McGraw pointed out that Larry Doyle last year had the worst season of his career at batting, but his work on the games around the world showed that he had recovered his old prowess with the willow club. McGraw didn't hesitate to say that it was his ambition to win four pennants in a row.

Secretary Foster of the Giants stated yesterday that he considered the Giants stronger to-day than they have been for the last five years.

"The team," he said, "has ripened with experience, and the gradual addition of younger talent has more than filled up the gaps made by the passing of older players. The Giants last season did not bat up to the form they are capable of, and this year I look for a big improvement in this department of the game. As for the pitchers, the club is better supplied with boxmen than ever before. Mathewson last year had one of the best seasons of his career, and he is by no means through with the game. From the big supply of younger talent Manager McGraw is sure to choose a few who will measure up to big league ability. I certainly look to see the Giants win their fourth consecutive pennant."

STARS TO RUN TO-NIGHT.

Jasper Race at Manhattan Games Attracts Many Champions.

Homer Baker's record-breaking half-mile race at the Military Athletic championships on Saturday night when he defeated Abel Kiviat in the sterling time of 1:56 4-5, warrants the belief on the part of his adherents that he will be the man who is to be feared most by Ted Meredith, the world's record holder, when they race to-night in the Jasper three-quarter-mile scratch event at the Manhattan College games in the armory of the Sixty-ninth Regiment.

Other starters in this event will include Tom Halpin, who has been showing such good work at middle distances during the Winter; Joe Driscoll of Buffalo, the holder of the world's indoor record at the three-quarter-mile, (3:07.) Matt Geis and Mel Sheppard, who showed his return to form when he easily won the quarter-mile titular race at the M. A. L. championships. A new record is promised as the result of the race.

Harry Smith, the two-mile indoor champion, and Hannes Kolehmainen, the Finn, will take issue at two miles and a half, a distance which is seemingly better suited to the Finn than a route at a lesser distance. Kolehmainen is anxious to retrieve the standing he lost in the two-mile indoor championship when he was defeated by both Smith and Kramer, in a race in which he states he was jostled. Many other events are on the card with a banner entry list in view of the exceptionally fine prizes which will be awarded.

Voteretsas Wins Road Race.

Road conditions did not favor the three-and-one-quarter-mile road race of the St. Anselm's Athletic Club yesterday, but despite this fact there was a good turn out of harriers. Starter Ed Doyle sent about thirty distance runners on their journey, and the first to reach the finish was V. Voteretsas, the former Greek-American A. C. champion, who is now competing for St. Anselm's. Voteretsas took the lead at the star and was never in trouble. He kept an even pace and finished 200 yards in front of J. Saukeep of the College Point Young Men's Catholic League, who in turn defeated F. Guido, his clubmate, by fifty yards. The order of finish: Vic Voteretsas, St. Anselm's A. C., 17:06; J. Saukeep, College Point Y. M. C. L., 18:03; F. Guido, College Point Y. M. C. L., 18:14; G. Richards, unattached, 18:43; J. Sheridan, Long Island A. C., 18:56; P. Coyne, Holy Cross Lyceum, 19:05; T. Herspulos, Greek-American, 19:06; K. Kintas, unattached, 19:20; L. Levy, unattached, 19:28; A. Guidera, College Point Y. M. C. L., 19:35; C. Lauth, St. Anselm's A. C., 19:40; L. Petersen, St. Agnes' A. C., 19:41.

Thirty-eight Walk to Creedmoor.

Thirty-eight members of the Walkers' Club of America took part in the weekly walk of the club yesterday from Columbus Circle to Creedmoor, L. I., a distance of about fifteen mils. The course was across Queensboro Bridge, Queen's Boulevard, and Hillside Avenue. As a new departure the walkers were divided into squads, first and second, which enabled the men to select their own pace. The metal offered for the members of the club is attracting many new walkers. The club walk next Sunday will start at the Forty-second Street Ferry at 9 A. M. for a fifteen-mile jaunt over the New Jersey roads.

Quarantine Regulations to be Waived for British Mounts.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, March 15.—The polo ponies which Lord Wimborne is providing for the British players, who are now in training in Madrid before their departure for New York in June to try to regain the American cup, will leave London for the United States on May 17.

There was doubt whether the ponies would be allowed to land in the United States under the quarantine laws. As they are in Madrid, in King Alfonso's stables, and will not reach London until a short time before their departure for America, it wil be impossible for them to be six weeks in the country from which they are exported—the condition required by the quarantine laws; but Lord Wimborne has just received a cable dispatch from New York saying that the Department of Agriculture will waive objections to their entry.

YACHTSMEN'S GUN RECORDS

Spotts and McMahon Shoot Well at Larchmont Y. C. Traps.

Ralph L. Spotts and Daniel F. McMahon broke all the Larchmont Yacht Club shooting records yesterday at the traps of that organization. In winning the high gun prize, Ralph L. Spotts, shooting from scratch, broke 145 blue rocks out of the possible 150, defeating McMahon, who had tied that score by breaking 25 straight in the shoot-off. The best previous high gun score at this club had been 144, and the best this season had been 141, made twice by R. L. Spotts on Dec. 21 and 28.

The feature of yesterday's performance at the traps, however, was the fact that Ralph L. Spotts and "Danny" McMahon, by returning scores of 194 and 192 respectively, broke the 200-bird record, Spotts by 5 birds and McMahon by 3; the former record was 189. The experts figure Spotts's percentage as 97½.

A remarkable fact showing the phenomenal form of the contestants and the ideal conditions was that there were ties in all the nine matches decided. McMahon carried off the honors by winning four of the contests, besides tying Spotts for the high gun prize.

The 125-bird handicap prize went to A. L. Burns, who broke 50. Nine of the ten men that shot for the second take-home trophy returned full scores of 25, and in the shoot-off G. W. Lembeck proved the winner.

Tie in Knollwood C. C. Shoot.

Shooting honors at the Knollwood Country Club yesterday were divided between F. M. Wilson and T. W. Wilcox, who returned tie scores on three separate occasions in the Dr. Lindsay monthly handicap shoot. Wilcox, who was scratch "killed" 107 out of 125, while Wilson's score, including 5 handicap, was the same. After returning equal cards again, they made a third attempt with a like result. It was decided to divide the prize. With a handicap of 13 Merrill scored 93 in the 100 target handicap, with Wilcox, from scratch, second with 90. Wilson finished in the lead in the yearly 100 "bird" handicap. The scores:

Monthly Handicap, 100 Targets.—W. H. Merrill, 13, 80—93; T. F. Wilcox, 90, 0—90; F. M. Wilson, 81, 4—85; R. W. Henderson, 82, 0—82.

Dr. Lindsay Prize, 125 Targets, Handicap.—T. F. Wilcox, 107, 0—107; F. M. Wilson, 102, 5—107, Divided.

Yearly Handicap, 100-Bird Handicap.—F. M. Wilson, 83, 4—87; T. F. Wilcox, 84, 0—84; R. W. Henderson, 79, 0—79; W. H. Merrill, 66, 13—79; W. H. Sykes, 63, 8—71; E. F. Fox, 65, 4—69.

Full Scores at New Rochelle Traps.

Under almost ideal conditions thirteen men took part in the weekly shoot of the New Rochelle Yacht Club yesterday. Full scores were plentiful, and shot-offs were required in several matches to determine the winners. C. C. Moore, besides being high gun for the day, and for the season so far, carried off the distance handicap prize with a full score of 25, shooting from the 17-yard line. He also won the leg for the Accumulation Cup with a full score and a handicap of 6. J. P. Donovan and George P. Granbery were the winners respectively of the ten and fifteen "bird" scratch contest, and H. H. Bullock carried off the 25 "bird" scratch prize. H. M. Bullock, H. H. Todd, C. C. Moore, A. Chandler, V. P. Krauss, and D. Giriat all won legs on the Monthly Cup.

Manhasset Bay Y. C. Shoot.

Honors were evenly divided yesterday between the eleven men who faced the Manhasset Bay Yacht Club traps. There were many full scores returned in the five matches. F. L. Richards proved the winner of both the ten and the fifteen "bird" handicap prize, with a full score on his handicap of 8. W. H. Lindeman, with a full score of 25, won the leg for the Monthly Cup, and D. E. Smith, with a 25 straight, won the leg for the Yearly Cup.

Champion May Not Defend Title.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 15.—Miss Gladys Ravenscroft of England, holder of the women's national golf championship in the United States, may not defend her American title this year. Miss Ravenscroft said to-day that she doubted if she would be able to come back to the United States this year after she returns home in about a month. She has been participating in tournaments here.

Muddy Fields for Soccer Games.

In the only game of the double header that could be played at Manhattan Field yesterday, the St. George's eleven put the Camerons out of the cup tie competition of the Southern New York Football Association to the tune of 2 goals to 1, after the losers had established a lead of 1 to 0 in the first half.

Slush and snow made heavy going for the players in the soccer game at Taft's Oval between the Longfellows and Hudson United in the second division of the New York State Amateur League, yesterday afternoon, but, nevertheless, the two teams put up a sterling article of football. The defeat of the Longfellows, who are among the leaders in the division, came as a distinct surprise. Hudson United won by the close margin of 3 goals to 2.

The I. R. T. Strollers advanced in the cup tie series of the Metropolitan and District Football League yesterday, by defeating the Chelsea Football Club, by the score of one goal to nil, at Chelsea Park.

MAIN ROADS IN JERSEY PASSABLE

Improvements Planned for Long Island Highways — Auto Axle Patents Pooled.

Road conditions in New Jersey are still far from good on account of the snow, but motorists will find the main highways entirely passable. The road to Plainfield by way of the Plank Road to Newark and thence over Springfield Avenue and the Seven Bridge Road is in good condition, according to the Bureau of Tours of the Automobile Club of America. Some drifts near Westfield are annoying but not dangerous. The best route to Montclair at present is over the Plank Road to Newark and then by way of Bloomfield Avenue. Arrangements have been consumated to put the Merrick Road in good condition from Jamaica to the City Line. This stretch of approximately three miles which has become quite rough will be rebuilt as early in the season as the weather will permit. This improvement, with the $90,000 to be spent on the Merrick Road through Nassau County, the contracts let for a Wayne County concrete road from Bay Shore through Islip and Sayville to Patchogue and the probability of the continuation of the concrete road from Patchogue eastward for ten miles, gives promise of a splendid roadway along the popular South Shore of Long Island.

⁂

According to the Automobile Chamber of Commerce, no serious patent litigations, comparable to those which surrounded the Selden patent dispute, are to be anticipated from the formation of the Karbo Company of Cleveland, which advices from Detroit say was organized as a holding company to take over the patents on motor vehicle axles held by several separate concerns, including the Packard, Peerless, and American Ball Bearing companies. It was said at the Chamber that an invesigation into this patent situation was being conducted, but that the purpose of the new company was understood to be protective.

⁂

A selling plan new to Automobile Row has been inaugurated by Partridge, Clarke and Kerrigan, whose headquarters at 239 West Fifty-sixth Street are being remodeled. The firm is to represent here three different makes of car, each in a different price stratum, and each non-competitive with the others in the line. It believes that by combining three cars under one "overhead," and also by choosing a location in the heart of the retail automobile district about forty-five steps from Broadway, yet out of the rental burden of that thoroughfare, it will be able to furnish more complete service than would otherwise be possible. The cars it will represent are the new Briscoe at $750—a combination of French design and Yankee manufacture; the Lewis Six at $1,600, and the Premier with its overhead cam shaft, Weidely motor, at $2,700.

CLASS CREWS AT YALE.

New Method of Selecting Candidates for 'Varsity Boat.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 15.—Announcement was made to-night of the organization of class crews at Yale, from which candidates for the 'Varsity boat will hereafter be selected. Captains have been chosen as follows: Seniors—H. L. Rogers of Hyde Park, N. Y.; Juniors—E. B. Harrison of Kansas City; Sophomores—Alexander McK. Munson of York Harbor, Me. The freshmen have not yet selected their Captain.

Coach Guy Nickalls, the English oarsman, is putting the 'Varsity men through long practice rows of twelve or fifteen miles daily, and he says the sweep-swingers are showing good early season form. Coach Giannini is with the freshmen, and he says the outlook for a strong crew is good.

Canoeists Interested in Road.

Commissioner Sutro of the Interstate Park Commission told the members of the local division of the American Canoe Association at their annual smoker on Saturday night that a new road was to be constructed along the base of the Palisades from Fort Lee to West Point. The road is to be known as the Hendrick Hudson Drive, and is of unusual interest to the many canoeists who camp along the river during the Summer. Sand beaches are to be provided, and a canoe harbor is to be built at the Englewood approach. Commissioner Sutro took occasion to tell the members of the great loss which the commission would suffer by the retirement of Commissioner Franklin W. Hopkins, who has taken an active part in promoting the improvement. The canoeists voted to send a set of resolutions to the Governor asking for Mr. Hopkins's reappointment.

To Judge Novice Hunters.

Following the Wednesday night music ride at the Central Park Riding Academy, a class for hunters and horses suitable to become hunters will be judged for their conformation, quality, and manners. There will be a clause in the conditions under which the candidates are to be judged, which will bar veteran trophy winning hunters. The class is primarily to encourage untried horses, and it is expected that a few promising youngsters will be discovered. Horses may be ridden by either men or women.

BOXING BOUTS THIS WEEK.

Many Notables Scheduled to Appear at Local Clubs.

Many boxers of prominence are scheduled to appear in the boxing shows arranged for the coming week by the matchmakers of New York clubs. The list includes Battling Levinsky, Leach Cross, Joe Shugrue, Johnny Dundee, Harry Thomas, Phil Cross, and others of considerable fame in the roped arena, and as they are well distributed among the various clubs the boxing enthusiasts will have plenty to interest them during the week. The Garden A. C. will again be closed to boxing, but all the other big clubs have arranged cards.

The Empire A. C. show, originally arranged for last week and postponed because of Leach Cross's attack of tonsilitis, stands out first on the week's bill. Cross and Joe Shugrue will be the headliners at this show, and if the bout is anything like the previous encounter between this pair it will furnish plenty of action. This will probably be Shugrue's last appearance here for several months, as he is scheduled to sail for Australia during the latter part of this month. In the ten-round semi-final Phil Cross and Bull Cassidy will come together, while the opening event will show Bert Fagin versus Johnny Wilson.

The National Sporting Club will resume activities to-night after a lapse of two weeks, three ten-round bouts making up the card. In the final bout Billy Bennett and Jack Read, the Australian lightweight, will be the contenders. Harry Thomas of England will oppose Packey Hommey in the semi-final, and Joe Appell will mix with Joe Hall in the opener.

Battling Levinsky will continue his busy campaign to-morrow night at the Broadway Sporting Club of Brooklyn. His opponent will be Fred Fritts, the sailor heavyweight, whose recent series of victories has made him prominent among the white heavyweights. Soldier Shaw, another Brooklyn favorite, and Paul Dixon will come together in the ten-round semi-final.

Johnny Dundee and Special Delivery Hirsch will have a return bout to-morrow night at the Atlantic Garden A. C. The same boxers came together at the Olympic A. C. about a year ago, and both sides claimed victory at the finish. The usual preliminaries will be put on before the main event.

A benefit show will be held to-night at the Sharkey A. C., the proceeds to be used to liquidate a mortgage on a church. Tommy Murphy, Knockout Brown, Johnny Howard, George Rodel, Jack Keating, Jimmy Coffey, Young Mike Donovan, and other boxers are scheduled to appear.

The Olympic A. C. will put on its regular weekly show to-night and the New Polo A. A. will be busy Friday night. Amateurs will get their chance in a tournament at the Crescent A. C. on Wednesday and Saturday nights. Ten clubs will be busy as usual with week-end shows Saturday night.

McGOORTY DEFEATS SMITH.

Referee's Decision in Bout at Sidney, N. S. W., Was Unpopular.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., March 15.—Eddie McGoorty of Oshkosh, Wis., to-day was given the decision over Jeff Smith, another American fighter, at the end of a hard-fought twenty-round bout. The referee's decision was unpopular. The fight took place in the Stadium and was witnessed by 10,000 persons.

Matinee Horse Show.

Invitations and prize lists are out for a matinee horse show on Saturday, at the Little Riding School. Ten classes are to be judged. Ribbons and cups will be the prizes, and no entrance fees will be charged. The competitions are for women's saddle horses; trotting saddle horses; hack ponies; children's saddle ponies under 13.2 hands; saddle horses of any type not exceeding 15.2 hands and exceeding 15.2 hands; combination saddle and harness horses; jumpers; women's riding competition over the jumps, and riding competition for children under five years of age.

Second Canadian Hockey Game.

The Vancouver hockey players will face the Wanderers of Montreal to-night in the second game of the professional series for the Canadian championship and a $5,000 purse at the St. Nicholas Rink. Hockey experts from Winnipeg, Calgary, Nova Scotia, and other remote places in Canada have played here before, but it is the first time that players from British Columbia have ever journeyed so far to play the game.

SPEEDY RUNNERS ON OXFORD RELAY TEAM

British Collegians May Establish New Record for Four Miles at Penn Games.

Official announcement has been made of the personnel of the Oxford University four-mile relay team which will run against the best of the American college fours at the University of Pennsylvania relay games at Philadelphia on Saturday, April 25. The English university team will consist of A. N. S. Jackson, Norman S. Taber, G. M. Sproule, and D. N. Gaussen, forming the most cosmopolitan team that ever represented England in a track meet of the importance of the Pennsylvania games. Jackson, the President of the Oxford University Athletic Association and Captain of the team, is the English runner who won the 1,500-meter run at the Olympic games in Stockholm in 1912. Norman S. Taber is an American Rhodes scholar from Brown University, and during his college athletic career was considered, next to John Paul Jones, the best mile runner in American university athletics. Sproule is a Rhodes scholar from Australia, Captain of the Oxford cross-country team, and a miler who has done 4:3 0or better repeatedly. Gaussen, an English student at Oxford, has run the mile for the Dark Blue against Cambridge for the last two years. Basil Rudd, a Rhodes scholar from South Africa, may come to America as emergency runner, although his best distance is the half-mile.

Taber will leave England for the United States this week in order to make arrangements for the reception and quartering of the English university runners, since he has taken much of the responsibility for the trip and the management of the team upon his own shoulders. The other members of the quartet will leave early in April, and, according to the present plans, will do their preliminary training at Brown University, Providence, where Taber is thoroughly familiar with both track and climatic conditions. The final week previous to the games will be spent at Philadelphia, in order that the English team may become accustomed to the quarter-mile cinder track upon which the race will be run.

Every one of this quartet has repeatedly run the mile well under 4:30, which would give the team an aggregate time of eighteen minutes for the four miles. Under favorable conditions of track and weather, and presuming that the English runners are not affected by climatic changes, it is expected that if the team is hard pushed the time will be much nearer seventeen than eighteen minutes. The Pennsylvania relay four-mile record is 17:55, made by the Cornell team of 1911, and the best American outdoor record 17:51 1-5, made by the Boston Athletic Association team at Easton, Penn., last June.

The most formidable teams in sight at present are those of Pennsylvania, Cornell, and Michigan, but they are not considered better than eighteen-minute combinations at this time.

The success of the Rhodes scholars in the Oxford University Spring games, in which they won eight of the ten events, a success more pronounced than their success in the freshmen's sports in November last, proved a sad blow to the pride of England. The Americans won five of the events, Australia two, and South Africa one, the two remaining going to England. The attendance on the first day established a record, largely because of the interest in the mile race between Jackson and Taber. The fact that Jackson won by five yards in 4:22 3-5 was the one redeeming feature of the meet from an English standpoint. Taber ran so well, however, that it is likely that he will run in the mile for Oxford at the interuniversity sports with Cambridge on March 27, while Jackson will be reserved for the half-mile event.

BILLIARD PLAYERS TIED.

Gardner and Poggenburg Unbeaten in Class A Championship.

STANDING OF THE PLAYERS.

	Won.	Lost.	High Av'ge.	High Run.
E. W. Gardner	3	0	11 15-35	94
J. F. Poggenburg	3	0	11 26-34	56

C. Heddon	0	3	12 10-21	54
E. L. Milburn	0	4	10 17-29	70

The first week of the national amateur billiard championship tournament in Class A 18.2 balk line at the Amateur Billiard Club of New York has resulted in Edward W. Gardner of the Arion Society and J. Ferdinand Poggenburg of the Liederkranz leading the field of seven contestants without a defeat. Both are former champions. Gardner has defeated Dr. Uffenheimer, Brown, and Heddon; while Poggenburg has tallied over Dr. Uffenheimer, Milburn, and Heddon.

Poggenburg, whose billiards has been of a constructive order, will have his hardest contest of the tournament tonight, when he meets Joseph Mayer, the champion of last year. Brown, who put up the record run of the tournament, a cluster of 105, against Milburn, will meet Dr. Walter E. Uffenheimer in the matinée match this afternoon.

Women will be admitted to the afternoon and evening games this week, because of the great number of applications received from women who wished to witness the matches.

ROWING SEASON STARTS.

Many Boat Clubs Send Crews Over the Harlem River Course.

Yesterday's fine Spring weather brought out a number of oarsmen at the clubs along the Harlem River, and for the first time this season all kinds of shells, from eight-oared to singles, were seen in skirmishes up and down the course. The Metropolitan Rowing Club had out the largest delegation under Coach John Schultz. An eight-oared crew made up of juniors and seniors had several brushes and took a long spin up the river. In the crew were Baggs, stroke; Corbett, Callahan, Schofield, Kelly, Hart, Smith, Ingelkoffer, and Johnson, coxswain.

The Metropolitan centipede crew was also out, and was made up of Lund, C. Frolich, McGroden, and Schultz. Henry Heller, the junior single sculler, was out for the first time, and so was George Frolich, the senior sculler. The Lone Stars also started the season, putting an eight-oared junior crew and a centipede out for practice. The Harlems had out two doubles and some single scullers, while there was much activity at the Nationals' boathouse, where a centipede and two singles were out. The Bohemians also had several oarsmen on the river.

Pennant A. C. Novice Road Run.

The Pennant A. C. will hold its fourth annual novice road run on Sunday, April 26. The course is 3¾ miles, starting from the clubhouse to Bronx Oval and return. The prizes are among the best ever offered for a run of its kind. The first five men to finish will receive bronze prizes. There will be a special prize for the first Catholic A. L. and Church A. L. man to finish. A bronze statue is offered as a team prize. The race will be open to all registered athletes.

Henderson Leads Big Field.

H. Henderson of the New York A. C. won the invitation road run of the Bronxdale Athletic Club. The event was in preparation for the annual five-mile handicap road race of the club, which will be held next Sunday. Henderson led J. Costello of the New West Side A. C. by fifty yeards at the finish, with H. Nye of the Mohawks third.

State Amateur Boxing Tourney.

Entry blanks have been sent to all the clubs in the Metropolitan Association for the New York State amateur boxing championships, to be held under the auspices of the City Athletic Club, in their gymnasium, Tuesday and Saturday evenings, April 7 and 11. The classes to be contested for are 108, 115, 125, 135, 145, 158, 175 pounds, and heavyweight. The prizes to be awarded are gold 14 karat medal Metropolitan Association District die to the winners in each class; silver medal to second, and a prize as a souvenir will be given to the losers in the semi-final bouts. Entry blanks and other information can be obtained from Harry Meyers, 155 East Twenty-third Street; City Athletic Club, 50 West Fifty-fourth Street, and from B. Levine, 21 Warren Street, New York City. All athletes registered with the Metropolitan Association, A. A. U., residing in the State of New York, are eligible to compete in the championships, whether they represent a club, or compete unattached.

Wear and Tear Will Get Your Tire

No reasonable man expects to motor without paying for shoes. Every motorist knows that if he sends his car clumpety-clumping over all sorts and conditions of roads, with the wheels spinning around at umpty-ump revolutions per minute, his tires are going to eventually wear out. What the reasonable man wants is a reasonable run for his money. And because that reasonable run is so unusual we suggest—stop buying the tire fabric and buy, instead, tire service.

Empire Tires WEAR LONGEST

are the only tires being sold to-day on service basis. We are one jump ahead of every other tire concern because we build Empire Tires of Red Rubber. Red rubber is a comparatively new thought for tires. We thought of it. We made Empire Tires of it, and we're getting results that are astounding. At last we are able to say to motorists—buy a Red Rubber Empire Tire and when it's worn out, if you think that tire owes you anything, let us know and we will see that you are satisfied. That is tire service—100%. It is the sanest tire talk that you will ever hear.

Red rubber wears longer—not because it is red, but because of the way it is made. It does not depreciate or decompose as it grows older. Empire Tires of red rubber deliver full value received, because you have to wear them out. They won't depreciate standing still.

Leading supply dealers are selling Empire Red Rubber Tires. Garages can easily obtain them for clients.

The Empire Non-skid Tread is skid-proof and rut-proof.

Next time you buy a tire buy a Red Rubber Empire and begin to get on the right tire basis—full value in service—no gambling.

Dress your car up in the latest.

JOHN D.'S 250-TON FOUNTAIN

It Will Be Carved Out of Big Monolith to be Set Up at His Home.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., March 15.—It became known to-day what John D. Rockefeller is going to do with the monolith that he has bought for his estate. It is to be placed in front of his new mansion, and is to be carved into a huge fountain. The stone, which is said to weigh 250 tons, was discovered in Long Island. It is twenty feet wide, and is too large to be placed on a flat car, so a special boat has been chartered to bring it to Tarrytown. Here it will be transferred to a big truck and drawn to Pocantico.

This is going to be a herculean task, and will require one hundred teams. How it will be got up the hills has not been determined yet. The town Trustees are withholding permission for taking it through the streets until Mr. Rockefeller furnishes a bond.

It is said that Mr. Rockefeller searched all over the country to get a solid piece of rock large enough for his purpose, and that he paid a big price for the monolith.

SAYS TIMGAD RUINS ARE WORLD'S FINEST

W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Tells of Motor Trip to Ancient African Town.

WAS BUILT BY ROMANS

Work of Excavation Is Being Done by French Convicts—Fine Mosaic Work Discovered.

Swift changes of temperature and a wide variation in scenery are all part of the day's run if one happens to motor in portions of North Africa as did William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., in some journeyings which he describes in The Journal of the Automobile Club of America.

"Though it seems ridiculous to most people to speak of snow in Africa," writes Mr. Vanderbilt, "it is a fact that in this part of the world the temperature is very erratic. One hour the thermometer will be about zero up in the mountains, and the next hour, down on the desert, one is surrounded by palms and cacti. The road from Batna to Timgad, some thirty-eight kilometers in length, is in itself barren and uninteresting, rising at fourteen kilometers to an altitude of 3,800 feet. At Lambese, eleven kilometers from Batna, there are some fine Roman ruins which are plainly visible from the car, but as we were pressed for time we did not descend to inspect them. The wonderful work of excavation being carried on in this neighborhood now is being done by French convict labor, the men being lodged in a prison close to the road.

"Our route hitherto had been fairly straight, but now a series of turns was encountered, displaying some remarkably fine views as the car swung round the bends of the road, though one was constantly surprised at the universal dreariness of the surroundings. Why the Romans should ever have chosen this outlandish place to build their town is a mystery to me. There is not a tree in sight, the soil is not fit for tillage, there is no water, and the town, lying some two hundred kilometers inland from the sea, must have been very hard of access. Nevertheless, the old town, which in Roman days was a powerful garrisoned one, had some magnificent buildings; the ruins that remain to this day are by far the finest in the world, the famous ruins of Pompeii fading into insignificance beside them.

"We reached Timgad about 3 o'clock in the afternoon and drew up before the Hotel Timgad, which is owned by the proprietor of the Hotel des Etrangers at Batna. Between the hotels a motor omnibus service is maintained, thus affording the tourist a capital opportunity of visiting the ruins. The run is accomplished by this car in an hour, and, judging from the size of the vehicle and the road it is run on, I should simply hate to be one of the occupants while its mechanic was pushing it through on schedule time.

"Timgad, like Lambese, is being excavated by convicts, and I was fortunate in procuring some good pictures of the works and the vicinity, notwithstanding the fact that there was a drizzling rain falling at the time, necessitating an exceptionally long exposure of the films. The town of Timgad is of great interest. It was founded by Trajan about 100 A. D., and was built by Roman soldiers. Being at such a distance from civilization and surrounded by fierce tribes who made communication difficult, the town is rarely mentioned in history.

"It is known that the Arabs finally overwhelmed and destroyed the town about the beginning of the sixth century. The forum, the theatre, the Capitol, and the public baths, as well as the market place and the ancient temple site, are remarkably fine. The mosaic work to be seen in the museum is very interesting, being extraordinary in size and in a fine state of preservation. It is interesting to note that along the streets are still to be seen the ruts worn by the wheels of chariots in the slabs of stone with which the streets were paved. In fact, one could sit for hours in this wonderful old city studying the innumerable points of interest, but with us, as usual, it was a case of hurry, and we were obliged to cut short our investigations and retrace our steps over the same road back to Batna, where we once more descended at our hotel, having accomplished since the morning a day's run of 194 kilometers in three hours and forty minutes running time."

On the next day's journey there was a mishap to a tire while the party was still on the plains, and was on the point of descending the mountains. It was followed by fine running, however.

"Up to this point," writes Mr. Vanderbilt, "our route had been over a vast plain, similar to that of the day before, dreary and desert-like in appearance, with snow-capped mountains in the distance. This picture, in fact, is typical of the general scenery. From here onward a great change took place. Having made the necessary repairs to our car we immediately set off. The scenery become extremely fine, and suddenly we saw before us a vast drop in the face of the plain with a winding road leading downward into a huge valley below. A superb view of the surrounding country is obtained from this point, and in the far distance one sees the railroad continually bridging over chasms or tunneling through the rock, skirting close to the side of the mountains. Some beautiful color effects are produced in the distant hills, the results of deposits of minerals close to the surface."

NEW PROPOSED LAWS.

Merchants' Association Favors Some and Opposes Others.

The Merchants' Association of this city has recommended the passage of four Assembly bills. These are No. 162, regulating the transfer of goods in bulk; No. 205, giving laundrymen liens on goods in their possession to secure previously incurred indebtedness; No. 587, regulating the sale of goods in bulk to auctioneers, but which will be unnecessary if No. 162 is enacted, and No. 208, providing for the continuance of the Factory Investigating Commission.

Certain bills before the Legislature are disapproved. Among them are Assembly No. 198, for the filing of names of officers, &c., with County Clerks. This is already done with the Secretary of State. Another disapproved is the Pure Food and Drugs bill, because it is at variance with the Federal law. Others are Assembly No. 284, making valid a memorandum of sales made by sample, because it is defective; Assembly No. 377, amending the definition of conspiracy, and Assembly No. 490, in relation to containers of liquids.

The last mentioned is to amend the Brooks law on weights and measures by providing that it shall not apply to containers of liquids of two fluid ounces or less capacity. As to this, the association says: "The purpose of this is to permit the use of so-called 'panel' bottles, which greatly exaggerate the apparent contents of the containers. The effect of such containers is to deceive the public as to the quantity of the contents. The practice is essentially fraudulent."

FOR WORLD TRADE BUREAU.

Project Will Be Discussed at Chambers of Commerce Congress.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Announcement was made by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States to-night that a feature of the International Congress of Chambers of Commerce to be held in Paris in June would be a discussion of the proposal to establish a permanent bureau in Europe for "clearing" international matters affecting the business world. The International Congress meets biennially and it has been urged that so many big commercial questions are now pressing that there is much loss of time in dealing with them because the organization does not meet oftener. The proposed bureau would take care of such matters.

The principal committee of the International Congress will meet at Brussels next week to approve the programme for the coming meeting. Some of the matters that are to come up are:

1. Report of results obtained on resolutions of preceding congresses, particularly on the date of Easter, fixity of the calendar, and customs statistics.
2. Utility of international action against unfair competition.
3. Unification of legislation concerning arbitration to settle disputes between citizens of different countries.
4. Unification of laws relating to dock warrants.
5. Comparative study of insurance policies in international traffic.
6. Projected bill of lading, uniform as to general conditions, for casual or regular lines of steam navigation.
7. National and international postal money orders.
8. Unification of legislation on checks.

State Control Over Rates.

Acting on the report of its Transportation Committee, the Merchants' Association of this city has approved certain bills before the Legislature. These amend the public service law, giving the Public Service Commission power as to intrastate business to the same extent as the Interstate Commerce Commission has in interstate commerce. This includes the power to suspend rates and, in cases of advances in rates, to place the burden of proof upon the carrier to justify the advance, and to prescribe joint rates, terms, and conditions for the interchange of business between water and rail lines.

EASTER NUMBER OF
THE NEW YORK TIMES SUNDAY
MARCH 29, 1914

This is the most remarkable collection of old masters ever reproduced in full color by any newspaper or magazine in the world. The reproductions were made direct from the original oil paintings by the best color engraving process known to the arts; and the printing is on paper of such quality as to present each picture in a richness of color almost equal to the original canvas. Several of the pictures are full-page. Thirteen pictures in all; reproduced for the readers of The New York Times at a cost of more than Ten Thousand Dollars. Many were disappointed last December because they delayed in placing their orders for The New York Times superb Christmas Number with reproductions of Sargent's famous paintings. This Easter Number will surpass in beauty every previous special number issued by The New York Times or by any other newspaper. The entire edition is sure to be sold out in advance.

Reproduced through the courtesy of the Executors of the Altman Estate.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION IN AMERICA AND EUROPE

Financial activities have been much curtailed during recent weeks. This is seen in the stock market, but even more noteworthy is the slackening of activity which has occurred in the bond market. The return to great money ease early in the year has exerted its primary influence, and its secondary influence is being retarded by other factors. Sooner or later money plenty leads the way to enlarged commercial and industrial undertakings, but this process is a much slower one than the improvement in security values which easy money brings about. In the present instance it is being collaterally retarded by the doubts which business men feel regarding the influence of Governmental activities.

The decision last week of the United States Express Company to go into liquidation furnishes a surface indication of the part which those doubts are playing in the general business and financial situation. That company's decision to retire from business was due to legislative rather than to fundamental economic factors. This incident is not inconsequential even if it be regarded as an isolated case, but if it be considered as the outcropping of broad tendencies which are influencing important commercial undertakings it assumes a much more serious aspect. The retirement of one express company from the field does not in itself prove the unfairness of the Government competition to which it has been subjected, or of the rate decrease imposed upon it by Governmental order, but it certainly brings forward in very concrete form questions in respect to the effect of public regulation which should be carefully answered.

The financial community feels that in the railroad rate case a still larger matter is at stake. An express company can go out of business; a railroad cannot. But its normal activities can be checked, and its service impaired, and from that there will be no escape if the margin of net earnings becomes too seriously impaired. Many lines of trade are operating under disadvantage because of the restrictions under which the railroads are working. The longer this question is left open the more important becomes its influence as a factor in general business. This is only one phase of the broad situation presented in the relation of Government to business, but it is the one which at the moment assumes most concrete form.

Uncertainty regarding the part which politics, in the broad sense of the word, will play in the shaping of business is the chief restrictive influence at this time. There are many undertakings which would go forward on a broader scale were it not for this uncertainty. This offers one of the chief explanations of the lessening of financial activity to which reference has been made. Last week's stock market was a small affair, both in the volume of trading and in the general movement of prices. Firm, and then reactionary, and later showing improvement, there was relatively little net change in the general level of prices. There were, however, wide movements in a number of issues which were subjected to special influences. Some signs of trade improvement were supplied, but the movement forward is not found to be as rapid as it most probably would be if economic factors alone were considered without reference to political considerations.

A good deal of encouragement was afforded by the unexpectedly favorable statement of the Steel Corporation's unfilled orders, which showed an increase of 412,000 tons during February. These figures were greeted with a considerable show of strength in the stock market, although it appeared that they were more favorable than the showing made last month by the steel trade as a whole. The reduction in the number of idle freight cars was also satisfactory, although adverse weather in the latter half of February no doubt was a factor in lowering the number of idle cars. Industrial reports for last year which came to hand made a mixed showing, the Bethlehem Steel earnings proving unexpectedly large and the best in the company's history, while the American Sugar Company's report showed a heavy decline in earnings. The American Tobacco Company, another of the big manufacturing companies which reported for 1913, showed earnings still large, although under those of the previous year. Bank clearings for the week again showed a decline, but a smaller one than those reported in preceding weeks. Railroad earnings continue to show declines compared with the corresponding period last year.

Against the unfavorable influences of the week were set up such matters as the increase in the Western Union's dividend from 3 to 4 per cent., the gratifying results which attended the public offering of the $4,000,000 Third Avenue Railroad bond issue, and in specific price movements the recoveries which occurred toward the end of the week in a number of issues, which had been adversely affected by the news developments of earlier days. Chesapeake & Ohio, St. Paul, American Sugar, and the Rock Island bonds were among the issues which regained lost ground and which helped to give firmness to the rest of the market toward the close of the week. New Haven was for a time in this category, but it fell off sharply on Saturday because of the increasing difficulty which seemed to surround the formulation of a plan for dissolution acceptable to the Department of Justice. Money movements also favored this market. The cessation of gold exports to France and the beginning of an inflow from Canada contributed to this result. After four weeks of declines in the surplus reserve of the Clearing House institutions, Saturday's statement showed a round gain in that item. Also loans showed a decrease. All of this was favorable in its immediate aspects, although some reservation must be made in thus regarding the course of money for the reason that slackness of trade is one of the factors which contributes to present low rates.

Several interesting contributions were made last week to the discussion of the position of commercial paper under the rules which are to be laid down for the government of the Federal reserve banks. There is every reason to assume that the Federal Reserve Board, in acting on this matter, will avoid any sudden change from present practices which might seriously disturb business mechanism. It must be borne in mind, however, that the question now under consideration is not what class of commercial paper shall hereafter be discounted by the national and other banks but merely what class of paper shall be construed as acceptable for rediscount at the Federal reserve banks. It is not proposed to do away with any existing facilities for the discounting of any class of paper which is now accepted by the banks, but it is proposed to add new facilities of rediscount which the banks have not heretofore enjoyed. It is proper for a variety of reasons that paper should be more closely defined for the purposes of the Federal reserve banks than for the ordinary purposes of discount. No class of paper now accepted by the banks will be barred to them merely because a more closely defined standard is to be set up in connection with the establishment of the new rediscounting facilities to be afforded by the Federal reserve system. No work now under way is more important than the establishment of the new banking system upon an absolutely sound foundation, and it is eminently proper that the highest possible standard should be set up for the operations of the new banks. That, so far from incommoding the business world, will greatly aid it.

LONDON MARKETS FIRM.

Everything Waits, However, on the Settlement of the Ulster Question.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 15.—The general tendency of the markets at the end of the week was firmer. The outlook for consols and other gilt-edged securities was bright, because of the abundance of money, in spite of the collection of revenue by the Government that is in progress.

London is little disturbed by the quarrel between Germany and Russia, reported by the press, which is believed to have no real significance. The Ulster question is at least no worse, but the settlement hangs fire. Premier Asquith is to explain on Monday the details of the scheme for the exclusion of the Ulster counties that may desire it.

The markets were depressed by the Brazilian and Mexican troubles. It is believed that a fresh financial scheme is needed to get the Brazilian Government over its difficulties.

The American market is still neglected, and trading was idle and dull at the week-end.

Everything is waiting for the settlement of the Ulster question, news of the Brazilian financial scheme, and the Government disbursements to be made at the end of the month.

PARIS GUARDEDLY EXPECTANT

Awaits Outcome of Tales of Friction Between Germany and Russia.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 15.—The French electioneering campaign begins contemporaneously with the end of the March Bourse settlement. It is useless, therefore, to look for business activity until the internal political situation has settled down around the new Chamber.

Without personal initiative, the Bourse mildly reflected the foreign events of the week, which were discouraging, despite Premier Doumergue's colorless declaration on foreign politics. His total failure to mention Germany depicts precisely France's attitude of guarded expectancy on the war-mongering stories of the newspapers of Russia an Germany.

The rente conundrum is the most intricate feature of the sitnation. Finance Minister Caillaux changes his dogma while the Senate Committee unanimously, and the Senate by a small majority, reject his latest proposal for a taxe on rentes, thus making it impossible to pass the bill at this session.

BERLIN TENDENCY DOWNWARD

American Securities Fell Off Continuously Because of Mexico.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, March 15.—The Boerse had a dull week, and the prevailing tendency was downward. The market feels the lack of outside support and business is confined mainly to professionals.

The foreign markets failed to afford any stimulation, and New York, especially, encouraged the bears. All American securities lost ground steadily, the fall being influenced chiefly by the effect of the latest Mexican developments on Wall Street. The news from America finally supplied a slight stimulus yesterday, but failed to affect the general market.

The week opened under the influence of the pessimistic newspaper discussion of relations between Russia and Germany, which continued to bear prices for several days. Finally semi-official assurances from St. Petersburg allayed alarm and stimulated somewhat Friday's and Saturday's markets. Russian securities suffered severely during the tempest in a teapot, but they recovered later on Russian buying.

The discount market is tending higher for short bills, owing to the heavy offers of paper in connection with preparations for quarterly payments. Calls were easy on the accumulations, awaiting the settlement, and the Reichsbank strengthened its position.

TO RAISE $2,000,000 LOAN.

Canadian Premier Going to England to Obtain Money.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., March 15.—Much interest was expressed to-day in the efforts of the Colonial Government to negotiate a loan of $2,000,000 for railroad development to which the administration is pledged. Sir Edward Morris, the Premier, left for London yesterday by way of New York, and Gov. W. E. Davidson will leave direct for Liverpool on Wednesday for the purpose of trying to raise the money.

Before Sir Edward left the appointment was announced of Richard Anderson Squires as Minister of Justice, succeeding Donald Morison, who declined reappointment. Sydney Darius Blandford was reappointed Minister of Agriculture. Both filled empty places in the Legislative Council, and took portfolios that have been vacant since Morison and Blandford were defeated in the general election last November.

The Lehigh Coal & Navigation Co.
Consolidated Mortgage 4½% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds
Due January 1st, 1954.

Secured by direct lien upon the coal, railroad and canal properties of the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Co., which was incorporated in 1822. It is estimated that this Company controls about 10% of the total reserve tonnage of the anthracite fields of Pennsylvania and that at the present rate of production it has sufficient supplies of coal to continue mining operations for more than one hundred and fifty years.

Net earnings are at the rate of about 3½ times fixed charges. A sinking fund is maintained of 5 cents per ton of coal mined.

Price and description on application.

TO THE HOLDERS OF THE

Five Per Cent. Mortgage Gold Bonds

OF THE

CENTRAL ELECTRIC RAILWAY COMPANY
(of Kansas City, Missouri),

DUE MAY 1, 1914:

In view of the maturity on May 1, 1914, of the above-mentioned Bonds, and of the fact that there have already matured large issues of bonds and notes of the Kansas City Railway and Light Company and of its controlled company, the Metropolitan Street Railway Company of Kansas City, Missouri, secured in part upon the same property as that upon which the above-mentioned Bonds of the Central Electric Railway Company are secured (such property being now owned by said Metropolitan Street Railway Company and operated by its Receivers), and in view of the pending negotiations for a new street railway franchise in Kansas City, the conditions whereof may vitally affect the interests of all holders of securities resting upon the properties belonging to the companies mentioned, the undersigned, holding and representing a large amount of the Bonds (certain of the undersigned being also members of committees representing said bonds and notes of the Kansas City Railway and Light Company and of said Metropolitan Street Railway Company and being familiar with the affairs and properties of all said companies), believe it of importance that the holders of the Bonds of the Central Electric Railway Company above-mentioned be in a position for prompt and concerted action, and have therefore consented to act as a Committee for the protection of the interests of the holders of these Bonds.

Holders of the Bonds are requested to deposit their Bonds on or before APRIL 15, 1914, with THE NEW YORK TRUST COMPANY, 26 Broad Street, New York City, the Depositary under an agreement dated March 10, 1914, providing for such deposits. Transferable certificates of deposit will be issued therefor. Deposits may also be made with the OLD COLONY TRUST COMPANY, 17 Court Street, Boston, the Agent of the Depositary. The Committee will endeavor to arrange for the payment of the May 1, 1914, coupons direct to the holders thereof. To avoid complications resulting from the income tax law and regulations, these coupons should be detached and retained by the holders of the Bonds for collection in the usual manner when due. The Committee will collect the interest maturing on the Bonds after May 1, 1914, if and as paid, and when received will promptly pay such interest to the holders of certificates of deposit representing the Bonds in respect whereof such payments of interest shall be made.

Copies of the Deposit Agreement may be obtained by application either to the Depositary or to its Agent above mentioned. More detailed information may be obtained by application to the Secretary of the Committee.

To the Holders of the Six Per Cent. Twenty-Year First Mortgage Gold Bonds of the MISSOURI RIVER POWER COMPANY.

You will please take notice that, pursuant to the provisions of Article Fourth of the mortgage made by the MISSOURI RIVER POWER COMPANY to the COLONIAL TRUST COMPANY, as Trustee, dated November 1st, 1900, the MONTANA POWER COMPANY, as successor to the Missouri River Power Company, has called for payment through the office of the undersigned, No. 37 Wall Street, New York City, on May 1st, 1914, all of the said Six Per Cent. Twenty-Year First Mortgage Gold Bonds of the Missouri River Power Company issued under said mortgage, at 105 and accrued interest. Interest on said bonds will cease on May 1st, 1914, upon prior deposit with the undersigned of the amount of said premium, principal, and accrued interest then due.

New York, N. Y., February 11th, 1914.

THE EQUITABLE TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, (Successor to Colonial Trust Company,)
By LYMAN RHOADES, Vice-President.

CHINO COPPER COMPANY.
First Mortgage Convertible Gold Bonds.

Notice is hereby given that Chino Copper Company has notified the undersigned Trustee of its intention to redeem on July 1, 1914, all of its outstanding First Mortgage Convertible Gold Bonds issued under its Mortgage Deed of Trust to the Bankers Trust Company, as Trustee, bearing date July 1, 1911, and that all of such bonds will be paid off and redeemed on and after said July 1, 1914, out of moneys to be deposited by said Company with the undersigned for that purpose, and not otherwise, at the office of the undersigned, 16 Wall Street, Manhattan, New York City, at the rate of 110% of their par value, and interest accrued to said date, upon surrender of such bonds and all coupons now unmatured thereon, and that after July 1, 1914, said bonds will cease to draw interest. The rights of the holders of said bonds to convert the same into stock of the Chino Copper Company shall continue only until and including said July 1, 1914.

BANKERS TRUST COMPANY, Trustee.
Dated, March 16, 1914.

TO THE HOLDERS OF FIRST MORTGAGE 6 PER CENT. BONDS OF THE AMERICAN SEWER PIPE COMPANY (FORMERLY AMERICAN CLAY MANUFACTURING COMPANY):

The undersigned, successor to the Knickerbocker Trust Company, as trustee under the mortgage above referred to, will, under authority of said mortgage, receive offers of bonds of said issue to the extent of $50,000 on or before March 31, 1914, at 12 o'clock noon.

Sealed offers of said bonds may be sent to the Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Company, 60 Broadway, New York City.

The right is reserved to reject any and all offers so made.

Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Company, Trustee.
By George E. Warren, Trust Officer.
Dated New York, March 2, 1914.

DIVIDENDS.

VIRGINIA RAILWAY & POWER CO.

149 Broadway, New York, March 10th, 1914.

The Transfer Books will not be closed. Dividend cheques will be mailed.

G. B. WILLIAMS, Treasurer.

To substitute long-time merchandise credits will help the large and rich dealer at the expense of the man who is short of cash but long of character and ability.

This is the subject of a most instructive human-interest article by Edward D. Page in THE ANNALIST out to-day. It sets forth the effect which proposed changes in commercial paper may have upon the cost of doing business and indirectly upon the cost of living. Other articles include a description of big developments in Germany by Dr. Karl Helfferich; the biography of a railroad rate; the complexity of the merchandise distribution systems of to-day by a Western merchant; the international gold movement and how to regulate it. THE ANNALIST is published every Monday, and is the leading weekly journal of finance, commerce and economics. Subscription rate, $4 per year. Single copies, 10 cents. All newsdealers.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Temperature continues above the seasonal average generally, although readings in the Northwest are considerably lower than on Saturday. With the exception of a disturbance of moderate intensity over the region of the Great Lakes, no storm appears within the field of observation. The indications are that the weather will be generally fair Monday and Tuesday throughout the country, except that local rains are probable Monday in Northern New York and Northern New England. Temperature will be lower Monday in the Middle Plains States, the Middle and Upper Mississippi Valleys, and the upper lake region, and Tuesday in the Southwestern States, the lower Mississippi and Ohio Valleys, and the Middle Atlantic States. No unusually low temperatures are probable, however, in any part of the country during the next several days.

FORECAST TO-DAY AND TO-MORROW.

Northern New England—Cloudy Monday, probably followed by local rains; Tuesday fair; moderate east to south winds.

Eastern New York—Fair south, local rains north portion Monday; Tuesday fair, colder south portion; moderate south winds.

Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey—Fair Monday; Tuesday fair and cooler; moderate south winds.

Western New York—Cloudy, with local rains Monday; Tuesday fair, brisk south to west winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1913.	1914.		1913.	1914.
3 A. M.	57	37	4 P. M.	53	56
6 A. M.	55	37	6 P. M.	59	52
9 A. M.	54	36	9 P. M.	58	47
12 M.	58	47	11 P. M.	60	45

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 46; for the corresponding date last year it was 58; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 37.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 37; at 8 P. M. it was 50; maximum temperature, 56 degrees at 4 P. M.; minimum, 36 degrees at 9 A. M. Humidity, 69 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 48 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.05 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.14 inches.

Three Times As Bountiful

A recent advertiser in the Business Opportunities column of The New York Times says: "Comparison of results from The New York Times with results from other New York newspapers is interesting. My advertisement in The New York Times brought three times as many replies as the combined number from the other two newspapers, and my responses through The Times were superior. I expect to complete shortly a transaction already begun with a Times reader."

Telephone advertisements to The Times—1000 Bryant.

The net paid circulation of The New York Times—both daily and Sunday—is greater than that of any other New York morning newspaper, The World and The American alone excepted.

CLASSIFY PRISONERS, DR. DAVIS DEMANDS

Lack of Any Such System the Worst Feature of City Jails Now, She Tells Y. M. C. A.

TO TEST OUTDOOR LIFE

First Group of Men and Boys to be Sent Out This Week to a Farm Colony.

"New York City has no right to go on making criminals of unfortunates who desire to lead upright lives," was one of the emphatic statements made yesterday by Dr. Katharine B. Davis, appointed Commissioner of Correction, at a meeting in the West Side Young Men's Christian Association.

In her talk, which was on "The City's Duty Toward Its Prisoners," Miss Davis severely criticised present conditions on Blackwell's Island, laying special stress on the lack of classification of prisoners as the principal evil of the system, and told briefly of her plans for improving the system during her term of office. She laid most of the blame on lack of funds for this department of the city's work, and said she thought this was due to the ignorance of the public of the real conditions and the department's needs. Miss Davis also told of the department's plan to send a small group of boys on Wednesday from the reformatory to a farm, where they are to be put on their honor in a camp.

"I think the Department of Correction has been neglected in the past," Miss Davis said. "I don't think it is the most important in the city, but I think its needs have been underestimated, and its appropriations too small. This is because the people have not known what was needed. I propose to tell the city what we are doing and propose to do.

"There is too little land on Blackwell's Island to accommodate the present buildings, which were not designed for the number of prisoners in them, and we can build no more there. The buildings are deplorably overcrowded, and there is no room to give inmates outdoor work and exercise.

"We don't need a grand jury investigation to convince us that our system is far from perfect and reform is needed. But we need more money to reform.

"The worst feature of New York's present prison system, however, is lack of classification. I asked each Warden and keeper to submit to me a report on his idea of the best plan to make our prisons the best institutions of their kind in the country. Classification was the principal method suggested. A few days ago I summoned six male prisoners from their cells and asked them the same question. The first, an intelligent young Austrian, said he was one of the many prisoners who wanted to be as decent as possible while in prison and to 'live right' when he got out. He said there were a number who spent their nights in cursing and that association with hardened criminals stunted and perverted the thoughts of the average inmate who, otherwise, might learn a lesson from imprisonment. He was right. Classification is the thing we need first and most, and the thing I am going to work at hardest. At present there is no method of separating even the diseased from the healthy.

"Personally, I do not believe in short sentences for prisoners, but even with short sentences we should give them outdoor work, for which there is no room on Blackwell's Island. Those who are confined for long periods should be taught trades. In this way prison industries, of which I am heartily in favor, would be developed, and ex-convicts would be able to earn a livelihood after discharge. At present we make brooms for the Street Cleaning Department, and it complains it can get better ones in the open market for less money. I want to see this phase of the work put on a business basis.

"Just at present we have one reform under way in which I have a great deal of faith. On Wednesday ten boys from the reformatory will start a new system on the 100 acres of undeveloped farm land we have bought at New Hampton. They will be accompanied by five Cornell graduates, and their first work will be to build themselves bunkhouses. During the Summer we hope to have as many as 75 or 100 boys on the farm. They will be left entirely on their honor at first, the young men from the Cornell Agriculture Department accompanying them only to guide and instruct in farming, and for the whole group it will amount to camp life. We had the land, and did not want to wait for money enough to erect the permanent buildings necessary for the farm, and so we're starting out with the experiment at once, and trusting that the money will be forthcoming later. The 'boys' range in age from 16 to 30, and ought to make good farmers and campers.

"Another improvement we have determined to begin is the new detention house for women, in which we plan to include the present detention and district prisons for women in Manhattan. Beneath it will be the Magistrates' courts. Here we shall insist on careful classification of girls and women, placing twelve prisoners in a group or class.

"For the improvements needed, as well as the improvements we are starting, we need money, though, and feel that we ought to have a generous share during the next four years. I don't know what should follow the improvements named, but personally favor a new workhouse, and next proper classification."

HELD FOR FALSE "ADS."

Trenton Merchant Arrested on Woman Customer's Complaint.

TRENTON, N. J., March 15.—The movement against "false advertising" which was started by the Chamber of Commerce of this city resulted this afternoon in the arrest of John T. Dunham of S. P. Dunham & Co., dry goods merchants, of this place. Bessie Lidski of Spring Street, Trenton, alleged that she bought a dress for $4.98 at the Dunham store which she said was advertised to be worth $10. She asserts the dress is not worth $10

Dunham was held in $500 bail for trial by Justice of the Peace Kelsey.

Cubist Ball at Biltmore.

A cubist ball is to be given on the evening of Easter Monday in the Biltmore ballroom under the auspices of Auxiliary 19 of Stony Wold for the benefit of its work in aiding tuberculosis convalescents. During the evening there are to be three exhibition dances in the ballroom to interpret futurist, post-impressionist, and cubist paintings. The members of the Executive Committee are the Misses Helen Sloan, Ina Kissel, Alice Wardwell, Katharine Crane, Alice Fox, Helen Maclay, Marion Dell Carrere, Anita Emmet, and Mrs. George B. Franklin.

NOT DOROTHY ARNOLD.

Los Angeles Girl's Story the Result of Disordered Mind.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 15.—The girl who declared yesterday that she was Dorothy Arnold, and who seemed to know intimately friends of the missing girl in New York, is not Dorothy Arnold and has never been in or near New York. This was proved to-day after a long investigation into the girl's past.

It was found that the girl, whose maiden name was Ella Splawn, was born in Arizona twenty-two years ago, and has lived in Los Angeles for over six years. She has been known to the Police Department for five years. On May 18, 1912, she married Charles Odell, a taxicab driver.

He said to-day that the story she told was the result of mental disorder. Recently she had undergone a serious operation, he said. Under the name of Mabel De More she obtained from the New York police the facts relating to the Arnold case, and equipped with this information she declared the identity which her disordered fancy had conferred on her.

Mrs. Odell was arrested to-night charged with passing bad checks. The police believe that others wrote the checks and made her pass them.

The story telegraphed from Los Angeles Saturday night that the long-missing Dorothy Arnold, daughter of Francis R. Arnold of 108 East Seventy-ninth Street, had been found in that city was quickly proved false yesterday. Mr. Arnold himself gave out a statement showing that he had heard of the Los Angeles woman some weeks ago, and that investigation had proved that she was not his missing daughter.

WHAT HOTCHKISS SAID.

Didn't Disagree with Other Justices on Becker Case.

Supreme Court Justice Henry D. Hotchkiss, who was represented in THE TIMES yesterday as disagreeing with Presiding Justice Ingraham on the Becker decision in the Court of Appeals, said yesterday in a letter to THE TIMES that this view was wrong, and that he concurred in the opinions of Justice Ingraham and others who spoke on the Becker case at the New York County Lawyers' dinner.

This is Justice Hotchkiss's letter:

SUPREME COURT,
Appellate Division, First Department.
New York, March 15, 1914.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your account of the dinner given last evening by the New York County Lawyers' Association to the Judges of the Court of Appeals, you report me as having expressed views concerning the Becker case opposed to those entertained by Mr. Presiding Justice Ingraham. This is a mistake. In my brief speech I made no reference whatever to the Becker case. I did refer to the recent case of the four Police Inspectors, but what I said concerning it was upon a point wholly different from anything involved in the Becker case or anything that was said by Judge Ingraham or anybody else concerning that case. Although what I may think is of little importance, I may add that what was said by the several speakers concerning the Becker case and the Judges who decided it has my entire concurrence.

Inasmuch as your publication is unjust and has caused me considerable annoyance, I would esteem it a favor if you would publish this correction.

Respectfully yours,
HENRY D. HOTCHKISS.

RALLY OF IRISHWOMEN.

Mass Meeting to Protest Against Ulster Exclusion.

A mass meeting is being organized by Irish-American women to protest against what they term "the mutilation of Ireland" by permitting Ulster to be excluded from the jurisdiction of the Irish Parliament, as contemplated in the Home Rule bill. It is hoped to hold the mass meeting in Carnegie Hall a week from to-night.

All the Irish organizations in New York, it was stated, had offered their hearty support and moral backing to the projectors of the "Rally of Irish Women." Among the patrons are J. I. C. Clark, Thomas Hunter, John Campbell of the Ulster Literary Theatre, Mr. Devlin of the Belfast Gaelic Society, William Lyons, President of the State Gaelic League; Thomas Addis Emmet, and John J. Rooney. Several well-known women will speak.

The initiators of the movement are Dr. Gertrude B. Kelly, 507 Madison Avenue, and Miss Anna E. McAuliffe, Vice President of the Interborough Association of Women Teachers. Miss Eleanor Rogers Cox has written a poem for the occasion.

DYING OF OLD WOUND.

Man Who Refused to Have Leg Amputated Gets Blood Poison.

Dr. Seward, head of the staff of Gouverneur Hospital, said last night that James O'Rourke of 12 Pelham Street had developed blood poisoning from a bullet wound in his right hip, inflicted on Jan. 18 and would die. The bullet shattered the bone, but O'Rourke refused to permit an amputation, saying he would rather die than lose his leg. O'Rourke has also refused to tell the police and Coroner Hellenstein who shot him.

The police arrested three men shortly after a shooting in which O'Rourke got his wound. One of them, Morris Galary of 235 Cherry Street, is out on $1,500 bail. The other men who are in the Tombs are William Friedlander of 274 Cherry Street and Rubin Weinberg of 34 Henry Street. O'Rourke is 21 years old. His alleged assailants are younger. If he should die the charge against them would become murder instead of felonious assault, as at present.

Bullets Stop East Side Dance.

The Edward Kennedy Association ball was going on in Progress Casino, 28 Avenue A, yesterday afternoon, when several of the dancers started to eject one of the company, to whose behavior they objected. The man fought, and, when overcome by odds, drew a revolver and fired two shots. Neither bullet hit any one, but the 400 dancers scattered and gave the man a wide berth. He ran out of the hall, and, turning into Third Street, threw away his revolver, ran into 152 East Third Street, and escaped over the roofs. The excitement caused a crowd to collect, and the police ordered the dancers out of the hall.

TO AID WOMEN IN NEED.

Professional Women Organize to Serve Unfortunate Without Charge.

The Professional Women's Aid Association, an organization to give medical, surgical, and dental treatment, and legal advice free to women in need, was formed on Saturday night at the Women's Municipal League and University Settlement, 46 East Twenty-ninth Street. The association has sixty members, and on the Executive Committee are Mrs. Fannie Horovitz, a lawyer, of 207 East Tenth Street; Drs. Beatrice and Theodore Kutyn, dentists; Miss Anna Kleinert, a lawyer, and Miss Amelia Donovan, a teacher.

When the organization has been completed the association expects that 500 of the 900 professional women in the city will join it. The association plans to obtain money for a building through the subscriptions of its members, public subscriptions, and by the proceeds of benefit balls and performances. The qualifications for joining the association are that the applicant shall be a graduate of a college or university. Members must serve without pay and be prepared to answer emergency calls of the Executive Committee.

The building of the association is to have operating rooms and offices for physicians, surgeons, dentists, and lawyers. Mrs. Horovitz, Chairman of the Executive Committee, said last night that any woman in the city who required aid could obtain it for the asking.

"Overhead charges in charitable work have done much to retard charities," said Mrs. Horovitz. "There will be impositions, of course, but it is better to be imposed on occasionally than that deserving cases should be excluded on suspicion.

ATTACKS WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

Mrs. Oliphant Says Movement is for Sex Revolution.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—An attack on woman suffrage is contained in a signed statement by Mrs. Orville D. Oliphant, General Secretary of the New Jersey State Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, given out here to-night from the Washington headquarters of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

"Woman suffrage is the keystone in the arch of feminism," Mrs. Oliphant said, "and feminism as outlined by the suffragists appears to be a revolt against the true duties, responsibilities, and ideals of womanhood."

Mrs. Oliphant quotes Mrs. Chrystal Chrisman Benedict, who recently appeared before the House Judiciary Committee, as having declared herself an exalted and fanatical believer in feminism. Other quotations are given from a statement by Mrs. Mary Bennet Ware, a suffrage leader, at a Trenton mass meeting, and from the suffrage pamphlet, "Bondwomen," published in New York City, and then after crediting certain feminist statements to Max Eastman and Cicely Hamilton, Mrs. Oliphant comments on these quotations as follows:

"That feminism is a live and vital issue of the suffrage campaign is a fact, because their official campaign literature urges and demands feminism; their speakers preach feminism; their 'Case for Woman Suffrage' praises feminism, and the official catalogue of the National Woman Suffrage Association commends and advertises feminism. The women opposed to suffrage stand for the conservation of the home, the suffragists for the sex revolution which means the disruption of the home. Shall we abandon honor, morality, and civilization at the call of a minority of women whose slogan is 'Votes for Women,' but whose evident intention is a sex revolution?"

Most Remarkable Fête in the History of New York

Waldorf-Astoria
Wednesday, March 18th
9:45 P. M.

An assemblage of debutantes and other well-known women of society, the stage, and of the world of music, sculpture, and art under the patronage of the Governor of the State of New York and Mrs. Glynn and the Mayor of the City of New York and Mrs. Mitchel.

The entire proceeds will be for the benefit of the unemployed women of New York.

HERE IS THE NOTABLE PROGRAMME:

1. Prologue . . . . By William Faversham
2. Mlle. Bori and Signor Segurola of the Metropolitan Opera Company in a Goldoni Sketch. Miss Elsie de Wolfe, dance—"Phantasy of Fountains."
3. Kurt Schindler with Sixteenth Century Music.
4. "Rise and Fall of Venice."

Among those who will appear in its brilliant scenes are: Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Mrs. Cooper Hewitt, Mrs. Henry Clews, Mrs. Archer Huntington, Mrs. Amos Pinchot, Mrs. C. B. Alexander, Mrs. Payne Whitney, Mrs. Hamilton Russell, Mrs. Walter Maynard, Miss Caroline Duer, Mrs. Arthur Scott Burden, Mrs. Howard Cushing, Miss Angelica Brown, Miss Cutting, Miss Alice Damrosch, and 300 others.

Reserved seats and boxes may be purchased from Miss Sylvia Wilder, Room 116, Vanderbilt Hotel. Telephone, Murray Hill 7100. Admission tickets, including dancing after the performance, with Conrad's two orchestras, may be obtained at five dollars each at Tyson's ticket office, Waldorf-Astoria.

Who Is Mr. Wilson?

"The Columbia has scored what is undoubtedly the greatest triumph in the history of dance recording by securing for this important branch the one man who, above all others, is responsible for the renaissance of dancing in America, and who is the greatest living authority on the subject, Mr. G. Hepburn Wilson. Many of the most prominent instructors now teaching the new dances owe their success to Mr. Wilson's training."
